

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK, sc.

BE IT REMEMBERED, that on the Fifteenth day of June, in the thirty-eighth year of the Independence of the United States of America, WILLIAM S. PARKER and PELLATIAH BLISS, of the said District, have deposited in this office the title of a Book the right whereof they claim as proprietors, in the words following, to wit:

In conformity to the Act of the Congress of the United States, entitled "An Act for the encouragement of Learning, by securing the copies of Maps, Charts, and Books to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the time therein mentioned." And also to an Act, entitled "an Act supplementary to an Act, entitled an Act for the encouragement of Learning, by securing the copies of Maps, Charts, and Books to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the times therein mentioned, and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of designing, engraving and etching historical and other prints."

THERON RUDD,
Clerk of the Southern District of New-York.

EXTRACTS

FROM THE AUTHOR'S ADVERTISEMENT.

THE materials of this Grammar are collected from the best Grammarians, chiefly from Mr. Ruddiman. In this edition there are several improvements. The Syntax is greatly enlarged, by the addition of many useful observations and examples; and particularly by a full explanation of the different meaning and construction of Verbs and Prepositions, and of those phrases which occasion most difficulty to learners, collected from the Classics, and from the best writers on Latinity.

By the natural division of words and sentences into Simple and Compound, no rule or example is introduced in Syntax or Prosody, till the learner is properly prepared, by what goes before, to understand it; which is not the case in the Latin Grammars commonly used: where, not to mention other instances, the construction of the Relative, which requires a previous acquaintance with most of the other rules of construction, is placed near the beginning of Syntax; and, what appears still more preposterous, in Prosody, the rules concerning the quantity of compounds are placed before those concerning the quantity of simple words. These improprieties in arrangement occasion greater inconvenience to learners than is generally imagined.

After the Syntax, there is a brief account and explanation of the various Tropes and Figures of words and of thought, which occur in the Classics, compiled from the most approved authors, chiefly from Quintilian, and Marsais sur les Tropes.

The greatest care has every where been taken, to make the translation of Latin words and phrases subservient to the knowledge of English. These, and several other particulars not mentioned, it is hoped, will be found to be improvements of some importance in the plan of Education.

ADVERTISEMENT

OF THE PRESIDENT AND TRUSTEES OF WILLIAMS' COLLEGE.

THE inconvenience and disadvantage experienced both by instructors and students, from the use of different Latin Grammars, render it highly expedient to establish a uniformity in this College. Adam's Latin Grammar, which by very good judges, is considered as the best and most complete Grammar of the Latin Language, has for several years been generally used in this seminary. But the English part of this Grammar, which very considerably increases its size and price, is found by experience to be not only useless but very inconvenient to the student and instructor. An Abridgment of this Grammar having been shewn to us, in which the English part, and other useless parts are omitted, we hereby recommend this cheap, abridged and more convenient Edition to all students who expect to resort to this College for education, and direct that all who are hereafter admitted as members of this seminary use it in their classical exercises.

RUDIMENTS

LATIN GRAMMAR.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking and writing correctly.

Latin Grammar is the art of speaking and writing the Latin language correctly.

The Rudiments of Grammar are plain and easy instructions, teaching beginners the first principles and rules of it.

Grammar treats of sentences, and the several parts of which they are compounded.

Sentences consist of words; Words consist of one or more syllables; Syllables of one or more letters. So that Letters, Syllables, Words, and Sentences, make up the whole subject of Grammar.

LETTERS.

That part of Grammar which treats of letters, is called Orthography.

The letters in Latin are twenty-five: A, a; B, b; C, c; D, d; E, e; F, f; G, g; H, h; I, i; J, j; K, k; L, l; M, m; N, n; O, o; P, p; Q, q; R, r; S, s; T, t; U, u; V, v; X, x; Y, y; Z, z.

Letters are divided into Vowels and Consonants.

Six are vowels; a, e, i, o, u, y. All the rest are consonants.

A z

A vowel makes a full sound by itself ; as, a, e.

A consonant cannot make a perfect sound without a vowel ; as, b, d.

A vowel is properly called a simple sound ; and the sounds formed by the concourse of vowels and consonants, articulate sounds.

Consonants are divided into Mutes, Semi-vowels, and Double Consonants.

A mute is so called, because it entirely stops the passage of the voice ; as, p in ap.

The mutes are, p, b ; t, d ; c, k, g, and g : but b, d, and g, perhaps may more properly be termed Semi-mutes.

A semi-vowel, or half-vowel, does not entirely stop the passage of the voice ; thus, al.

The semi-vowels are, l, m, n, r, s, f. The first four of these are also called Liquids, particularly l and r ; because they flow softly and easily after a mute in the same syllable ; as, bla, flra.

The mutes and semi-vowels may be thus distinguished. In naming the mutes, the vowel is put after them ; as, pe, be, &c. : but in naming the semi-vowels, the vowel is put before them ; as, el, em, &c.

The double consonants are x, z, and j. X is made up of cs, ks, or gs. Z seems not to be a double consonant in English. It has the same relation to s, as v has to f, being sounded somewhat more softly.

In Latin, z, and likewise k, and y, are found only in words derived from the Greek.

Y in English is sometimes a consonant, as in youth.

H by some is not accounted a letter, but only a breathing.

DIPHTHONGS.

A Diphthong is two vowels joined in one sound.

If the sound of both vowels be distinctly heard, it is called a Proper Diphthong ; if not, an Improper Diphthong.

The proper diphthongs in Latin are commonly reckoned three ; au, eu, ei ; as in aurum, Eurus, omneis. To these, some, not improperly, add other three, namely, ai ; as in Maia ; oi, as in Troia ; and ui, as in Harpuia ; or in cui and buic, when pronounced as monosyllables.

The improper diphthongs in Latin are two, as, or when the vowels are written together, æ; as aetas, or atas; oe, or æ; as, poena, or pæna; in both which the sound of the e only is heard. The ancients commonly wrote the vowels separately, thus, aetas, poena.

SYLLABLES.

A syllable is the sound of one letter, or of several letters pronounced by one impulse of the voice.

In every word there are as many syllables as there are distinct sounds.

In Latin there are as many syllables in a word, as there are vowels or diphthongs in it; unless when u with any other vowel comes after g, q, or s, as in lingua, qui, suadeo; where the two vowels are not reckoned a diphthong, because the sound of the u vanishes, or is little heard.

Words consisting of one syllable, are called Monosyllables; of two, Disyllables; and of more than two, Poly syllables. But all words of more than one syllable, are commonly called Poly syllables.

In dividing words into syllables, we are chiefly to be directed by the ear. Compound words should be divided into the parts of which they are made up; as, up-on, with-out, &c. and so in Latin words, ab-utor, in-ers, propter-ea, et-enim, &c. In like manner, when a syllable is added in the formation of the English verb; as, lov-ed, lov-ing, lov-eth, will-ing, &c.

Observe, A long syllable is thus marked [-]; as, amâre; or with a circumflex accent thus, [^]; as, amâris. A short syllable is marked thus ['] ; as, omnibus.

What pertains to the quantity of syllables, to accent, and verse, will be treated of afterwards.

WORDS.

A word is one or more syllables joined together, which men have agreed upon to signify something.

That part of Grammar which treats of words, is called Etymology, or Analogy.

All words may be divided into three kinds ; namely, 1. such as mark the names of things ; 2. such as denote what is affirmed concerning things ; and 3. such as are significant only in conjunction with other words ; or what are called Substantives, Attributives, and Connectives. Thus, in the following sentence, " The diligent boy reads the lesson carefully in the school, and at home," the words boy, lesson, school, home, are the names we give to the things spoken of ; diligent, reads, carefully, express what is affirmed concerning the boy ; the, in, and, at, are only significant when joined with the other words of the sentence.

All words whatever are either simple or compound, primitive or derivative.

The division of words into simple and compound, is called their Figure ; into primitive and derivative, their Species or kind.

A simple word is that which is not made up of more than one, as pius, pious ; ego, I ; doceo, I teach.

A compound word is that which is made up of two or more words ; or of one word, and some syllable added ; as, impius, impious ; dedoceo, I unteach ; egomet, I myself.

A primitive word is that which comes from no other ; as, pius, pious ; disco, I learn ; doceo, I teach.

A derivative word is that which comes from another word ; as, pietas, piety ; doctrina, learning.

The different classes into which we divide words, are called Parts of Speech.

PARTS OF SPEECH.

The parts of speech in Latin are eight ; 1. Noun, Pronoun, Verb, Participle ; declined : 2. Adverb, Preposition, Interjection, and Conjunction ; undeclined.

Declinable parts of speech are those which receive different changes, particularly on the end, which is called the Termination of words.

The changes made upon words are by grammarians called Accidents.

Of old, all words which admit of different terminations were said to be declined. But Declension is now applied only to nouns. The changes made upon the verb are called Conjugation.

The English language has one part of speech more than the Latin, namely, the ARTICLE.

The want of the article is a defect in the Latin tongue, and often renders the meaning of nouns undetermined: thus filius regis, may signify, either, a son of a king, or, a king's son; or the son of the king, or the king's son.

NOUN.

A noun is either substantive or adjective.

The adjective seems to be improperly called noun: it is only a word added to a substantive or noun, expressive of its quality; and therefore should be considered as a different part of speech. But as the substantive and adjective together express but one object, and in Latin are declined after the same manner, they have both been comprehended under the same general name.

SUBSTANTIVE.

A Substantive, or noun, is the name of any person, place, or thing; as, boy, school, book.

Substantives are of two sorts; proper and common names.

Proper names are the names appropriated to individuals; as the names of persons and places: such are, Cæsar, Rome.

Common names stand for whole kinds, containing several sorts; or for sorts, containing many individuals under them; as, animal, man.

Every particular being should have its own proper name; but this is impossible, on account of their innumerable multitude: men have therefore been obliged to give the same common name to such things as agree together in certain respects. These form what is called a genus, or kind; a species, or sort.

A proper name may be used for a common, and then in English it has the article joined to it; as, when we say of some great conqueror, "He is an Alexander;" or, "The Alexander of his age."

To proper and common names may be added a third class of nouns, which mark the names of qualities, and are called abstract nouns; as, hardness, goodness, whiteness, virtue, justice, piety, &c.

When we speak of things, we consider them as one or more. This is what we call Number. When one thing is spoken of, a noun is said to be of the singular number; when two or more, of the plural.

Things considered according to their kinds, are either male or female, or neither of the two. Males are said to be of the masculine gender; females of the feminine; and all other things, of the neuter gender.

Such nouns as are applied to signify either the male or the female, are said to be of the common gender, that is, either masculine or feminine.

Various methods are used, in different languages, to express the different connexions or relations of one thing to another. In the English, and in most modern languages, this is done by prepositions, or particles placed before the substantive; in Latin, by declension, or by different cases; that is, by changing the termination of the noun; as, rex, a king, or the king; regis, of a king, or of the king.

LATIN NOUNS.

A Latin noun is declined by Genders, Cases, and Numbers.

There are three genders, Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

The cases are six, Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, Vocative, and Ablative.

There are two numbers, Singular and Plural.

There are five different ways of varying or declining nouns, called, the first, second, third, fourth, and fifth declensions.

Cases are certain changes made upon the termination of nouns, to express the relation of one thing to another.

They are so called, from cadere, to fall; because they fall, as it were, from the nominative; which is therefore named casus rectus, the straight case; and the other cases, casus obliqui, the oblique cases.

The different declensions may be distinguished from one another by the termination of the genitive singular. The first declension has a diphthong; the second has i; the third has is; the fourth has us; and the fifth has ei in the genitive.

Although Latin nouns be said to have six cases, yet none of them have that number of different terminations, both in the singular and plural.

GENERAL RULES OF DECLENSION.

1. Nouns of the neuter gender have the Accusative and Vocative like the Nominative, in both numbers; and these cases in the plural end always in a.

2. The Dative and Ablative plural end always alike.

3. The Vocative for the most part in the singular, and always in the plural, is the same with the Nominative.

Greek nouns in s generally lose s in the Vocative; as, Thomas, Thoma; Ancibes, Anchise; Paris, Pari; Panibus, Panbu; Pallas, -antis, Palla, names of men. But nouns in es of the third declension oftener retain the s; as, o Achilles, or -e; O Socrates, or -e; and sometimes nouns in is and as; as, O Thais, Myris, Pallas, -adis, the goddess Minerva, &c.

4. Proper names for the most part want the plural:

Unless several of the same name be spoken of; as, dodecim Cæsares, the twelve Cæsars.

GENDER.

Nouns in Latin are said to be of different genders, not merely from the distinction of sex, but chiefly from their being joined with an adjective of one termination, and not of another. Thus, penna, a pen, is said to be feminine, because it is always joined with an adjective in that termination, which is applied to females; as, bona penna, a good pen, and not bonus penna.

The gender of nouns which signify things without life, depends on their termination, and different declension.

To distinguish the different genders, grammarians make use of the pronoun hic, to mark the masculine; haec, the feminine; and hoc, the neuter.

GENERAL RULES CONCERNING GENDER.

1. Names of males are masculine; as, Homerus, Homer; pater, a father; poeta, a poet.

2. Names of females are feminine; as, Helena, Helen; mulier, a woman; uxor, a wife; mater, a mother; soror, a sister; Tellus, the Goddess of the earth.

3. Nouns which signify either the male or female, are of the common gender; that is, either masculine or feminine; as, Hic bos, an ox; haec bos, a cow; hic parent, a father; haec parent, a mother.

The following list comprehends most nouns of the common gender.

Adolescens , a young man	Conjux , a husband , or Nemo , no body .
Juvēnis , a woman	Obses , an hostage .
Affinis , a relation by marriage	Patruēlis , a countryman , by the father's side .
Antistes , a prelate	Dux , a leader .
Auctor , an author	Hæres , an heir .
Augur , a soothsayer	Holtis , an enemy .
Canis , a dog or bitch	Infans , an infant .
Civis , a citizen	Interpres , an interpreter .
Cliens , a client	Judex , a judge .
Comes , a companion	Martyr , a martyr .
	Miles , a soldier .
	Municeps , a burgher .
	Vindex , an avenger .

But antistes, cliens, and hospes, also change their termination to express the feminine, thus, antistita, clienta, hospita: in the same manner with leo, a lion; leona, a lioness; equus, equa; mulus, mulia; and many others.

There are several nouns, which, though applicable to both sexes, admit only of a masculine adjective; as, ad-vēna, a stranger; agricōla, a husbandman; affēcta, an attendant; accōla, a neighbour; exul, an exile; latro, a robber; fur, a thief; opifex, a mechanic, &c. There are others, which, though applied to persons, are on account of their termination, always neuter; as, scortum, a courtezan; mancipium, servitium, a slave, &c.

In like manner, opera, workmen; vigilia, excubia, watches; noxae, guilty persons; though applied to men, are always feminine.

OBSERVATIONS.

OBS. 1. The names of brute animals commonly follow the gender of their termination.

Such are the names of wild beasts, birds, fishes, and insects, in which the distinction of sex is either not easily discerned, or seldom attended to. Thus, paffer, a sparrow, is masculine, because nouns in er are masculine; so aquila, an eagle, is feminine, because nouns in a of the first declension are feminine. These are called Epicene or promiscuous nouns. When any particular sex is marked, we usually add the word mas or femina, as mas paffer, a male sparrow; femina paffer, a female sparrow.

OBS. 2. A proper name, for the most part, follows the gender of the general name under which it is comprehended.

Thus, the names of months, winds, rivers and mountains, are masculine, because mensis, ventus, mons, and fluvius, are masculine; as, hic Aprilis, April; hic Aquilo, the north wind; Africus, the south-west wind; hic Tiberis, the river Tiber; hic Othrys, a hill in Thessaly. But many of these follow the gender of their termination; as, hæc Matrōna, the river Marne in France; hæc Ætna, a mountain in Sicily; hoc Soraðe, a hill in Italy.

In like manner, the names of countries, towns, trees, and ships, are feminine, because terra or regio, urbs, arbor and navis, are feminine; as, hæc Ægyptus, Egypt; Samos, an island of that name; Corinthus, the city Corinth; pomus, an apple tree; Centaurus, the name of a ship: Thus also the names of poems, hæc Ilias, Ædo,

; Gen. ārum; Dat. and

ōre,	O pens ;	a, æ,
ōnis,	with pens.	a, is.

ns have more frequently plural, to distinguish them in us of the second declen.

lā, & Nata, a daughter.
lūcta, a freed-woman.
lūla, a bee-mule.

OUNS.

he first declension, are Greek. masculine ; nouns in e are femi-like penna ; only they have ō, Ēneās, Ēneas the name ō ; acc. -am or -an ; voc. the north wind ; Tiāras, -æ, we commonly am, but in po-and Odysseā, the two poems of Homer; hæc Aeneis, -idos, a poem of Virgil's; hæc Eunuchus, one of Terence's comedies.

The gender, however, of many of these depends on the termination; thus, hic Pontus, a country of that name; hic Salmo, -ōnis; Pessinus, -untis; Hydrus, -untis; names of towns; hæc Persis, -īdis, the kingdom of Persia; Carthago, -inis, the city Carthage; hoc Albion, Britain; hoc Cere, Reate, Prænestis, Tibur, Ilium, names of towns. But some of these are also found in the feminine; as, Gelida Prænestis, Juv. Ilion defensa, Ovid.

The following names of trees are masculine, oleaster, -tri, a wild olive tree; rhamnus, the white bramble.

The following are masculine or feminine; cytisus, a kind of shrub; rubus, the bramble-bush; larix, the larch-tree; lotus, the lot-tree; eupressus, the cypress-tree. The first two however are oftener masculine; the rest oftener feminine.

Those in um are neuter; as, buxum, the bush, or box-tree; ligustrum, a privet; so likewise are suber, -ēris, the cork-tree; filer, -ēris, the osier; robur, -ōris, oak of the hardest kind; acer, -ēris, the maple-tree.

The place where trees or shrubs grow is commonly neuter; as, Arbustum, quercētum, esculētum, salīdum, frūticētum, &c. a place where trees, oaks, beeches, willows, shrubs, &c. grow; Also the names of fruits and timber; as, pomum, or malum, an apple; pirum, a pear; ebēnum, ebony, &c. But from this rule there are various exceptions.

Obs. 3. Several nouns are said to be of the doubtful gender; that is, are sometimes found in one gender, and sometimes in another; as, dies, a day, masculine or feminine; vulgaris, the rabble, masculine or neuter.

FIRST DECLENSION.

Nouns of the first declension end in a, e, as, es.

Latin nouns end only in a, and are of the feminine gender.

The terminations of the different cases are; Nom. and V_{oc.} Sing. a; Gen. and Dat. a diphthong; Acc. am;

Abl. ā : Nom. and Voc. Plur. æ ; Gen. ārum ; Dat. and Abl. is ; Acc. as ; Thus,

Penna, a pen, fem.

Singular.	Plural.	Terminations.
N. penna, a pen ;	N pennæ, pens ;	a, e,
G. pennæ, of a pen ;	G. pennārum, of pens ;	e, arum,
D. pennæ, to a pen ;	D. pennis, to pens ;	e, is,
A. pennam, a pen ;	A. pennas, pens ;	am, as,
V. penna, O pen ;	V. pennæ, O pens ;	a, e,
A. pennâ, with a pen ;	A. pennis, with pens .	a, is.

EXCEPTIONS.

Exc. 1. The following nouns are masculine : Hadrias, the Adriatic sea ; comēta, a comet ; planēta, a planet ; and sometimes taipa, a mole ; and dama, a fallow-deer. Pascha, the passover, is neuter.

Exc. 2. The ancient Latins sometimes formed the genitive singular in āi ; thus, aula, a hall, gen. aulāi : and sometimes likewise in as ; which form the compounds of familia usually retain ; as, mater-familias, the mistress of a family ; gen. matris-familias ; nom. plur. matres-familias, or matres-familiarum.

Exc. 3. The following nouns have more frequently ābus in the dative and ablative plural, to distinguish them in these cases from masculines in us of the second declension :

Anīma, the soul.

Filia, & Nata, a daughter.

Dea, a goddess.

Liberta, a freed-woman.

Equa, a mare.

Mula, a she-mule.

Famula, a female servant.

Thus, deābus, filiābus, rather than filis, &c.

GREEK NOUNS.

Nouns in as, es, and e, of the first declension, are Greek. Nouns in as and es are masculine : nouns in e are feminine.

Nouns in as are declined like penna ; only they have am or an in the accusative ; as, Æneas, Æneas the name of a man ; gen. Ænēa ; dat. -a ; acc. -am or -an ; voc. -a ; abl. -ā. So Boreas, -ea, the north wind ; Tiāras, -e, a turban. In prose they have commonly am, but in poetry oftener an, in the accusative. Greek nouns in a have sometimes also an in the acc. in poetry ; as Offa, -am, or -an, the name of a mountain.

Nouns in es and e are thus declined,

Anchises, Anchises, the name of a man.

These nouns, being proper names, want the plural un, less when several of the same name are spoken of, and then they are declined like the plural of penna.

The Latins frequently turn Greek nouns in es and e into a ; as, Atrida, for Atrides ; Perfa for Perfes, a Persian ; Geometra, for -tres, a Geometrician : Circa for Circes ; Epitöma, for -me, an abridgment ; Grammatica, for -ce, grammar ; Rhetorica, for -ce, oratory. Nouns of the second declension have the gen. sing. in i ; the dat. and abl. in o ; the acc. in um ; the voc. like the nom. (But nouns in us make the vocative in e :) The nom. and voc. plur. in i, or a ; the gen. in orum ; the dat. and abl. in is ; and the acc. in os, or a ; as,

Gēner, a son-in-law, mafc.

Anciently nouns in as, in imitation of the Greeks, had the gen. in s; as, Menandru, Apollodōru, for Menandri, Apollodori. Ter.

Nouns in as have the acc. in um or on; as, Delus or Delas acc. Delum or Delan, the name of an island.

Some neuters have the gen. plur. in ēn; as, Georgica, gen. plur. Georgicān, books which treat of husbandry, as Virgil's Georgicks.

THIRD DECLENSION.

There are more nouns of the third declension than of all the other declensions together. The number of its final syllables is not ascertained. Of these, eight are peculiar to this declension, namely, i, o, y, c, d, l, t, x; a and e are common to it with the first declension; n and r, with the second; and s with all the other declensions. A, i, and y, are peculiar to Greek nouns.

 Senex, sēnis, (an adj.) old.

Exc. 4. Greek nouns in x, both with respect to gender and declension, are as various as Latin nouns: thus, bombyx, bombycis, a silk-worm, masc. but when it signifies silk, or the yarn spun by the worm, it is feminine: onyx, masc. or fem. onȳchis, a precious stone; and to sardonyx; larynx, laryngis, fem. the top of the wind-pipe; Phrynx, Phrygias, a Phrygian; sphinx, īngis, a fabulous hag; strix, īgis, f. a screechowl; Styx, -ȳgis, f. a river in hell; Hylax, -ālis, the name of a dog; Bibrax, Bibratīs, the name of a town, &c.

DATIVE SINGULAR.

The Dative singular anciently ended also in c; as, Eſuriente leoni ex ore exculpere prædam, To pull the prey out of the mouth of a hungry lion, Lucil. Hæret pede pes, Foot sticks to foot, Virg. for efurienti and pedi.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ACCUSATIVE SINGULAR.

Exc. 1. The following nouns have the accusative in im:

Amūfis , f. a mason's rule.	Ravis , f. boarſeneſt.
Buris , f. the beam of a plough.	Sināpis , f. muſtard.
Cannabis , f. bemp.	Sitis , f. thirſt.
Cucūmis , m. a cucumber.	Tuffis , f. the cough.
Gummis , f. gum.	Vis , f. ſtrengtb.
Mephītis , f. a damp or ſtrong ſmell.

To these add names of rivers, and some other proper names; as, Tibēris, Tibērim, the Tiber; Syrtis, f. -im, a quicksand. These ſometimes make the accusative in in; as, Bætin, Serāpin, &c.

Exc. 2. Several nouns in is have either em or im; as,

Clavis , f. a key.	Pelvis , f. a basin.	Secūris , f. an ax.
Cutis , f. the ſkin.	Puppis , f. the ſtern of a ſementis.	Sowīng .
Febris , f. a fever.	ſkip.	Strigīlis , f. a boſc-comb.
Navis , f. a ſhip.	Reſlis , f. a rope.	Turris , f. a tower, &c.

Thus navem, or navim; puppem, or puppim, &c. The ancients ſaid avim, aurim, ovim, peſſim, vallim, vitim, &c. which are not to be imitated.

Exc. 3. GREEK NOUNS form their accusative variouſly:

1. Greek nouns, whose genitive increases in is or as impure, that is, with a consonant going before, have the accusative in em or a; as, lampas, lampādis, or lampādes; lampādem, or lampāda. In like manner, these three, which have is pure in the genitive, or is with a vowel before it: Tras, Trōis, Troem, and Troa, a Trojan; heros, a hero; Minos, a king of Crete. The three following have only a: Pan, the god of ſhepherds; atber, the ſky; delpbin, a dolphin; thus, Pāna, atbēra, delpbīna.

2. Masculine Greek nouns in is, which have their genitive in is or as impure, form the accusative in im or in, ſometimes in idem, never ida; as, Paris, Parīdiu, or Parīdos; Parim, or Parin, ſometimes Paridem, never Parida.

3. Feminines in is, increasing impurely in the genitive, have commonly idem or ida, but rarely im or in; as, Elis, Elīdi or Elīdos, Ellidem or Elīda; ſeldom Elin or Elīn; a city in Greece. In like manner, feminines in ys, ÿdos, have ÿdem, or ÿda, not ÿm or ÿn in the accusative; as, oblamys, -ÿdem, or ÿds, not oblamyn, a soldier's cloak.

4. But all Greek nouns in is or ys, whether masculine or feminine, having is or os pure in the genitive, form the accusative by changing s of the nominative into m or n; as, metamorphōsis, -eos, or -ios, metamorphosim or -in, a change: Tetbys, -yos, or -yis; Tetbym, or -yn; the name of a goddess.

5. Nouns ending in the diphthong eis, have the accusative in ea; as, Theseus, Thesea.

ABLATIVE SINGULAR.

Exc. 1. Neuters in e, al, and ar have i in the ablative; as, sedile, sedili; animal, animāli; caicar, calcāri. Except proper names; as, Præneste, abl. Præneste, the name of a town; and the following neuters in ar:

Far, farre, corn.

Nectar, -äre, drink of the gods.

Hepar, -äte, the liver.

Par, pärc, a match, a pair.

Jubar, -äre, a sun-beast.

Sal, sälc, salt.

Exc. 2. Nouns which have im or in in the accusative, have i in the ablative; as, vis, vim, vi; but cannabis, Batis, and tigris, have e or i.

Nouns which have im or in in the accusative, make their ablative in e or i; as, turris, turre, or turri; but refis, a rope; and cutis, the skin, have e only.

Several nouns which have only em in the accusative, have e or i in the ablative; as, finis, supellen, vetris, pugil, a champion; mugil or mugilis; rus, occiput: Also names of towns, when the question is made by ubi; as, habitat Carthagine or Carbagini, he lives at Carthage. So, civis, clavis, sars, imber, anguis, avis, posis, fusis, anuis, and ignis; but these have oftener e. Canalis has only i. The most ancient writers made the ablative of many other nouns in i; as, eflati, cani, lapidi, ovi, &c.

Exc. 3. Adjectives used as substantives have commonly the same ablative with the adjectives; as, bipennis, -i, an halbert; molāris, -i, a millstone; quadrirēmis, -i, a ship with four banks of oars. So names of months, Aprilis, -i; December, -bri, &c. But rudis, a rod given gladiators when discharged; juvēnis, a young man, have only e; and likewise those ending in il, x, ceps, or ns; as,

Adolescens, a young man. Princeps, a prince. Torrens, a brook.

Infans, an infant. Senex, an old man. Vigil, a watchman.

Thus, adolescente, infante, senē, &c.

Exc. 4. Nouns in ys, which have ym in the accusative, make their ablative in ye, or y; as, Atys, Atye, or Aty, the name of a man.

NOMINATIVE PLURAL.

1. The nominative plural ends in es, when the noun is either masculine or feminine; as, sermones, rupes.

Nouns in is and es have sometimes in the nominative plural also eis or is; as, puppes, puppeis, or puppis.

2. Neuters which have e in the ablative singular, have a in the nominative plural; but those which have i in the ablative, make ia; as, capita, sedilia.

GENITIVE PLURAL.

Nouns which in the ablative singular have i only, or e and i together, make the genitive plural in ium; but if the ablative be in e, the genitive plural has um; as, sedile, sedili, sedilium; turris, turre or turri, turrium; caput, capite, capitum.

Exc. 1. Monosyllables in as have ium, though their ablative end in e; as, mas, a male, māre, marium; vas, a surety, vādium; but polysyllables have rather um; as, civitas, a state or city, civitātum, and sometimes civitatum.

Exc. 2. Nouns in es and is, which do not increase in the genitive singular, have also ium; as, hostis, an enemy, hostium. So likewise nouns ending in two consonants; as, gens, a nation, gentium; urbs, a city, urbium.

But the following have um: parens, vates, panis, juvēnis, and canis.

Exc. 3. The following nouns form the genitive plural in ium, though they have e only in the ablative singular:

Caro, carnis, f. flesb.
Cohors, -tis, f. a company.
Cor, cordis, n. the heart.
Cos, cotis, f. a bone or ribsthone.
Dos, dōtis, f. a dowry.
Faux, faueis, f. the jaws.
Glis, gliris, m. a rat.
Lar, laris, m. a household-god.
Linter, -tris, m. or f. a little boat.

Lis, litis, f. strife.
Mus, mūris, m. a mouse.
Nix, nīvis, f. snow.
Nox, noctis, f. the night.
Os, offis, n. a bone.
Quiris, -ītis, a Roman.
Samnis, -ītis, m. or f. a Samnit.
Utris, utris, m. a bottle.

Thus Samnitum, lintrium, litium, &c. Also the compounds of vacis and as; as, septunx, seven ounces, septuncium; bes, eight ounces, besium. Bos, an ox or cow, has boum, and in the dative, bōbus, or būbus.

Greek nouns have generally um; as, Macēdo, a Macedonian; Arabs, an Arabian; Æthiops, an Ethiopian; Monocēros, an unicorn; Lynx, a beast so called; Tbrax, a Thracian: Macedōnum, Arābum, Æthiōpum, Monocerōtum, Lycum, Thrācum. But those which have a or is in the nominative singular, sometimes form the genitive plural in ōn; as, Epigramma, epigrammātum, or epigrammatōn, an epigram; metamorphosis, -ium, or -ōn.

Obs. 1. Nouns which want the singular, form the genitive plural as if they were complete; thus, manes, m. souls departed, manium; calites, m. inhabitants of heaven, calitum; because they would have had in the sing. manis and cedes. But names of feasts often vary their declension; as, Saturnalia, the feast of Saturn, Saturnalium, and Saturnaliorum.

Obs. 2. Nouns which have um in the genitive plural, are, by the poets, often contracted into um; as, nocentūm for nocentium: and sometimes to increase the number of syllables, a letter is inserted; as, cellitūm for cellitum. The former of these is said to be done by the figure Syncöpe; and the latter by Epentöphe.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE DATIVE PLURAL.

Exc. 1. Greek nouns in a have commonly tis instead of tibūs; as, poēma, poem, poemātis, rather than poemalibus, from the old nominative poemātum.

Exc. 2. The poets sometimes form the dative plural of Greek nouns in is, or when the next word begins with a vowel, in īn; as, Troāsi or Troāsin, for Troādibus, from Troas, Troādis, a Trojan woman.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ACCUSATIVE PLURAL.

Exc. 1. Nouns which have um in the genitive plural, make their accusative plural in es, eis, or is; as, partes, partium, acc. partes, parteis, or partis.

Exc. 2. If the accusative singular end in a, the accusative plural also ends in as; as, lampas, lampādem, or lampāda; lampādes or lampādas. So Tros, Troas; heros, heroas; Æthiops, Æthiopas, &c.

GREEK NOUNS THROUGH ALL THE CASES.

Lampas, f. lampādis, or -ādor; -ādi, -ādem, or ada; -as; -ade:

Plural -ades; -ādum; -adibus; -ades, or -adas; -ades; -adibus.

Troas, f. Troadie, or -ados; -i; em or a; as; e: Plur. Troades; -um; -ibus, si, or fan; es or as; es; ibus.

Tros, m. Trois; Troi; Troem or -a; Tros; Troe, &c.

Pbillus, f. Pbillidus or -dos, di, dem or da; i; de.

Paris, m. Paridus or -dos; di; dem, Parim or in; i; de.

Cblamys, f. Cblamjda or -jdos, ýdi, ýdem or ýda, yí, ýde, &c.

Capys, m. Cappis, or -gos; yi; ym or yn; y; ye or y.

Metamorphosis, f. -is or -eos, i, em or in, i, i, &c.

Orpheus, m. eos, éi or ei, ea, eu, abl. eo of the second decl.

Dido, f. Didus or Didonis, Dido or Didoni, &c.

FOURTH DECLENSION.

Nouns of the fourth declension end in us and u.

Nouns in us are masculine: nouns in u are neuter, and indeclinable in the singular number.

The terminations of the cases are; nom. sing. us; gen. us; dat. ui; acc. um; voc. like the nom.; nom. acc. voc. plur. us or ua; gen. uum; dat. and abl. ibus; as,

Fructus, fruit, masc.		Cornu, a horn, neut.
Sing.	Plur.	Sing.	Plur.
N. fructus ,	N. fructus ,	N. cornu ,	N. cornua ,
G. fructus ,	G. fructuum ,	G. cornu ,	G. cornuum ,
D. fructui ,	D. fructibus ,	D. cornu ,	D. cornibus ,
A. fructum ,	A. fructus ,	A. cornu ,	A. cornua ,
V. fructus ,	V. fructus ,	V. cornu ,	V. cornua ,
A. fructu .	A. fructibus .	A. cornu .	A. cornibus .

Exc. 1. The following nouns are feminine:

Acus , a needle.	Manus , the hand.	Specus , a den.
Domus , a house.	Penus , a forehouse.	Tribus , a tribe.
Ficus , a fig.	Porticus . a gallery.

Penus and specus are sometimes masc. Ficus, Penus, and domus, with several others, are also of the second declension. Capricornus, m. the sign of Capricorn, although from cornu, is always of the second decl. and so are the compounds of manus; unimánus; centimánus, &c. Domus is but partly of the second; thus,

Domus, a house, fem.

Sing.	Plur.
Nom. domus ,	Nom. domus ,
Gen. domús , or -mi,	Gen. domorum , or -utum,
Dat. domui , or -mo,	Dat. domibus ,
Acc. domum ,	Acc. domos , or -us,
Voc. domus ,	Voc. domus ,
Abl. domo .	Abl. domibus .

Note. Domus, in the genit. signifies, of a house ; and domi, at home, or of home ; as, memineris domi. Ter.

Exc. 2. The following have ibus in the dative and ablative plural.

Acus, a needle.	Lacus, a lake.	Specus, a den.
Arcus, a bow.	Partus, a birth.	Tribus, a tribe.
Artus, a joint.	Portus, a harbour.	Veru, a spit.
Genu, the knee.

Portus, genu, and veru, have likewise ibus ; as, portibus or portubus.

Exc. 3. Iesus, the venerable name of our Saviour, has um in the accusative, and u in all the other cases.

Nouns of this declension anciently belonged to the third, and were declined like grus, gruis, a crane ; thus, fructus, fructuis, fructui, fructuem, fructue, fructues, fructuum, fructibus, fructues, fructues, fructibus. So that all the cases are contracted, except the dative singular, and genitive plural. In some writers, we still find the genitive singular in uis, and in others, the dative in u. The gen. plur. is sometimes contracted ; as, currum for curruum.

FIFTH DECLENSION.

Nouns of the fifth declension end in es, and are of the feminine gender ; as,

Sing.	Res, a thing, fem.	Terminations.
Nom. res,	Nom. res,	es,
Gen. rēi,	Gen. rērum,	erum,
Dat. rēi,	Dat. rēbus,	ebus,
Acc. rem,	Acc. res,	es,
Voc. res,	Voc. res,	es,
Abl. re.	Abl. rēbus.	ebus.

In like manner decline,

Acies, the edge of a thing, or an army in order of battle.	Ingluvies, gluttony.	Scabies, the scab, or itch.
Caries, rottenness.	Macies, leanness.	Series, an order.
Facies, the face.	Pernicies, destruction.	Species, an appearance.
Glacies, ice.	Proluvies, a looseness.	Superficies, the surface.
	Rabies, madness.	Temperies, temperateness.
	Sanies, gore.

Except dies, a day, masc. or fem. in the singular, and always masc. in the plural ; and meridies, the mid-day, or noon, masc.

The poets sometimes make the genitive, and more rarely the dative, in e.

The nouns of this declension are few in number, not exceeding fifty, and seem anciently to have been comprehended under the third declension. Most of them want the genitive, dative, and ablative plural, and many the plural altogether.

All nouns of the fifth declension end in ies, except three, fides, faith; spes, hope; res, a thing; and all nouns in ies are of the fifth, except these four, abies, a fir tree; aries, a ram; paries, a wall; and quies, rest; which are of the third declension.

IRREGULAR NOUNS.

Irregular nouns may be reduced to three classes, Variable, Defective, and Redundant.

I. VARIABLE NOUNS.

Nouns are variable, either in gender, or declension, or in both.

I. Those which vary in gender are called heterogeneous, and may be reduced to the following classes:

1. Masculine in the singular, and neuter in the plural:

Avernus , a lake in Campania , bell.	Mænælus , a bill in Arcadia .
Dindymus , a bill in Pbrygia .	Pangæus , a promontory in Tbrace .
Ismarus , a bill in Tbrace .	Tænærus , a promontory in Laconia .
Massicus , a bill in Campania , famous for excellent wines.	Tartarus , bell.

Täygætus, a hill in Laconia.

Thus, Averna, Avernorum; Dindyma, -orum, &c. These are thought by some to be properly adjectives, having mons understood in the singular, and juga or cacumina in the plural.

2. Masc. in the sing. and in the plur. masc. and neuter:

Fucus, a jest, pl. joci and joca; locus, a place, pl. loci and loca.

When we speak of passages in a book, or topics in discourse, loci only is used.

3. Feminine in the singular, and neuter in the plural:

Carbæsus, a sail, pl. carbæsa; Pergæmus, the citadel of Troy, pl. Pergama.

4. Neuter in the singular, and masculine in the plural:

Cælum, pl. cæli, heaven; Elysium, pl. Elysii, the Elysian fields; Argos, pl. Argi, a city in Greece.

3. Neuter in the sing. in the plur. masc. or neuter :

Rastrum, a rake, pl. rastrī and rastrā; frēnum, a bridle, pl. frenī and frēna.

6. Neuter in the singular, and feminine in the plural :

Deliciūm, a delight, pl. deliciā; Epūlūm, a banquet, pl. epūlē; Balneūm, a bath, pl. balneē and balnea.

II. Nouns which vary in declension are called heteroclites; as, vas, vāsī, a vessel, pl. vasa, vasorum; jugērum, jugēri, an acre, pl. jugēra, jugērum, jugerībus, which has likewise sometimes jugēris and jugēre in the singular, from the obsolete jugus or juger.

II. DEFECTIVE NOUNS.

Nouns are defective, either in cases or in number.

Nouns are defective in cases different ways.

1. Some are altogether indeclinable; as, pondō, a pound or pounds; fas, right; nefas, wrong; sināpi, mustard; mane, the morning; as, clarum mane, Perf. A mane ad vesperam, Plaut. Multo mane, &c.; cepe, an onion; gausāpe, a rough coat, &c.; all of them neuter. We may rank among indeclinable nouns, any word put for a noun; as, velle suum, for sua voluntas, his own inclination. Perf. Itud cras, for iste crastinus dies, that to-morrow. Mart. O magnum Grecorum, the Omēga, or the large O of the Greeks; infidus est compositum ex in et fidus; infidus is compounded of in and fidus. To these add foreign or barbarous names; that is, names which are neither Greek nor Latin; as, Joh, Elisabet, Jerusalem, &c.

2. Some are used only in one case, and therefore called monoptōta; as, inquietus, want of rest, in the nominative singular; dicīs and nauci, in the genit. sing.; thus, dicīs gratia, for form's sake; res nauci, a thing of no value; inficias and incīta or incītas, in the accusative plural; thus, ire inficias, to deny; ad incītas redactus, reduced to a strait, or non-plus; ingratiis, in the abl. plur. in spite of one; and these ablatives singular, noītu, in the night time; diū, interdiū, in the day-time; promptū, in readiness; natu, by birth; injussū, without command or leave; ergō, for the sake, as, ergo illius, Virg. Ambāge, f. with a winding or a tedious story; Compēde, m. with a fetter; Caffe, m.

with a net ; vespres, m. a briar : Plur. Ambages, -ibus ; sompedes, -ibus ; casses, -ium ; vespres, -ium, &c.

3. Some are used in two cases only, and therefore called dip̄tōta ; as, necessē or -um, necessity ; volūpe or volup, pleasure ; instar, likeness, bigness ; af̄u, a town ; bir, the palm of the hand ; in the nom. and acc. sing. ; vesper, m. abl. vesp̄ēre or vesp̄ēri, the evening ; firemps, the flame, all alike, abl. firemp̄se ; spontis, f. in the genitive, and sponte in the ablative, of its own accord ; so imp̄ētis, m. and imp̄ēte, force ; verbēris, n. genit. and verbēre, abl. a stripe ; in the plural entire ; verbēra, verberum, verberibus, &c. repetundarum, abl. repetundis, sc. pecunias, money unjustly taken in the time of one's office, extortion ; suppetias, nom. pl. suppetias in the acc. help ; inferia, inferias, sacrifices to the dead.

4. Several nouns are only used in three cases, and therefore called triptōta ; as, prēci, precem, prece, f. a prayer, from prex, which is not used ; in the plural it is entire, preces, precum, precibus, &c. Femīnis, gen. from the obsolete femen, the thigh ; in the dat. and abl. sing. ; in the nom. acc. and voc. plur. femina. Dicā, a process, acc. sing. dicam, plur. dicas ; tantudem, nom. and acc. tantidem, genit. even as much. Several nouns in the plural want the genitive, dative, and ablative ; as, biems, rus, thus, metus, mel, far, and most nouns of the fifth declension.

To this class of defective nouns may be added these neuters, melos, a song ; mele, songs ; epos, a heroic poem ; cacoēthes, an evil custom ; cete, whales ; Tempe, plural, a beautiful vale in Thessaly, &c. used only in the nom. acc. and voc. ; also grates, f. thanks.

5. The following nouns want the nominative, and of consequence the vocative, and therefore are called tetrap̄tōta : vicis, f. of the place or stead of another ; pecudis, f. of a beast ; sordis, f. of filth ; ditiōnis, f. of dominion, power ; opis, f. of help. Of these, pecudis and sordis have the plural entire : ditiōnis wants it altogether : vicis is not used in the genitive plural ; opes in the plural, generally signifies wealth, or power, seldom help. To these add ax, slaughter ; daps, a dish of meat ; and frux, corn ; hardly used in the nominative singular, but in the plural mostly entire.

6. Some nouns only want one case, and are called pentaptōta: thus, os, the mouth; lux, light; fax, a torch, together with some others, want the genit. plur. Cbaos, n. a confused mass, wants the genit. sing. and the plural entirely; dat. sing. chao. So, satias, i. e. satietas, a glut or fill of any thing. Situs, a situation, nastiness, of the fourth decl. wants the genit. and perhaps the dative sing. also the gen. dat. and abl. plur.

Of nouns defective in number there are various sorts.

1. Several nouns want the plur. from the nature of the things which they express. Such are the names of virtues and vices, of arts, herbs, metals, liquors, different kinds of corn, most abstract nouns, &c. as, justitia, justice; ambitus, ambition; agilis, cunning; musica, music; apium, parsley; argentum, silver; aurum, gold; lac, milk; triticum, wheat; hordeum, barley; avēna, oats; juventus, youth, &c. But of these we find several sometimes used in the plural.

2. The following masculines are hardly ever found in the plural.

Aēr, aēris, the air.
Aēther, -ēris, the sky.
Fimus, -i, dung.
Hespērus, -i, the evening star.
Limus, -i, slime.
Meridies, -iēi, mid-day.
Mundus, a woman's ornaments.
Muscus, -i, mosk.

Nemo, -īnis, no body.

3. A noun derived from a substantive proper, signifying one's country, is called a Patrial or Gentile noun; as, Tros, Trois, a man born at Troy; Troas, -ādis, a woman born at Troy; Siculus, -i, a Sicilian man; Sicelis, -īdis, a Sicilian woman: so, Macēdo, -ōnis; Arpīnas, -ātīs, a man born in Macedonia, Arpinum; from Troja, Sicilia, Macedonia, Arpinum. But patrials for the most part are to be considered as adjectives, having a substantive understood; as, Romānus, Atbeniensis, &c.

4. A substantive derived from an adjective, expressing simply the quality of the adjective, without regard to the thing in which the quality exists, is called an Abstract; as, justitia, justice; bonitas, goodness; dulcēdo, sweetness: from justus, just; bonus, good; dulcis, sweet. The adjectives from which these abstracts come, are called Concretes; because, besides the quality, they also suppose something to which it belongs. Abstracts commonly end in o, as, or do, and are very numerous, being derived from most adjectives in the Latin tongue.

5. A substantive derived from another substantive, signifying a diminution or lessening of its signification, is called a Diminutive; as, libellus, a little book; chartūla, a little paper; opusculum, a little work; corcūlum, a little heart; reticulum, a small net; scabellum, a small form; lapillus, a little stone; cultellus, a little knife; pagella, a little page: from liber, charta, opus, cor, rete, scamnum, lapis, cultus, pagina. Several diminutives are sometimes formed from the same primitive; as, from puer, puerūlus, puellus, puellūlus; from cista, cistūka, cistella, cistellūla; from homo, homuncio, homunculus. Diminutives for the most part end in lus, la, lum; and are generally of the same gender with their primitives. When the signification of the primitive is increased, it is called an Amplificative, and ends in o; as, Capito, -ōnis, having a large head: So, naso, labeo, bucco, having a large nose, lips, cheeks.

6. A substantive derived from a verb is called a Verbal noun; as, amor, love; doctrīna, learning: from amo and doceo. Verbal nouns are very numerous, and commonly end in io, or, us, and ura; as, lección, a lesson; amator, a lover; luctus, grief; creatūra, a creature.

ADJECTIVE.

An adjective is a word added to a substantive, to express its quality ; as, hard, soft.

We know things by their qualities only. Every quality must belong to some subject. An adjective therefore always implies a substantive expressed or understood, and cannot make full sense without it.

An adjective may be thus distinguished from a substantive : If the word thing be joined to an adjective, it will make sense ; but if it be joined to a substantive, it will make nonsense : thus, we can say, "a good thing ;" but we cannot say, "a book thing."

Adjectives in Latin are varied by gender, number, and case, to agree with substantives, in all these accidents.

An adjective properly hath neither genders, numbers, nor cases ; but certain terminations answering to the gender, number, and case of the substantive with which it is joined.

Adjectives are varied like three substantives of the same termination and declension.

All adjectives are either of the first and second declension, or of the third only.

Adjectives of three terminations are of the first and second declension ; but adjectives of one or two terminations are of the third.

Exe. The following adjectives, though they have three terminations, are of the third declension :

Acer , sharp .	Campester , belonging to Sylvester , woody .
Aläcer , cheerful .	a plain [horsc Pedeſter , on foot .
Celer , swift .	Equeſter , belonging to a Paluſter , marshy .
Celüber , famous .	Salüber , wholesome . Volücer , swift .

ADJECTIVES of the FIRST and SECOND DECLENSION.

Adjectives of the first and second declension have their masculine in us or er, their feminine always in a, and their neuter always in um ; as, bonus, for the masc. bona, for the fem. bonum, for the neut. good : thus,

Sing.

Plur.

N. bon-us , -a, -um,	N. bon-i , -æ, -a,
G bon-i , -æ, -i,	G bon-orum , -arum, -orum,
D bon-o , -æ, -o,	D bon-is , -is, -is,
A bon-um , -am, -um,	A bon-os , -as, -a,
V bon-e , -a, -um,	V bon-i , -æ, -a,
A bon-o , -æ, -o,	A bon-is , -is, -is.

3. Adjectives of three terminations ; as, acer or acris, for the masc. acris, for the fem. acre, for the neut. sharp ; thus,

Sing.	Plur.
N. a- cer or - cris , - cris , - cre , N. a- cre s,	- cre s, - cri a,
G. a- cris , - eris , - cris , G. a- crium ,	- crium , - crium ,
D. a- cri , - cri , - cri , D. a- cribus ,	- cribus , - cribus ,
A. a- crem , - crem , - cre , A. a- cre s,	- cre s, - cri a,
V. a- cer or - cris , - cris , - cre , V. a- cre s,	- cre s, - cri a,
A. a- cri , - cri , - cri , A. a- cribus ,	- cribus , - cribus .

In like manner, alacer or alacris, celer or celeris, cēleber or celebris, salūber or salūbris, volūcer or volucris, &c.

RULES.

1. Adjectives of the third declension have e or i in the ablative singular : but if the neuter be in e, the ablative has i only.

2. The genitive plural ends in ium, and the neuter of the nominative, accusative, and vocative, in ia : except comparatives, which have um and a,

EXCEPTIONS.

Exc. 1. Dives, bospes, sospes, superfles, juvēnis, senex, and pauper, have e only in the ablative singular, and consequently um in the genitive plural.

Exc. 2. The following have also e in the abl. sing. and um, not ium in the gen. plur. Compos, -ötis, master of, that hath obtained his desire ; impos, -ötis, unable ; inops, -öpis, poor ; supplex, -icis, suppliant, humble ; uber, -ris, fertile ; confors, -tis, sharing, a partner ; degener, -ris, degenerate, or degenerating ; vigil, watchful ; puber, -ris, of age, marriageable ; and celer : Also compounds in ceps, sex, pes, and corpor ; as, particeps, partaking of ; artifex, -icis, cunning, an artist ; bipes, -pēdis, two footed ; bicorpor, -ris, two-bodied, &c. All these have seldom the neut. sing. and almost never the neut. plur. in the nom and acc. To which add memor, mindful, which has memōri, and memōrum : also des, refes, bebes, perpeti, præpes, teres, concolor, veſicōlor, which likewise for the most part want the genitive plural.

Exc. 3. Par, equal, has only pāri : but its compounds have either e or i ; as, comparē, or -ri. Vetus, old, hath veterā, and veterūm ; plus, more, which is only used in the neut. sing. has plure ; and in the plural, plures, plura, or pluria, plurium.

Exc. 4. Expes, hopeless ; and potis, -e, able, are only used in the nominative. Potis has also sometimes potis in the neuter.

REMARKS.

1. Comparatives, and adjectives in ns, have e more frequently than i; and participles in the ablative called absolute have generally e; as, Tiberis regnante, not regnanti, in the reign of Tiberius.

2. Adjectives joined with substantives neuter for the most part have i; as, viētrīci ferro, not viētrīce.

3. Different words are sometimes used to express the different genders; as, victor, victorious, for the masc. viētrix, for the fem. Viētrix, in the plur. has likewise the neuter gender; thus, viētrices, viētricia: so, ultrix, and ultrix, revengeful. Viētrix is also neut. in the singular.

4. Several adjectives compounded of clivus, frenum, bacillum, arma, jugum, limus, somnus, and animus, end in is or us; and therefore are either of the first and second declension, or of the third; as, declivis, -is, -e; and declivus, -a, -am, steep; imbecillus, and imbecillus, weak; semisomnus, and semisomnus, half-asleep; exanimis and exanimus, lifeless. But several of them do not admit of this variation; thus we say, magnanimus, flexanimus, effrenus, levisomnus; not magnanimis, &c. On the contrary, we say, pusillanimis, injūris, illūmis, insomnis, exsomnis; not pusillanimus, &c. So, somianimis, inerrans, sublimis, accrīvis, declīvis, proclīvis, rarely semianimus, &c.

5. Adjectives derived from nouns are called Denominatives; as, cordatus, morātus, cālefīs, adamantīnus, corporeus, agrefīs, effīvus, &c. from cor, mos, cālum, adamas, &c. Those which diminish the signification of their primitives are called Diminutives; as, misellus, parvulus, drīsculus, &c. Those which signify a great deal of a thing are called Amplificatives, and end in ofus or entus: as, vinofus, vinulentus, given to much wine; operofus, laborious; plumbofus, full of lead; nodofus, knotty, full of knots; corpulentus, corpulent, &c. Some end in tes: as, auritus, having long or large ears; nāstus, having a large nose; literatus, learned, &c.

6. An adjective derived from a substantive or from another adjective, signifying possession or property, is called a Possessive Adjective; as, Scoticus, paternus, berīlis, aliēnus, of or belonging to Scotland, a father, a master, another: from Scotia, pater, berus, and alius.

7. Adjectives derived from verbs are called Verbals; as, amabilis, amiable; capax, capable; docilis, teachable; from amo, capto, doceo.

8. When participles become adjectives, they are called Participials; as, sapiens, wise; acus, sharp; disertus, eloquent. Of these many also become substantives; as, adolescens, animans, rudens, ferrens; advocatus, sponsus, natus, legatus; sponsa, matra, serua, sc. corona, a garland; prætexta, &c. vestis; debitum, decretum, præceptum, satum, scđum, votum, &c.

9. Adjectives derived from adverbs are called Adverbials; as, bedisnus, from bedie; crastinus, from cras; binus, from bi, &c. There are likewise adjectives derived from prepositions; as, contrarius, from contra; anticus, from ante; posticus, from post.

NUMERAL ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives which signify number, are divided into four classes, Cardinal, Ordinal, Distributive, and Multiplicative.

1. The Cardinal or Principal numbers are:

Unus,	one.	Triginta,	thirty.
Duo,	two.	Quadraginta,	forty.
Tres,	three.	Quinquaginta,	fifty.
Quatuor,	four.	Sexaginta,	sixty.
Quinque,	five.	Septuaginta,	seventy.
Sex,	six.	Ottaginta,	eighty.
Septem,	seven.	Nonaginta,	ninety.
Octo,	eight.	Centum,	a hundred.
Novem,	nine.	Duecenti,	two hundred.
Dēcem,	ten.	Trecenti,	three hundred.
Undēcim,	eleven.	Quadringenti,	four hundred.
Duodecim,	twelve.	Quingenti,	five hundred.
Tredecim,	thirteen.	Sexcenti,	six hundred.
Quatuordecim,	fourteen.	Septingenti,	seven hundred.
Quindecim,	fifteen.	Oc̄tingenti,	eight hundred.
Sexdecim,	sixteen.	Nongenti,	nine hundred.
Septendecim,	seventeen.	Mille,	a thousand.
Octodecim,	eighteen.	Duo millia, or bis mille,	two thousand.
Novemdecim,	nineteen.	Deceni millia, or decies mille,	ten thousand.
Viginti,	twenty.	Viginti millia, or vicies mille,	twenty thousand.
Viginti unus, or Unus & viginti,	twenty-one.
Viginti duo, or Duo & viginti,	twenty-two.

The cardinal numbers, except unus and mille, want the singular.

Unus is not used in the plural, unless when joined with a substantive which wants the singular; as, una mania, one wall; or when several particulars are considered as one whole; as, una v̄stimenta, one suit of clothes.

Duo and tres are thus declined :

	Plur.		Plur.
N. duo ,	duæ ,	duo ,	tres ,
G. duōrum ,	duārum ,	duōrum ,	tria ,
D. duōbus ,	duābus ,	duōbus ,	trium ,
A. duos or duo ,	duas ,	duo ,	tribus ,
V. duo ,	duæ ,	duo ,	tres ,
A. duobus ,	duabus ,	duobus .	tria ,

In the same manner with duo, decline ambo, both.

All the Cardinal numbers from quatuor to centum, including them both, are indeclinable; and from centum to mille, are declined like the plural of bonus; thus, ducenti, -ta, -ta; ducentorum, -tarum, -tarum, &c.

Mille is used either as a substantive or adjective; when taken substantively it is indeclinable in the singular number; and in the plural has millia, millium, millibus, &c.

Mille, an adjective, is commonly indeclinable, and to express more than one thousand, has the numeral adverbs joined with it; thus, mille homines, a thousand men; mille hominum, of a thousand men, &c. Bis mille homines, two thousand men; ter mille homines, &c. But with mille, a substantive, we say mille hominum, a thousand men; duo millia hominum, tria millia, quatuor millia, centum or centena millia hominum; Decies centena millia, a million; Vicies centena millia, two millions, &c.

2. The Ordinal numbers are primus, first; secundus, second, &c. declined like bonus.

3. The distributive are, singuli, one by one; bini, two by two, &c. declined like the plural of bonus.

The following table contains a list of the Ordinal and Distributive Numbers, together with the Numeral Adverbs, which are often joined with the Numeral Adjectives.

Ordinal.	Distributive.	Numeral Adverbs.
1 Primus , a , um .	Singuli , æ , a .	Semel , once .
2 secundus .	bini .	bis , twice .
3 tertius .	terni .	ter , trice .
4 quartus .	quaterni .	quater , four times .
5 quintus .	quini .	quinquies , &c.
6 sextus .	feni .	sexies .
7 septimus .	septeni .	septies .
8 octavus .	octoni .	octies .
9 nonus .	noveni .	novies .
10 decimus .	deni .	decies .

In several of these, both in English and Latin, the comparative and superlative seem to be formed from some other adjective which in the positive has fallen into disuse: in others, the regular form is contracted; as, maximus, for magnissimus: most, for morest; least, for leſt; worſe, for worſest.

2. These five have their superlative in imus:

Faciliſis, facilior, facillimus, easy. Imbecilliſis, imbecillior, imbecillimus, weak.
Graciſis, gracilior, gracillimus, lean. Humiliſis, humilior, humillimus, low. Similiſis, similior, simillimus, like.

3. The following adjectives have regular comparatives, but form the superlative differently:

Citer , citerior , citimus , near .	Matūrus , -ior , maturimius , or
Dexter , dexterior , dextimus , right .	maturissimus , ripe .
Sinister , sinisterior , finistimus , left .	Postcrus , posterior , postremus ,
Exter , -erior , extimus , or extre-	behind .
mus , outward .	Supērus , -rior , suptēmus , or sum-
Infērus , -ior , infīmus , or imus , below .	mus , big .
Intērus , interior , intēmus , inward .	Vetus , veterior , veterrimus , old .

4. Compounds in dīcus, lōguus, fīcus, and volus, have entior, and entifīmus; as, malēdīcus, railing, maledicentior, maledicentifīmus: So magnilōguus, one that boasteth; benēfīcus, beneficent; malēvōlus, malevolent; mirifīcus, wonderful, -entior, -entifīmus, or mirifīcīfīmus.

There are a great many adjectives, which, though capable of having their signification increased, yet either want one of the degrees of comparison, or are not compared at all.

1. The following adjectives are not used in the positive:

Deterior , worſe , deterrimus .	Propiōr , nearer , proximus , nearest or
Ocior , swifter , ocissimus .	next .
Prior , former , primus .	Ulterior , farter , ultimus .

2. The following want the comparative:

Inclītus , inclytissimus , renowned .	Nupērus , nuperrimus , late .
Merītus , meritissimus , deserving .	Par , parissimus , equal .
Novus , novissimus , new .	Sacer , sacerrimus , sacred .

3. The following want the superlative:

Adolescens , adolescentior , young .	Pronus , pronior , inclined down-
Diurnus , diurnior , laſing .	wards .
Ingens , ingentior , huge .	Satur , saturior , full .
Juvēnis , junior , young .	Senex , senior , eld .
Opīnus , opimior , rich .

To supply the superlative of juvēnīs or adolēscēns, we say minimūs natū, the youngest; and of senēx, maximūs natū, the oldest.

Adjectives in ilīs, ālis, and bīlis, also want the superlative; as, āvīlis, civiliōr, civil; regālis, regatiōr, regal; lābilis, -ior, lamentable. So juvēnīlis, youthful; exīlis, small; regālis, like a king, &c.

To these add several others of different terminations: Thus, ar-ēānūs, -ior, secret; declīnūs, -ior, bending downwards; longīnūs, -ior, far off; propīnīnūs, -ior, near.

Anterior, former; sequiōr, worse; satīor, better; are only found in the comparative.

4. Many adjectives are not compared at all: such are those compounded with nouns or verbs; as, versīcōlōr, of divers colours; pīfī-fer, poisonous: also adjectives in us pure, in īous, īnūs, ōrus, or īmūs, and diminutives; as, dubīus, doubtful; vacūus, empty; fūgītīus, that flieth away; matutīnūs, early; canōrūs, shrill; legitīmūs, lawful; tēnē-īr, somewhat tender; majūcūlūs, &c.: together with a great many others of various terminations; as, alīmūs, gracious; precox, -ōcīs, soon or early ripe; mīrūs, egenūs, lacer, memor, sōpīs, &c.

This defect of comparison is supplied by putting the adverb magīs before the adjective, for the comparative degree; and valde or maxi-mē for the superlative; thus, egēnūs, needy; magīs egēnūs, more needy; valde or maxi-mē egēnūs, very or most needy. Which form of comparison is also used in those adjectives which are regularly compared.

PRONOUN.

A pronoun is a word which stands instead of a noun.

Thus, I stands for the name of the person who speaks; thou, for the name of the person addressed.

Pronouns serve to point out objects, whose names we either do not know, or do not want to mention. They also serve to shorten discourse, and prevent the too frequent repetition of the same word; thus, instead of saying, When Cæsar had conquered Gaul, Cæsar turned Cæsar's arms against Cæsar's country, we say, When Cæsar had conquered Gaul, he turned his arms against his country.

The simple pronouns in Latin are eighteen; ego, tu, sui; ille, ipse, iste, bīc, is, quis, qui; meus, tuus, suus, noīter, vestrī; noīstras, vestrīs, and cujas.

Three of them are substantives, ego, tu, sui; the other fifteen are adjectives.

Obs. 1. Ego wants the vocative, because one cannot call upon himself, except as a second person: thus we cannot say, O ego, O I; O nos, O we.

Obs. 2. Mibi in the dative is sometimes by the poets contracted into mi.

Obs. 3. The genitive plural of ego was anciently nostrorum and nostrarum; of tu, vestrorum and vestrarum, which were afterwards contracted into nostrūm and vestrūm.

We commonly use nostrūm and vestrūm after partitives, numerals, comparatives, or superlatives; and nostrī and vestrī after other words.

The English substantive pronouns, he, she, it, are expressed in Latin by these pronominal adjectives, ille, iste, bis, or is; as,

Ille, for the masc. illa, for the fem. illud, for the neut. that: or, ille, he; illa, she; illud, it, or that; thus,

Ipse, he himself, ipsa, she herself, ipsum, itself; and ipse, ista, istud, that, are declined like ille; only ipse has ipsum in the nom. acc. and voc. sing. neut.

Ipse is often joined to ego, tu, sui; and has in Latin the same force with self in English, when joined with a possessive pronoun; as, ego ipse, I myself.

The other pronouns are derivatives, coming from ego, tu, and fui. Meus, my or mine ; tus, thy or thine ; suus, his own, her own, its own, their own, are declined like bonus, -a, -um ; and nostrer, our ; vester, your, like pulcher, -chra, -chrum, of the first and second declension.

Nbras, of our country ; vestras, of your country ; cujas, of what or which country, are declined like felix, of the third declension : gen. nostratis, dat. nostrati, &c.

Pronouns as well as nouns, that signify things, which cannot be addressed, or called upon, want the vocative.

Meus hath mi, and sometimes meus, in the voc. sing. mase.

The relative qui has frequently qui in the ablative, and that, which is remarkable, in all genders and numbers.

Qui is sometimes used for quis : and instead of cuius the genit. of quis we find an adjective pronoun cuius, -a, -um.

Simple pronouns, with respect to their signification, are divided into the following classes :

1. Demonstratives, which point out any person or thing present, or, as if present : Ego, tu, hic, iste, and sometimes ille, is, ipse.

2. Relatives, which refer to something going before : ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, qui.

3. Possessives, which signify possession : meus, tuus, suus, nostrer, vester.

4. Patrals or Gentiles, which signify one's country : nostras, vestras, cuias.

5. Interrogatives, by which we ask a question: quis? cuja? When they do not ask a question, they are called Indefinites, like other words of the same nature.

6. Reciprocals, which again call back or represent the same object to the mind: sui, and seus.

COMPOUND PRONOUNS.

Pronouns are compounded variously:

1. With other pronouns; as, isbic, isbæc, isboc, isbuc, or isbuc. Acc. Isbunc, isbanc, isboc, or isbuc. Abl. Isboc, isbæc, isboc. Nom. and acc. plur. neut. isbæc, of iste and bic. So illie, of ille and bic.

2. With some other parts of speech; as, bujusmōdi, cujusmōdi, &c. mecum, tecum, secum, nobiscum, vobiscum, quocum or quicum and quibuscum: eccum, eccam; eccos, eccas, and sometimes ecca, in the nom. sing. of ecce and is. So ellum, of ecce and ille.

3. With some syllable added: as, tute, of tu and te, used only in the nom. egomet, tutemet, suimet, through all the cases, thus, meimet, tuimet, &c. of ego, tu, sui, and met. Instead of tumet in the nom. we say, tutemet: biccine, bæccine, &c. in all the cases that end in e; of bic and cine: Meapte, tuapte, suapte, noſtrapte, veſtrapte, in the ablat. fem. and sometimes meopte, tuopte, &c. of meus, &c. and pte: bicce, bæcce, buccce; bujusce, bice, bifce, bofce; of bic and ce: whence bujuscemōdi, cujuscemōdi. So IDEM, the same, compounded of is and dem, which is thus declined:

Sing.	Plur.
N. idem , eādem , īdem ,	N. iidem , eādem , īdem ,
G. ejusdem , ejusdem , ejusdem ,	G. eorundem , earundem , eorundem ,
D. eidem , eidem , eidem ,	D. eisdem or iisdem , &c.
A. eundem , candem , idem ,	A. eosdem , easdem , eadem ,
V. idem , eadem , idem .	V. iidem , eādem , īdem ,
A. cōdem , cādem , cōdem .	A. eisdem or iisdem , &c.

The pronouns which we find most frequently compounded, are quis and qui.

Quis in composition is sometimes the first, sometimes the last, and sometimes likewise the middle part of the word compounded: but qui is always the first.

1. The compounds of quis, in which it is put first, are, quisnam, who? quispiam, quisquam, any one; quisque, every one; quisquis, whosoever; which are thus declined:

Nom.	Gen.	Dat.
Quisnam , quænam , quodnam or quidnam ;	cujusnam , cuinam ,
Quispiam , quæpiam , quodpiam or quidpiam ;	cujuspiam , cuipiam ,
Quisquam , quæquam , quodquam or quidquam ;	cujusquam , cuiquam ,
Quique , quæque , quodque or quidque ;	cujusque , cuique ,
Quisquis , — quidquid or quicquid ;	cujusquis , cuiquid

And so in other cases, according to the simple quis. But quisquis has not the feminine at all, and the neuter only in the nominative and accusative. Quisquam has also quicquam, for quidquam. Accusative, quengquam, without the feminine. The plural is scarcely used.

2. The compounds of quis, in which quis is put last, have qua in the nominative sing. fem. and in the nominative and accusative plur. neut. as, aliquis, some; ecquis, who? of ec and quis; also nequis, nequis, numquis, which for the most part are read separately, thus, ne quis; si quis, num quis. They are thus declined:

	Nom.	Gen.	Dat.
Aliquis, aliqua,	aliquod or aliquid,	alicujus,	alicui,
Ecquis, ecqua or ecquæ,	ecquod or ecquid,	eccujuſ,	eccuī,
Si quis, si qua,	si quod or si quid,	ſi eujus,	ſi cui,
Ne quis, ne qua,	ne quod or ne quid,	ne eujus,	ne cui.
Num quis, num qua,	num quod or num quid,	num eujus,	num cui.

3. The compounds which have quis in the middle, are ecquisnam, who? unusquisque, gen. uniuscuiusque, every one. The former is used only in the nom. sing. and the latter wants the plural.

4. The compounds of qui are quicunque, whosoever; quidam, some; quilibet, quivis, any one, whom you please; which are thus declined:

	Nom.	Gen.	Dat.
Quicunque, quæcunque, quodcunque,	cujuscunque, cuicunque,
Quidam, quædam,	quoddam or quiddam, cujusdam,	cuidam,
Quilibet, quælibet,	quodlibet or quidlibet, cujuslibet,	cuilibet,
Quivis, quævis,	quodvis or quidvis, cujusvis,	cuivis.

Obs. 1. All these compounds have seldom or never quis, but quibus, in their dat. and abl. plur.; thus, aliquibus, &c.

Obs. 2. Quis, and its compounds in comic writers, have sometimes quis in the feminine gender.

Obs. 3. Quidam hath quendam, quandam, quoddam, or quiddam, in the acc. sing. and quorundam, quarundam, quorundam, in the gen. plur. n being put instead of m, for the better sound.

Obs. 4. Quod, with its compounds, aliquid, quodvis, quoddam, &c. are used when they agree with a substantive in the same case; quid, with its compounds, aliquid, quidvis, &c. for the most part have either no substantive expressed, or govern one in the genitive. For this reason they are by some reckoned substantives.

VERB.

A verb is a word which expresses what is affirmed of things; as, The boy reads. The sun shines. The man loves.

Or, A verb is that part of speech which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer.

It is called Verb or Word, by way of eminence, because it is the most essential word in a sentence, without which the other parts of speech can form no complete sense. Thus, the diligent boy reads his lesson with care, is a perfect sentence; but if we take away the affirmation, or the word reads, it is rendered imperfect, or rather becomes no sentence at all; thus, the diligent boy his lesson with care.

A verb therefore may be thus distinguished from any other part of speech: Whatever word expresses an affirmation or assertion is a verb; or thus, Whatever word, with a substantive noun or pronoun before or after it, makes full sense, is a verb; as, stones fall, I walk, walk thou. Here fall and walk are verbs, because they contain an affirmation; but when we say, a long walk, a dangerous fall, there is no affirmation expressed; and the same words walk and fall become substantives or nouns. We often find likewise in Latin the same word used as a verb, and also as some other part of speech; thus, amor, -oris, love, a substantive, and amor, I am loved, a verb.

Verbs, with respect to their signification, are divided into three different classes, Active, Passive, and Neuter; because we consider things either as acting, or being acted upon; or as neither acting, nor being acted upon; but simply existing, or existing in a certain state or condition; as in a state of motion or rest, &c.

1. An Active verb expresses an action, and necessarily supposes an agent, and an object acted upon, as, amare, to love; amo te, I love thee.

2. A verb Passive expresses a passion or suffering, or the receiving of an action; and necessarily implies an object acted upon, and an agent, by which it is acted upon; as, amari, to be loved; tu amaris a me, thou art loved by me.

3. A Neuter verb properly expresses neither action nor passion, but simply the being, state, or condition of things; as, dormio, I sleep; fedo, I sit.

The verb Active is also called Transitive, when the action passeth over to the object, or hath an effect on some other thing; as, scribo literas, I write letters; but when the action is confined within the agent, and passeth not over to any object, it is called Intransitive; as, ambulo, I walk; curro, I run, which are likewise called Neuter Verbs. Many verbs in Latin and English are used both in a transitive and in an intransitive or neuter sense; as, scribere,

Obs. 1. The personal pronouns, which in English are, for the most part, added to the verb, in Latin are commonly understood; because the several persons are sufficiently distinguished from one another by the different terminations of the verb, though the persons themselves be not expressed. The learner however at first may be accustomed to join them with the verb; thus, ego sum, I am; tu es, thou art, or you are; ille est, he is; nos sumus, we are, &c. So ego amo, I love; tu amas, thou lovest, or you love; ille amat, he loveth or loves; nos amamus, we love; &c.

Obs. 2. In the second person singular in English, we commonly use the plural form, except in solemn discourse; as, tu es, thou art, or much oftener, you are; tu eras, thou wast, or you were; tu es, thou mayst be, or you may be, &c. So tu amas, thou lovest, or you love; tu amabas, thou lovedst, or you loved, &c.

Verbs are thus varied in the different Conjugations.

The passive voice is formed from the active, by adding r to o, or changing m into r.

A verb is commonly said to be conjugated, when only its principal parts are mentioned, because from them all the rest are derived.

The first person of the Present of the Indicative is called the Theme or the Root of the verb, because from it the other three principal parts are formed.

The letters of a verb which always remain the same, are called Radical letters ; as, am, in am-o. The rest are called the Termination ; as, abamus, in am-abamus.

All the letters which come before -are, -ere, -vre, or -ire, of the infinitive, are radical letters. By putting these before the terminations, all the parts of any regular verb may be readily formed, except the compound tenses.

Signification of the Tenses in the various Modes.

The tenses formed from the present of the indicative or infinitive signify in general the continuance of an action or passion, or represent them as present at some particular time : the other tenses express an action or passion completed ; but not always so absolutely, as entirely to exclude the continuance of the same action or passion ; thus, Amo, I love, do love, or am loving ; amabam, I loved, did love, or was loving, &c.

Amavi, I loved, did love, or have loved, that is, have done with loving, &c.

In like manner, in the passive voice ; Amor, I am loved, I am in loving, or in being loved, &c.

Past time in the passive voice is expressed several different ways, by means of the auxiliary verb sum, and the participle perfect ; thus,

Indicative Mode.

Perfect. Amatus sum, I am or have been loved, or oftener, I was loved.

Amatus fui, I have been loved, or I was loved.

Plu-perfect. Amatus eram, I was or had been loved.

Amatus fueram, I had been loved.

Subjunctive Mode.

Perfect. Amatus sim, I may be or may have been loved.

Amatus fueris, I may have been loved.

Plu-perfect. Amatus essem, I might, could, would, or should be or have been loved.

Amatus fuisset, I might, could, would, or should have been loved ; or, I had been loved.

Future. Amatus fuero, I shall have been loved.

The verb sum is also employed to express future time in the indicative mode, both active and passive ; thus,

Amaturus sum, I am about to love, I am to love, I am going to love, or I will love. We chiefly use this form, when some purpose or intention is signified.

Amatus ero, I shall be loved.

Obs. 1. The participles amatus and amaturus are put before the auxiliary verb, because we commonly find them so placed in the classics.

Obs. 2 In these compound tenses the learner should be taught to vary the participle like an adjective noun, according to the gender and number of the different substantives to which it is applied; thus, amatus est, he is or was loved, when applied to a man; amata est, she was loved, when applied to a woman; amatum est, it was loved, when applied to a thing; amatis sunt, they were loved, when applied to men, &c. The connecting of syntax, so far as is necessary, with the inflexion of nouns and verbs, seems to be the most proper method of teaching both.

Obs. 3. The past time and participle perfect in English are taken in different meanings, according to the different tenses in Latin which they are used to express. Thus, "I loved," when put for amabam, is taken in a sense different from what it has when put for amavi: so amor, and amatus sum, I am loved; amaber, and amatus eram, I was loved; amer, and amatus sum, &c. In the one, loved is taken in a present, in the other, in a past sense. This ambiguity arises from the defective nature of the English verb.

Obs. 4. The tenses of the subjunctive mode may be variously rendered, according to their connection with the other parts of a sentence. They are often expressed in English as the same tenses of the indicative, and sometimes one tense apparently put for another.

Thus, Quasi intelligant, qualis sit, As if they understood, what kind of person he is. Cic. In facinus jurasse putes, You would think, &c. Ov. Eloquar an fileam? Shall I speak out, or be silent? Nos nos arguerimus, Teucri, for arguam, Virg. Si quid te fagerit, ego perierim, for peribo, Ter. Hunc tantum dolorem si sperare potui, et perferrre potero: for potuissim and possem, Virg. Singula quid referam? Why should I mention every thing? Id. Prediceres mihi, you should have told me before hand, Ter. At tu dicitis, Albane, maneres, ought to have stood to your word, Virg. Citius crediderim, I should sooner believe, Juv. Fuerit ensis, The sword would have destroyed, Virg. Fuerint irati, Grant or suppose they were angry. Si id fecisset, If he did or should do that, Cic. The same promiscuous use of the tenses seems also to take place sometimes in the indicative and infinitive; and the indicative to be put for the subjunctive; as, Animus meminisse borret, luctuque refugit, for refugit, Virg. Fuerat melius, for fuisset, Id. Invidia dilapsa erat, for fuisset, Sall. Quamdiu in portum venis? for venisti, Plaut. Quam mox navigo Euboeum, for navigabo, Id. Tu si hic sis, aliter sentias, Ter. for, esset and sentires. Cato affimat, se vivo, illum non triumphare, for triumphaturum esse, Cic. Persuadet Cæsare, ut occuparet, for occupet, Cæs.

Obs. 5. The future of the subjunctive, and also of the indicative, is often rendered by the present of the subjunctive in English; as, nisi hoc faciet or fecerit, unless he do this. Ter.

Obs. 6. Instead of the imperative we often use the present of the subjunctive; as, valcas, farewell; huc vénias, come hither, &c. And Sto, steti, statum, to stand. Its compounds have stiti, stitum, and oftener statum; as, presto, prestiti, prestitum, or prestatum, to excel. So ex-, ad-, con-, in-, ob-, per-, pro-, re-flo.

Exc. 2. Lävo, lävü, lötum, lautum, lävätum, to wash.

Pöto, pötävi, pötum, or pötätum, to drink.

*Jüvo, jüvi, jütum, to help; fut. part. juvaturus. So adjüvo.*

Exc. 3. Cübo, cübui, cübitum, to ly. So ac-, ex-, oc-, re-cübo. The other compounds insert an m, and are of the third conjugation.

Dömo, dömuis, dömitum, to subdue. So e-, per-dömo.

Söno, sönui, sönitum, to sound. So af-, circum-, con-, dif-, ex-, in, per-, præ-, re-söno.

Töno, tönui, tönitum, to thunder. So at-, circum-, in-, superin-, re-töno. Horace has intonatus.

Vöto, vëtui, vëtitum, to forbid.

Crëpo, crëpui, crëpitum, to make a noise. So con-, in-, per-, re-crëpo: discrëpo has rather discrëpävi.

Exc. 4. Friço, fricui, fridum, to rub. So af-, circum-, con-, de-, ef-, in-, per-, re-friço. But some of these have also atum.

Sëco, sëcui, secum, to cut. So circum-, con-, de-, dif-, ex-, in-, inter-, per-, præ-, re-, sub-sëco.

Nëco, necui, or næcavi, næcatum, to kill. So inter-, e-nëco: but these have oftener etum; eneetum, interneetum.

Micco, micui, — to glitter. So inter-, pro-micco. Emicco, has emicui, emicatum; demicco, demicavi, demicatum, rarely demicui, to fight.

Exc. 5. These three want both pret. and sup. läbo, to fall or faint; nexo, to bind; and plico, to fold.

Plico compounded with a noun, or with the prepositions re, sub, has ävi, ätum; as, duplico, duplicavi, duplicatum, to double. So multi-, sup-, re-plico.

The other compounds of plico have either ävi and ätum, or ui and ütum; as, applico, applicui, applicum, or ävi, ätum, to apply. So im-, com-, plico. Explico, to unfold, has commonly explicui, explicatum; but when it signifies to explain or interpret, explicävi, explicatum.

Second Conjugation:

Verbs of the second conjugation have ui and ütum; as, habeo, habui, habatum, to have.

Neuter verbs which have ui want the supine; as, ārēo, ārui, to be dry.

But the neuter verbs which follow, together with their compounds, have the supine, and are regularly conjugated: Vāleo, to be in health; and equi-, con-, e-, in-, pre-vāleo; plāceo, to please; and com-, per-placeo; displāceo, to displease: Cāreo, to want; pāreo, to appear, to obey; and ap-, com pāreo: Jāceo, to lie; and ad-, circum-, inter-, ob-, prā-, sub, super-jāceo: Cāleo, to be warm; and con-, in-, ob-, per-, re-cāleo: nōceo, to hurt; dōleo, to be grieved, and con-, de-, in-, per dōleo: Coāleo, to grow together. Lāteo, which in the active signifies, to be valued, to be lawful; and, what is singular, in the passive, to bid a price. Lāteo, inter-, sub-lāteo; as likewise do those of tāceo, -cui, -cītūm, to be silent, con-, ob-, re-tāceo.

These three active verbs likewise want the supine: Tīmeo, to fear; sīleo, to conceal; arceo, to drive away: But the compounds of arceo have the supine; as, exerceo, exercui, exercītūm, to exercise. So co-erceo, to restrain.

Exc. 1. The following verbs in BEO and CEO:

Jūbeo, jussi, jussūm, to order. So fide-jūbeo, to bail or be surety for.

Sorbeo, sorbui, sorptūm, to sup. So ab-, ex-, re-sorbeo. We also find absorpsi, exsorpsi: Exsorptūm, resorptūm, are not in use.

Dōceo, dōcui, doctūm, to teach. So ad-, con-, de-, e-, per-, sub-dōceo.

Mīsceo, mīscui, mīstūm, or mixtūm, to mix. So ad-, com-, im-, inter-, per-, re-mīsceo.

Mulceo, mulsi, mulsum, to stroak. So ad-, circum-, com-, de-, per-, re-mulceo.

Lūceo, luxi, — to shine. So al-, circum-, col-, di-, e-, il-, inter-, per-, or pel-, prā-, pro-, re-, sub-, trans-lūceo.

Exc. 2. The following verbs in DEO:

Prandeo, prandi, pransūm, to dine.

Vīdeo, vīdi, vīfūm, to see. So in-, per-, prā-, pro-, re-video.

Cæs. Inimicitia subeantur. Cic.

In like manner are conjugated the compounds of fero; as, affero, attuli, allatum; aufero, abstuli, ablatum; differo, dilstuli, ditatum; confero, contuli, collatum; infero, intuli, illatum; effero, obtuli, oblatum; effero, extuli, elatum. So circum-, per-, trans-, de-, pro-, ante-, prae-fero. In some writers we find adfero, adtuli, adlatum; conlatum, inlatum, obfero, &c. for affero, &c.

Obs. 1. Most part of the above verbs are made irregular by contraction. Thus, nolo is contracted for non volo; malo, for magis volo; fero, fers, fert, &c. for feris, ferit, &c. Fevor, ferris, v. ferre, feretur; for fereris, &c.

Obs. 2. The imperatives of dico, dūco, and fācio are contracted in the same manner with fer: thus we say, dic, duc, fac, instead of dice, dūce, fāce. But these often occur likewise in the regular form.

The compounds of ficio, which retain a, have also so in the passive, and fac-iir the imperative active; as, calefacio, to warm, calefio, calefac; but those which change a into i, form the passive regularly, and have sice in the imperative; as, conficio, confice; confici, confic-tus, confici. We find, however, confit, it is done, and confisi; defit, it is wanting; infit, he begins.

To irregular verbs may properly be subjoined what are commonly called NEUTER-PASSIVE Verbs, which, like so, form the preterite tenses according to the passive voice, and the rest in the active. These are, solo, solitus, solere, to use; audio, ausus, audere, to dare; gaudeo, gaudius, gaudere, to rejoice; fido, fisus, fidere, to trust: So confido, to trust; and diffido, to distrust; which also have confidi & diffidi. Some add marco, maritus, marcere, to be sad; but maritus is generally reckoned an adjective. We likewise say juratus sum and canatus sum, for juravi and canavi, but these may also be taken in a passive sense.

To these may be referred verbs, wholly active in their terminations, and passive in their signification; as, rapido, -avi, -atum, to be beaten or whipped; venio, to be sold; exulo, to be banished, &c.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

Verbs are called Defective, which are not used in certain tenses, numbers, and persons.

These three, odi, capi, and memini, are only used in the preterite tenses; and therefore are called Preteritive Verbs; though they have sometimes likewise a present signification: thus,

Odi, I hate, or have hated, oderam, oderim, odifsem, odero, odisse. Particles, ofus, ofurus: exofus, perofus.

Capi, I begin or have begun, ceparam, -erim, -ifsem, -ero, -isse. Supine cepta. Particles ceptus, cepturus.

Memini, I remember, or have remembered, meminoram, -erim, -ifsem, -ero, -isse: Imperative, memento, mementote.

Instead of odi, we sometimes say ofus sum; and always exofus, per-ofus sum, and not exodi, perodi. We say opus capit fieri, or ceptum est.

To these some add nōvi, because it frequently hath the signification of the present, I know, as well as, I have known, though it comes from nōscō, which is complete.

Furo, to be mad, dor, to be given, and for, to speak, as also der and fer, are not used in the first person singular; thus, we say, daris, datur; but never dor.

Of verbs which want many of their chief parts, the following most frequently occur: Aio, I say, inquam, I say, forem, I should be; ausim, contracted for ausus sim, I dare; faxim, I'll see to it, or I will do it; ave and salve, save you, hail, good Morrow; cedo, tell thou, or give me; queso, I pray.

Most of the other Defective verbs are but single words, and rarely to be found, but among the poets; as, infit, he begins; defit, it is wanting. Some are compounded of a verb and the conjunction si; as, si, for, si quis; sultis, for si vultis; sodes, for si audes; capitis, for capere si quis.

IMPERSONAL VERBS.

A verb is called Impersonal, which has only the terminations of the third person singular, but does not admit any person or nominative before it.

Impersonal verbs in English, have before them the neuter pronoun it, which is not considered as a person ; thus, delectat, it delights ; dicit, it becomes ; contingit, it happens ; evénit, it happens :

Ind. Pr. Delectat,	Dicit,	Contingit,	Evénit,

Inf. Pr. Delectare,	Decere,	Contingere,	Evenire,
Per. Delectavisse.	Decuisse.	Contigisse.	Evenisse.

Most Latin verbs may be used impersonally in the passive voice, especially Neuter and Intransitive verbs, which otherwise have no passive ; as, pugnatur, favetur, curritur, venitur ; from pugno, to fight ; faveo, to favour ; curro, to run ; venio, to come :

Ind. Pr. Pugnatur,	Favetur,	Curritur,	Venitur,
Im. Pugnabatur,	Favebatur,	Currebatur,	Veniebatur,
Per. Pugnatum est,	Fautum est,	Cursum est,	Ventum est,
Plu. Pugnatum erat,	Fautum erat,	Cursum erat,	Ventum erat,
Fut. Pugnabitur.	Favebitur.	Curretur.	Venietur.
Sub. Pr. Pugnatur,	Favetur,	Curratur,	Veniatur,
Im. Pugnaretur,	Faveretur,	Curreretur,	Veniretur,
Per. Pugnatum sit,	Fautum sit,	Cursum sit,	Ventum sit,
Plu. Pugnatum esset,	Fautum esset,	Cursum esset,	Ventum esset,
Fut. Pugnatum fuerit.	Fautum fuerit.	Cursum fuerit.	Ventum fuerit.
Inf. Pr. Pugnari,	Faveri,	Curri,	Veniri,
Pugnatum esse,	Fautum esse,	Cursum esse,	Ventum esse,
Pugnatum iri.	Fautum iri.	Cursum iri.	Ventum iri.

Obs. 1. Impersonal verbs are scarcely used in the imperative, but instead of it we take the subjunctive ; as, delectet, let it delight, &c. ; nor in the supines, participles, or gerunds, except a few ; as, pānitens, -dum, dus, &c. Induci ad pudendum et pigendum, Cic. In the preterite tenses of the passive voice, the participle perfect is always put in the neuter gender.

Obs. 2. Grammarians reckon only ten real Impersonal verbs, and all in the second conjugation; dēbet, it becomes; penitit, it repents; oportet, it behoves; miseret, it pities; pīget, it irketh; pūdet, it shameth; scīct, it is lawful; libet or lūbet, it pleaseth; tadet, it wearieth; līquet, it appears. Of which the following have a double preterite; miseret, miseruit, or miseratum est; pīget, pīgūit, or pīgitum est; pūdet, pūdūit, or pūdīsum est; scīct, scīcūit, or scītum est; libet, libūit, or libitum est; tadet, tadūit, tadīsum est; līquet, līquēit, or līquīsum est. But many other verbs are used impersonally in all the conjugations:

In the first, Jūcat, spēctat, vācat, flūt, confīat, prēfīat, refīat, &c.

In the second, Appāret, attīnēt, perfīnēt, dēbet, dōlet, nōcēt, lātēt, līquēt, pātēt, plācēt, displācēt, sēdet, sōlet, &c.

In the third, Accīdit, incīpit, derīnit, suffīcit, &c.

In the fourth, Convēnit, expēdit, &c.

Also irregular verbs, Est, obēst, prodrēst, pōtēst, intēst, supēst; fit, prētēst, nequīt, subīt, confēt, refēt, &c.

Obs. 3. Under impersonal verbs may be comprehended those which express the operations or appearances of nature; as, Fulgūrat, fulmīnat, tōnat, grandīnat, gēlat, pluit, nisgit, lucēscit, advesperāscit, &c.

Obs. 4. Impersonal verbs are applied to any person or number, by putting that which stands before other verbs, after the impersonals, in the cases which they govern; as, placēt, mībi, tībi, īlli, it pleases me, thee, him; or I please, thou pleasest, &c. pugnatur a me, a te, ab illo, I fight, thou fightest, he fighteth, &c. So Curritar, venītur a me, a te, &c. I run, thou runnest, &c. Favetūr tībi a me, Thou art favored by me, or I favor thee, &c.

Obs. 5. Verbs are used personally or impersonally, according to the particular meaning which they express, or the different import of the words with which they are joined; thus we can say, ego placēo tībi, I please you; but we cannot say, si places audire, if you please to hear, but si placēt tībi audire. So, we can say, multa homīni contīgunt, many things happen to a man: but instead of ega contīgi ēsse domī, we must either say, me contīgit ēsse domī, or mībi contīgit ēsse domī, I happened to be at home. The proper and elegant use of impersonal verbs can only be acquired by practice.

REDUNDANT VERBS.

Those are called Redundant Verbs, which have different forms to express the same sense: thus, assentio and assentior, to agree; fabrīco and fabrīcor, to frame; mereo and mercor, to deserve, &c. These verbs, however, under the passive form have likewise a passive signification.

Several verbs are used in different conjugations.

1. Some are usually of the first conjugation, and rarely of the third; as, lavo, lavas, lavāre: and lavo, lavis, lavēre, to wash.

2. Some are usually of the second, and rarely of the third; as,
Ferveo, ferves, and servo, servis, to boil.

Fulgeo, fulges, and fulgo, fulgis, to shine.

Strideo, strides, and strido, stridis, to make a noise.

Tueor, tuēris, and tuor, tuēris, to defend.

To these add tergeo, terges; and tergo, tergis, to wipe, which are equally common.

3. Some are commonly of the third conjugation, and rarely of the fourth; as,

Fodio, fodis, fodēre, and fodio, fodis, fodēre, to dig.

Sallo, fallis, fallēre, and fallio, fallis, fallēre, to salt.

Arcessō, -is, arcessēre, and arcessio, arcessēre, to send for.

Morior, morēris, mori, and morior, morēris, moriri, to die.

So Orior, orēris, and orior, oriris, oriri, to rise.

Potior, potēris, and potior, potiris, potiri, to enjoy.

There is likewise a verb, which is usually of the second conjugation, and more rarely of the fourth, namely, cito, cies, ciēre; and cic, cicēre, to rouse; whence arciere and accitūs.

To these we may add the verb EDO, to eat, which, though regularly formed, also agrees in several of its parts with sum; thus,

Ind. Pres. Edo, edis or es, edit or est, — editis or estis. —

Imp. Ede or es, edito or esto; edite or este; editore or estore.

Sub. Imperf. Ederem or estem, ederes or estes, &c.

Inf. Pres. Edere or este.

Passive Ind. Pres. Editur or estur.

It may not be improper here to subjoin a list of those verbs which resemble one another in some of their parts, though they differ in signification. Of these some agree in the present, some in the preterite, and others in the supine.

1. The following agree in the present, but are differently conjugated:

Aggēro, -as, to heap up.

Aggēro, -is, to bring together.

Appello, -is, to arrive.

Compello, -as, to address.

Mando, -is, to chuse.

Obsēro, -as, to look.

Cōlo, -is, to till.

Dico, -as, to dedicate.

Dico, -is, to say.

Edūco, -as, to train up.
Lēgo, -as, to send.
Vādo, -as, to wade.

Vādo, -is, to go.

2. The following verbs agree in the preterite:

THE OBSOLETE CONJUGATION.

This chiefly occurs in old writers, and only in particular conjugations and tenses.

1. The ancient Latins made the imperfect of the indicative active of the fourth conjugation in IBAM, without the e; as, audībam, scībam; for audiēbam, scībam.

2. In the future of the indicative of the fourth conjugation, they used IBO in the active, and ibor in the passive voice; as, dormībo, dormībor, for dormiam, dormiar.

3. The present of the subjunctive anciently ended in IM; as, edim, for edum; dūim for dēm.

4. The perfect of the subjunctive active sometimes occurs in SSIM, and the future in SSO; as, levāfīm, levāfō, for levaverim, levaverō; cupīm, cupō, for ceperim, ceperō: Hence the future of the infinitive was formed in ASSERE; as, levāfēre, for levaturus ēfō.

5. In the second person of the present of the imperative passive, we find MINO in the singular, and minor in the plural; as, fūmī, for fare; and progrēdiminor for progrēdimini.

6. The syllable ER was frequently added to the present of the infinitive passive; as, farier, for fari; dicer, for dici.

7. The participles of the future time active, and perfect passive, when joined with the verb ēfō, were sometimes used as indeclinable: thus, credo inimicos dīcturum ēfō, for dīcturos, Cic. Cohortes ad me missas facias, for missas, Cic. ad Attic. viii. 12.

DERIVATION AND COMPOSITION OF VERBS.

I. Verbs are derived either from nouns or from other verbs.

Verbs derived from nouns are called Denominative; as, Canis, to sup; laudo, to praise; fraudo, to defraud; lapido, to throw stones; operor, to work; frumentor, to forage; lignor, to gather fuel, &c. from cana, laus, fraus, &c. But when they express imitation or resemblance, they are called Imitative; as, Patriffo, gracor, bubulo, cornicor, &c. I imitate or resemble my father, a Græcian, a crow, &c. from pater, Græcus, cornix.

Of those derived from other verbs, the following chiefly deserve attention; namely, Frequentatives, Inceptives, and Desideratives.

1. FREQUENTATIVES express frequency of action, and are all of the first conjugation. They are formed from the last supine, by changing ātu into ito, in verbs of the first conjugation; and by changing ā into o, in verbs of the other three conjugations; as, clamo, to cry, clamito, to cry frequently; tendo, territo; erto, erito; dormio, dormito.

In like manner, Deponent verbs form Frequentatives in er; as, minor, to threaten; minitor, to threaten frequently.

Some are formed in an irregular manner; as, nato from ne; negrito from negos; scitor, or rather sciscitor, from scio; pavito, from pavo; sector, from sequor; loquitor, from loquor. do querito, fundito, agito; fluito, &c.

From Frequentative verbs are also formed other frequentatives; as, curro, curso, currito; pollo, pulso, pulrito, or by contraction pulto; capio, capto, caprito; cano, canto, cantito; defendo, defenso, defensito; dico, dicto, dictito; gero, gespo, geslito; jacio, jacito, jacrito; venio, venito; mutio, muſſo, (or mutito) muſſito, &c.

Verbs of this kind do not always express frequency of action. Many of them have much the same sense with their primitives, or express the meaning more strongly.

2. INCEPTIVE Verbs mark the beginning or continued increase of any thing. They are formed from the second person sing. of the present of the indicative, by adding co: as, caleo, to be hot, cales, calesco, to grow hot. So in the other conjugations, labasco, from labo; tremisco, from tremo; obdormisco, from obdormio. Hisco, from bio, is contracted for biasco. Inceptives are likewise formed from substantives and adjectives; as, puerisco, from puer; dulcesco, from dulcis; juvenisco, from juvenis.

All Inceptives are Neuter verbs, and of the third conjugation. They want both the preterite and supine; unless very rarely, when they borrow them from their primitives.

3. DESIDERATIVE Verbs signify a desire or intention of doing a thing. They are formed from the latter supine, by adding rio and shortening the u; as, canaturio, I desire to sup, from canatur. They are all of the fourth conjugation, and want both preterite and future, except these three, esūrio, to desire to eat; partūrio, to be in travail; uptūrio, to desire to be married.

There are a few verbs in L.I.O, which are called Diminutive; as, castillo, forbillō, -aro, I sing, I sup a little. To these some add albīco and candīco, -are, to be or to grow whitish; also nigrico, fodīco, and vellico. Some verbs in SSO are called Intensive; as, Capeffō, faceffō, peteffō or petīffō, I take, I do, I seek earnestly.

Verbs are compounded with nouns, with other verbs, with adverbs, and chiefly with prepositions. Many of the simple verbs are not in use; as, Fūto, fendo, specio, gruo, &c. The component parts usually remain entire. Sometimes a letter is added; as, prodeo, for pro eo: or taken away; as, asporto, omitto, trado, pejēro, pergo, debo, praboo, &c. for absparto, obmittō, transfō, perjūro, perrego, debibeo, prabibeo, &c. So demo, romo, sumo, of de, pro, sub, and emo, which anciently signified to take or to take away. Often the vowel or diphthong of the simple verb, and the last consonant of the preposition, is changed; as, dawnō, condēmno; calco, concūlco; Ledo, collīdo; audio, obēdīo, &c. Affēro, aufēro, collāudo, implīco, &c. for adfero, abfero, conlaudo, inplīco, &c.

PARTICIPLE.

A Participle is a kind of adjective formed from a verb, which in its signification implies time.

It is so called, because it partakes both of an adjective and of a verb, having in Latin gender and declension from the one, time and signification from the other, and number from both.

Participles in Latin are declined like adjectives; and their signification is various, according to the nature of the verbs from which they come: only participles in *du*s are always passive, and import not so much future time, as obligation or necessity.

Latin verbs have four Participles, the présent and future active; as, Amans, loving; amatūrus, about to love: and the perfect and future passive; as, amatus, loved; amandus, to be loved.

The Latins have not a participle perfect in the active, nor a participle present in the passive voice; which defect must be supplied by a circumlocution. Thus, to express the perfect participle active in English, we use a conjunction, and the plu-perfect of the subjunctive in Latin, or some other tense, according to its connection with the other words of a sentence; as, he having loved, quum amavisset, &c.

Neuter verbs have commonly but two Participles; as, Sedens, sessurus; flans, staturus.

From some Neuter verbs are formed Participles of the perfect tense ; as, Erratus, festinatus, juratus, laboratus, vigilatus, sudatus, triumphatus, regnatus, decursus, desitus, emeritus, emersus, obitus, placitus, successus, occasus, &c. and also of the future in dus : as, Jurandus, vigilandus, regnandus, carendus, dormiendus, erubescendus, &c. Neuter passive verbs are equally various. Veno, has no participle : Eido, only fidens and ffus ; soleo, solens and solitus ; vapulo, vapulans and vapulaturus ; Gaudio, gaudens, gavisus, and gavisorus ; Audeo, audens, ausus, ausurus, audiendus. Ausus is used both in an active and passive sense ; as, Ausi omnes immane nefas, ausoque potiti. Virg.

Deponent and Common verbs have commonly four Participles ; as, Loquens, speaking ; locuturus, about to speak ; locutus, having spoken ; loquendus, to be spoken : Dignans, vouchsafing ; dignaturus, about to vouchsafe ; dignatus, having vouchsafed, being vouchsafed, or having been vouchsafed ; dignandus, to be vouchsafed. Many Participles of the perfect tense from Deponent verbs have both an active and passive sense ; as, Abominatus, conatus, confessus, abortus, amplexus, blanditus, largitus, mentitus, oblitus, testatus, veneratus, &c.

There are several Participles compounded with in signifying not, the verbs of which do not admit of such composition ; as, Insciens, insperans, indicens, for non dicens, inopinans and recopinans, immixens ; Illatus, impransus, inconfutus, incuspidatus, immixtus, impunitus, imparatus, incommixtus, incompitus, indemnatus, indolatus, incorruptus, interritis, and imperterritus, infestatus, inausus, inopinatus, inaltus, incensus, for non census, not registered ; infactus, for non factus, invitus, for non visus, indictus, for non dictus, &c. There is a different incensus from incendo : infactus from inficio ; invitus from invideo ; indictus from indico, &c.

If from the signification of a Participle we take away time, it becomes an adjective, and admits the degrees of comparison ; as,

Amaus, loving, amantior, amantissimus ; doctus, learned, doctior, doctissimus : or a substantive ; as, Praefectus, a commander or governor ; consonans, f. sc. litera, a consonant ; continens, f. sc. terra, a continent ; confluens, m. a place where two rivers run together ; oriens, m. sc. sol, the east ; occidens, m. the west ; dictum, a saying ; scriptum, &c.

There are many words in ATUS, ITUS, and UTUS, which although resembling participles are reckoned adjectives, because they come from nouns, and not from verba ; as, alatus, barbatus, cordatus, caudatus, crinitatus, auritus, pellitus turritus ; ostatus, cornutus, nosatus, &c. winged, bearded, discreet, &c. But auratus, oratus, argenteatus, ferratus, plumbatus, gypsatus, calocatus, clypeatus, galeatus, tunicatus, larvatus, palliatus, lymphatus, purpuratus, praetextatus, &c. covered with gold, brass, silver, &c. are accounted participles, because they are supposed to come from obsolete verbs. So perhaps calamistratus, frizzled, crisped or curled, crinitus, having long hair, peritus, &c.

There are a kind of Verbal adjectives in BUNDUS, formed from the imperfect of the indicative, which very much resemble Participle in their signification, but generally express the meaning of the verb more fully, or denote an abundance or great deal of the action; as, vitabundus, the same with valde vitus, avoiding much; Sall. Jug. 60. and 101; Liv. xxv. 13. So errabundus, ludibundus, populabundus, moribundus, &c.

GERUNDS AND SUPINES.

GERUNDS are Participial words, which bear the signification of the verb from which they are formed; and are declined like a neuter noun of the second declension, through all the cases of the singular number, except the vocative.

There are, both in Latin and English, substantives derived from the verb, which so much resemble the Gerund in their signification, that frequently they may be substituted in its place. They are generally used, however, in a more undetermined sense than the Gerund, and in English have the article always prefixed to them. Thus, with the gerund, Delector legendo Ciceronem, I am delighted with reading Cicero. But with the substantive, Delector lectione Ciceronis, I am delighted with the reading of Cicero.

The Gerund and Future Participle of verbs in io, and some others, often take u instead of e; as, fuiundum, di, do, dus; experiundum, potiundum, gerundum, petundum, dicundum, &c. for faciendum, &c.

SUPINES have much the same signification with Gerunds; and may be indifferently applied to any person or number. They agree in termination with nouns of the fourth declension, having only the accusative and ablative cases.

The former Supine is commonly used in an active, and the latter in a passive sense, but sometimes the contrary; as, coclear non vapulatum dudum conductus fui, i. e. ut vapularem, v. verberarer, to be beaten, Plaut.

DERIVATION, COMPARISON, and COMPOSITION, of AD- VERBS.

Adverbs are derived, 1. from Substantives, and end commonly in tim or tus; as, Partim, partly, by parts; nominativ, by name; generativ, by kinds, generally; speciativ, viciativ, gregativ; radicativ, from the root, &c. 2. From adjectives: and these are by far the most numerous. Such as come from Adjectives of the first and second declension usually end in E; as, liberè, freely; plenè, fully: Some in O, UM, and TER; as, falsè, tantum, graviter: A few in A, ITUS and IM; as, reclamè, antiquitùs, privativi. Some are used two or three ways; as, primum, v. -ò; purè, -iter; certè, -ò; cautè, -tim; humane, -iter, -itus; publicè, publicitus, &c. Adverbs from Adjectives of the third declension commonly end in TER, seldom in E; as, surpiter, feliciter, acriter, pariter; facile, repente: one in O, omnino. The neuter of Adjectives is sometimes taken Adverbially; as, recens natus, for recenter; perfidum ridens, for perfidè, Hor. multa reluctans, for, multum or valde, Virg. So in English we say, to speak loud, bigb., &c. for loudly, bigbly, &c. In many cases a Substantive is understood; as, primo, sc. loco, optatè advenit, sc. tempore; bac, sc. vid, &c.

3. From each of the pronominal adjectives, ille, iste, hic, is, idem, &c. are formed adverbs, which express all the circumstances of place; as from ille, illuc, illuc, illorūsum, illinc, and illac. So from quis, ubi, quo, quorūsum, unde, and quā. Also of time; thus, quando, quāndiu, and quoties.

4. From verbs and participles; as, scissum, with the edge; punctum, with the point; strictum, closely; from cōdo, pungo, stringo: amanter, properanter, dubitanter; distantè, emendatè; meritō, inopinato, &c. But these last are thought to be in the ablative, having ex understood, which is also sometimes expressed.

5. From prepositions; as, intus, intro, from in; clanculum, from clam; subtus, from sub, &c.

Adverbs derived from adjectives are commonly compared like their primitives. The positive generally ends in e, or ter; as, durè, facile, acriter: The comparative, in ius; as, durius, facilius, acrius: The superlative, in ime; as, durissimè, facillimè, acerrimè.

If the comparison of the adjective be irregular or defective, the comparison of the adverb is so too; as, benè, meliùs, optimè; malè, pejus, peßimè; parùm, minùs, minimè, um um; multùm, plus, plurimùm; prope, propiùs, proximè; ocùs, ocysimè; priùs, primo, -ùm; nuper, nyperrime; novè, noviter, novissimè; meritō, meritissimò; &c. Those adverbs also are compared whose primitives are obsolete; as, sæpè, sæpiùs, sæpissimè; penitùs, penitiùs, penitissimè; satis, satiùs; secus, seciùs; &c. Magis, maxime; and potius, potissimum, want the positive.

Adverbs are variously compounded of all the different parts of speech; thus, postridie, magnopere, maximopere, summopere, tantopere, multimōdis, omnīmōdis, quonmōdo, quare; of postero die; magnō opere, &c. Hicet, scilicet, videlicet, of ire, scire, videre licet; illīeo, of in loco; quorūsum, of quo versum; commīnus, band to band, of eum or eon and manus; emīnus, at a distance, of e, and manus; quorūsum, of quo versum; denuo aneru, of de novo; quin, why not, but, of qui ne; cur, of cui rei; pedetentim, step by step, as it were pedem tendendo; perendie, for perempto dic; nimirum, of ne, i.e. non nimirum.

rum ; antes, postea, præterea, ¶c. of ante and ea, ¶c. Ubivis, quovis, undelibet, quoisque, sicut, scitum, velut, velutum, desuper, insuper, quamobrem, ¶c. of ubi, and vis, ¶c. nudius tortius, of nunc dies tertius ; identidem, of idem et idem ; impræsentiarum, i. e. in tempore rerum præsentium, ¶c.

Obs. 1. The Adverb is not an essential part of speech. It only serves to express shortly, in one word, what must otherwise have required two or more ; as, sapienter, wisely, for cum sapientia ; bic, for in hoc loco ; semper, for in omni tempore ; semel, for una viis ; bis, for duabus vicibus ; Mebercule, for Hercules me juvet, ¶c.

Obs. 2. Some adverbs of time, place, and order, are frequently used the one for the other : as, ubi, where or when ; inde, from that place, from that time, after that, next ; hactenus, hitherto, thus far, with respect to place, time, or order, &c.

Obs. 3. Some adverbs of time are either past, present, or future ; as jam, already, now, by and by ; olim, long ago, some time, hereafter. Some adverbs of place are equally various ; thus, esse peregrinè, to be abroad ; ire peregrinè, to go abroad ; redire peregrinè, to return from abroad.

Obs. 4. Interrogative adverbs of time and place doubled, or compounded with cunque, answer to the English adjectives so ever, as, ubi ubi, or ubicunque, wheresoever ; quoguā, quocunque, whithersoever, &c. The same holds also in other interrogative words ; as, quotquot, or quotcunque, how many soever ; quantus quantus, or quantuscunque, how great soever ; utut, or utcunque, however or howsoever, &c.

PREPOSITION.

A Preposition is an indeclinable word which shews the relation of one thing to another.

There are twenty-eight Prepositions in Latin which govern the accusative ; that is, have an accusative after them.

Ad,	To.	Infra,	Beneath.
Apud,	At.	Juxta,	Neigh to.
Ante,	Before.	Ob,	For.
Adversus,	Against, towards.	Propter,	For, hard by.
Adversum,	Against.	Per,	By, through.
Contra,	Against.	Præter,	Besides, except.
Cis,	On this side.	Penes,	In the power of.
Citra,		Post,	After.
Circa,	About.	Pone,	Behind.
Circum,		Secus,	By, along.
Erga,	Towards.	Secundum,	According to.
Extra,	Without.	Supra,	Above.
Inter,	Between, among.	Trans,	On the farther side.
Ultra,	Within.	Ultra,	Beyond.

The Prepositions which govern the ablative are fifteen ; namely,

A,	{	From, or by.	De,	Of, concerning.
Ab,			E,	{ Of, out of.
Abs,	{	Without.	Ex,
Absque,			Pro,	For.
Cum,	{	With.	Præ,	Before.
Clam,		Without the know- ledge of.	Palam,	With the knowledge of.
Coram,	{	Before, in the pre- sence of.	Sine,	Without.
			Tenuis,	Up to, as far as.

These four govern sometimes the accusative, and sometimes the ablative :

In, In, into. Sub, Under. Super, Above. Subter, Beneath.

Obs. 1. Prepositions are so called, because they are generally placed before the word with which they are joined. Some, however, are put after ; as, cum, when joined with me, te, sc., and sometimes with quo, qui, and quibus : thus, me cum, te cum, &c. Tenuis is always placed after ; as, mentis tenuis, up to the chin. So likewise are versus and usque ; and ward, in English ; as, toward, eastward, &c.

Obs. 2. Prepositions, both in English and Latin, are often compounded with other parts of speech, particularly with verbs ; as, subire, to undergo. In English they are frequently put after verbs ; as, to go in, to go out, to look to, &c.

Prepositions are also sometimes compounded together ; as, Ex ad-versus eum locum, Cic. Ex adversum Atbenas, C. Nep. In ante diem quartum Kalendarum Decembribus distulit, i. e. usque in eum diem, Cic. Supplicatio indicta est ex ante diem quintum Idus Octob. i. e. ab eo die, Liv. Ex ante pridie Idus Septembribus, Plin. But prepositions compounded together commonly become adverbs or conjunctions ; as, propalam, protinus, insuper, &c.

Obs. 3. Prepositions in composition usually retain their primitive signification : as, ad eo, to go to : præpono, to place before. But from this there are several exceptions. 1. In joined with adjectives generally denotes privation ; as, infidus, unfaithful : but when joined with verbs, increases their signification ; as, induro, to harden greatly. In some words in has two contrary senses ; as, invictus, called upon, or not called upon. So infrænatus, immunitatus, infusus, impensus, inbunatus, intentatus, &c. 2. Per commonly increases the signification ; as, Percarus, percolder, percōmis, percuriōsus, perdifficilis, perelegans, pergratus, pergravis, perboscitūlis, perilluſtris, perlatus, &c. very dear, very swift, &c. 3. Præ sometimes increases ; as, Praelarus, prædives, prædulcis, prædūrus, præpinguis, prævalidus ; prævalco, præpollo : and also Ex ; as, Exstamo, exaggrero, exangeo, excalefacio, extenuo, exbiliro.

but ix sometimes denotes privation; as, Exsanguis, bloodless, pale; excors, exanimis, -mo, &c. 4. Sub often diminishes; as, Subalbidus, subfuscus, submārus, subdulcis, subgrandis, subgrāvis, subniger, &c. a little white or whitish, &c. Dz often signifies downward; as, Dēcēdo, decurrō, degrāvo, despicio, delābor: sometimes increases; as, Deāmo, de-miror; and sometimes expresses privation; as, Dēmens, decōler, de-formis, &c.

Obs. 4. There are five or six syllables, namely, am, di, or dis, re, se, con, which are commonly called Inseparable Prepositions, because they are only to be found in compound words: however they generally add something to the signification of the words with which they are compounded; thus,

Am,	round about.	as,	Ambio,	to surround.
Di,	asunder.		Divello,	to pull asunder.
Dis,			Distrāho,	to draw asunder.
Re,	again.		Relēgo,	to read again.
Se,	aside or apart.		Sepōno,	to lay aside.
Con,	together.		Concresco,	to grow together.

INTERJECTION.

An Interjection is an indeclinable word thrown in between the parts of a sentence, to express some passion or emotion of the mind.

Some Interjections are natural sounds, and common to all languages; as, Ob ! Ab !

Interjections express in one word a whole sentence, and thus fitly represent the quickness of the passions.

The different passions have commonly different words to express them; thus,

1. JOY; as, evax ! hey, brave, io !
2. GRIEF; as, ab, bei, ben, eben ! ah, alas, woes me !
3. WONDER; as, papa ! O strange ! vab ! hah !
4. PRAISE; as, enje ! well done !
5. AVERSION; as, apāge ! away, begone, avaunt, off, fy, tush !
6. EXCLAIMING; as, Ob, prob ! O !
7. SURPRISE or FEAR; as, atat i ha, aha !
8. IMPRECATION; as, ve ! wo, pox on't !
9. LAUGHTER; as, ba, ba, be !
10. SILENCING; as, au, 'f, paz ! silence, hush, 'f !
11. CALLING; as, ebō, ebōdum, io, bo ! so, ho, ho, O !
12. DERISION; as, hui ! away with !
13. ATTENTION; as, bem ! ha !

Some Interjections denote several different passions: thus, Vab; is used to express joy, and sorrow, and wonder, &c.

Adjectives of the neuter gender are sometimes used for interjections; as, Malum ! with a mischief ! Infandum ! O shame ! fy, fy ! Micērum, O wretched ! Nefas ! O the villany !

CONJUNCTION.

A Conjunction is an indeclinable word, which serves to join sentences together.

Thus, You and I, and the boy, read Virgil, is one sentence, made up of these three, by the conjunction and twice employed; I read Virgil; You read Virgil; The boy reads Virgil. In like manner, “ You and I read Virgil, but the boy reads Ovid,” is one sentence, made up of three, by the conjunctions and and but.

Conjunctions, according to their different meaning, are divided into the following classes:

1. COPULATIVE; as, et, ac, atque, que, and; etiam, quoque, item, also; cum, tum, both, and. Also their contraries, nec, neque, ne, neve, neither, nor.

2. DISJUNCTIVE; as, aut, vel, seu, sive, either, or.

3. CONCESSIVE; as, eti, etiamfi, tametfi, licet, quamquam, quamvis, though, although, albeit.

4. ADVERSATIVE; as, sed, verum, autem, at, ait, atqui, but; tamen, attamen, verantamen, verumenimvero, yet, notwithstanding, nevertheless.

5. CAUSAL; as, nam, namque, enim, for; quia, quippe, quoniam, because; quod, that, because.

6. ILLATIVE or RATIONAL; as, ergo, ideo, igitur, idcirco, itaque, therefore; quapropter, quocirca, wherefore; proinde, therefore; cum, quia, seeing, since; quandoquidem, forasmuch as.

7. FINAL or PERFECTIVE; as, ut, uti, that, to the end that.

8. CONDITIONAL; as, si, fin, if; dum, modo, dummodo, provided, upon condition that; siquidem, if indeed.

9. EXCEPTIVE or RESTRICTIVE; as, ni, nisi, unless, except.

10. DIMINUTIVE; as, saltet, certe, at least.

11. SUSPENSIVE or DUBITATIVE; as, an, anne, num, whether; ne, annon, whether, not; necne, or, not.

12. EXPLETIVE; as autem, vero, now, truly; quidem, quidem, indeed.

13. ORDINATIVE; as, deinde, thereafter; denique, finally; insuper, moreover; ceterum, moreover, but, however.

14. DECLARATIVE; as, videlicet, scilicet, nempe, nimiram, &c. to wit, namely.

Obs. 1. The same words, as they are taken in different views, are both adverbs and conjunctions. Thus, an, anne, &c. are either interrogative adverbs: as, An scribit? Does he write? or suspensive conjunctions: as, Nescio an scribat, I know not if he writes.

Obs. 2. Some conjunctions, according to their natural order, stand first in a sentence; as, Ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, sive, at, sed, verum, nam, quandoquidem, quocirca, quare, fin, siquidem, præterquam, &c.: some stand in the second place; as, Autem, vero, quaque, quidem, enim: and some may indifferently be put either first or second; as, Etiam, quidem, licet, quamvis, quamquam, tamen, attamen, namque, quod, quia, quoniam, quippe, nupse, ut, nisi, ergo, ideo, igitur, idcirco, itaque, proinde, propte-

re, si, ni, nisi, &c. Hence arose the division of them into Prepositive, Subjunctive, and Common. To the subjunctive may be added these three, que, ve, ne, which are always joined to some other word, and are called Enclitics, because, when put after long syllables, they make the accent incline to the foregoing syllable; as in the following verse, Indoctusque pilæ, discive, trochive, quiescit. Horat.

But when these enclitic conjunctions come after a short vowel, they do not affect its pronunciation; thus,

Arbuteos fœtus montanaque fraga legebant. Ovid.

SENTENCES.

A SENTENCE is any thought of the mind expressed by two or more words put together; as, I read. The boy reads Virgil.

That part of grammar which teaches to put words rightly together in sentences, is called Syntax or Construction.

Words in sentences have a twofold relation to one another; namely, that of Concord or Agreement; and that of Government or Influence.

Concord, is when one word agrees with another in some accidents; as, in gender, number, person, or case.

Government, is when one word requires another to be put in a certain case, or mode.

General principles of SYNTAX.

1. In every sentence, there must be a verb and a nominative expressed or understood.
2. Every adjective must have a substantive expressed or understood.
3. All the cases of Latin nouns, except the nominative and vocative, must be governed by some other word.
4. The genitive is governed by a substantive noun expressed or understood.
5. The dative is governed by adjectives and verbs.
6. The accusative is governed by an active verb, or by a preposition; or is placed before the infinitive.

7. The vocative stands by itself, or has an interjection joined with it.

8. The ablative is governed by a preposition expressed or understood.

9. The infinitive is governed by some verb or adjective.

All Sentences are either SIMPLE or COMPOUND.

Syntax therefore may be divided into two parts, according to the general division of sentences.

SIMPLE SENTENCES.

A Simple Sentence is that which has but one nominative; and one finite verb, that is, a verb in the indicative, subjunctive, or imperative mode.

In a simple sentence, there is only one Subject and one Attribute.

The Subject is the word which marks the person or thing spoken of.

The Attribute expresses what we affirm concerning the subject; as,

The boy reads his lesson: Here, "the boy," is the Subject of discourse, or the person spoken of; "reads his lesson," is the Attribute, or what we affirm concerning the subject. The diligent boy reads his lesson carefully at home. Here we have still the same subject, "the boy," marked by the character of "diligent," added to it; and the same attribute, "reads his lesson," with the circumstances of manner and place subjoined, "carefully," "at home."

CONCORD.

The following words agree together in sentences, 1. A substantive with a substantive. 2. An adjective with a substantive. 3. A verb with a nominative.

1. Agreement of one Substantive with another.

RULE 1. Substantives signifying the same thing, agree in case; as,

Cicero orātor, Cicero the Orator; Cicōnīs orātoris, Of Cicero the Orator. Urbs Athēna, The city Athens; Urbis Athēnārum, Of the city Athens.

2. Agreement of an Adjective with a Substantive.

2. An Adjective agrees with a Substantive, in gender, number, and case; as,

Bonus vir, a good man; Boni viri, good men.
Famina casta, a chaste woman; Famina castæ, chaste women.
Dulce pomum, a sweet apple; Dulcia poma, sweet apples.

And so through all the cases and degrees of comparison.
 This rule applies also to Adjective pronouns and Participles; as,
Mens liber, my book; ager colendus, a field to be tilled.

Obs. 1. The substantive is frequently understood, or its place supplied by an infinitive; and then the adjective is put in the neuter gender; as, triste, sc. negotium, a sad thing, Virg.; Tuum scire, the same with, tua scientia, thy knowledge, Pers. We sometimes however find the substantive understood in the feminine; as, Non posteriores feram, sup. partes, Ter.

Obs. 2. An adjective often supplies the place of a substantive; as, Certus amicus, A sure friend: Bona ferina, Good venison: Summum bonum, The chief good: Homa being understood to amicus, caro to ferina, and negotium to bonum.

Obs. 3. These adjectives, primus, medius, ultimus, extremus, infimus, imus, summus, supremus, reliquus, catera, usually signify the first part, the middle part, &c. of any thing; as, Media nox, the middle part of the night; Summa arbor, the highest part of a tree.

Obs. 4. Whether the adjective or substantive ought to be placed first in Latin, no certain rule can be given. Only if the substantive be a monosyllable, and the adjective a polysyllable, the substantive is elegantly put first; as, vir clarissimus, res praestantissima, &c.

3. Agreement of a Verb with a Nominative.

3. A Verb agrees with the Nominative before it in number and person; as,

Ego lego, I read; Nos legimus, We read.
Tu scribis, Thou writest or you write; Vos scribitis, Ye or you write.
Præceptor docet, The master teaches; Præceptores docent, Masters teach.

And so through all the modes, tenses, and numbers.

Obs. 1. Ego and nos are of the first person; tu and vos of the second person; ille and all other words, of the third. The nominative of the first and second person in Latin is seldom expressed, unless for the sake of emphasis or distinction; as, Tu es patronus, tu pater, Ter. Tu legis, ego scribo.

Obs. 2. An infinitive, or some part of a sentence, often supplies the place of a nominative; as, Mentiri est turpe, to lie is base; Divus perlitatum tenuit dictatorem; The sacrifice not being attended mibi esse beato, I may be happy ; or, licet mibi esse beatum, me being understood ; thus, licet mibi (me) esse beatum. The dative before esse is often to be supplied ; as, Licet esse beatum, One may be happy, scil. alicui or bomini.

Obs. 5. The poets use certain forms of expression, which are not to be imitated in prose ; thus, Retulit Ajax Jovis esse pronēpos, for Se esse pronepotem ; Ovid. Cum pateris sapientis emendatusque vocari, for te vocari sapientem, &c. Horat. Ep. 1. 16. Acceptum refero verbibus esse nocens ; Ovid. Tumque putavit jam bonus esse ficer ; Lucan.

GOVERNMENT.

I. The GOVERNMENT of SUBSTANTIVES.

VI. One Substantive governs another in the genitive, (when the latter Substantive signifies a different thing from the former;) as,

Amor Dei, The love of God ; Lex naturæ, The law of nature. Domus Cæsaris, The house of Cæsar, or Cæsar's house.

Obs. 1. When one substantive is governed by another in the genitive, it expresses in general the relation of property or possession, and therefore is often elegantly turned into a possessive adjective ; as Domus patris, or paterna, a father's house ; Filius beri or berilis, a master's son : and among the poets, Labor Herculeus, for Herculis ; Ensis Evandrius, for Evandi.

Obs. 2. When the substantive noun in the genitive signifies a person, it may be taken either in an active or a passive sense ; thus, Amor Dei, The love of God, either means the love of God towards us, or our love towards him : So Caritas patris, signifies either, The affection of a father to his children, or theirs to him. But often the substantive can only be taken either in an active or in a passive sense ; thus, Timor Dei, always implies Deus timetur ; and Providentia Dei, Deus providet.

Obs. 3. Both the former and latter substantive are sometimes to be understood ; as, Hectoris Andromache, scil. uxor ; Ventum est ad vesta, scil. edem or templum ; Ventum est tria millia, scil. passuum, three miles.

Obs. 4. We find the dative often used after a verb for the genitive, particularly among the poets ; as, Ei corpus porrigitur, His body is extended ; Virg.

Obs. 5. Some substantives are joined with certain prepositions; as, Amicitia, inimicitia, pax, cum aliquo; Amor in, vel erga, aliquem; Gaudium de re; Cura de aliquo; Mentio illius, vel de illo; Quies ab armis; Fumus ex incendiis, &c.

Obs. 6. The genitive in Latin is often rendered in English by several other particles besides of; as, Descensus Averni, the descent to Avernus; Prudentia juris, skill in the law.

SUBSTANTIVE PRONOUNS are governed in the genitive like substantive nouns: as, pars mei, a part of me.

So also adjective pronouns when used as substantives, or having a noun understood; as, Liber ejus, illius, bujus, &c. The book of him, or his book, sc. hominis: The book of her, or her book, sc. femina. Libri sorum, v. earum, Their books. Cujus liber, the book of whom, or whose book; Quorum libri, whose books, &c. But we always say, meus liber, not mei; pater noster, not nostri: suum jus, not sui.

When a passive sense is expressed, we use mei, tui, sui, nostri, vestri, nostrum, vestrum; but we use their possessives, when an active sense is expressed; as, Amor mei, The love of me, that is, The love wherewith I am loved; amor meus, my love, that is, the love wherewith I love. We find however the possessives sometimes used passively, and their primitives taken actively; as, Odium tuum, Hatred of thee. Ter. Labor mei, My labour, Plaut.

The possessives meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester, have sometimes nouns, pronouns, and participles after them in the genitive; as, Peccus tuus hominis simplicis, Cic. 2. Phil. Noster duorum eventus, Liv. Tuum ipsius studium, Cic. Mea scripta timentis, &c. Hor. Solius meum peccatum corrigi non potest, Cic. Id maxime quemque decet, quod est cujusque suum maxime. Id.

The reciprocals SUI and SUUS are used, when the action of the verb is reflected, as it were, upon its nominative; as, Cato interfecit se; Miles defendit suam vitam; Dicit se scripturum esse. We find however is or ille sometimes used in examples of this kind; as, Deum agnoscamus ex operibus ejus, Cic. Persuadent Rauracis, ut una cum iis proficiantur, for una secum. Cef.

VII. If the latter Substantive have an Adjective of praise or dispraise joined with it, they may be put in the genitive or ablative; as,

Vir summae prudentiae, or summâ prudentiâ, A man of great wisdom.
Puer probæ indolis, or probâ indole, A boy of a good disposition.

Obs. 1. The ablative here is not properly governed by the foregoing substantive, but by some preposition understood; as, cum, de, ex, in, &c. Thus, Vir summa prudentia, is the same with vir cum summa prudentia.

Obs. 2. In some phrases the genitive is only used; as, Magni formica laboris, The laborious ant: Vir imi subcellii, homo minimi pretii, a person of the lowest rank. Nor multi cibi hospitem accipies, sed multi joci, Cic. Ager trium jugerum. In others only the ablative; as, Es bono animo, Be of good courage. Mira sum alacritate ad litigandum, Cic. Capite aperto est, His head is bare; obvoluto, covered. Capite et supercilio semper est ratis, Id. Mulier magno natu, Liv. Sometimes both are used in the same sentence; as, Adolescens eximiâ spe, summae virtutis, Cic. The ablative more frequently occurs in prose than the genitive.

Obs. 3. Sometimes the adjective agrees in case with the former substantive, and then the latter substantive is put in the ablative: thus, we say either, Vir præstantis ingenio, or præstanti ingenio; or Vir præstans ingenio, and sometimes præstans ingenii. Among the poets the latter substantive is frequently put in the accusative by a Greek construction, secundum, or quod ad being understood by the figure commonly called Synecdoche; as, Miles fractus membra, i.e. fractus secundum, or quod ad membra, or habens membra fracta. Os humerosque deo similia. Virg.

Adjectives taken as Substantives.

VIII. An Adjective in the neuter gender without a substantive governs the genitive; as, Multum pecuniae, Much money. Quid rei est? What is the matter?

Obs. 1. This manner of expression is more elegant than Multa pecunia, and therefore is much used by the best writers; as, Plus eloquentiae, minus sapientiae, tantum fidei, id negotii; Quicquid erat patrum, reos diceres, Liv.

Obs. 2. The adjectives which thus govern the genitive like substantives, generally signify quantity; as, multum, plus, plurimum, tantum, quantum, minus, minimum, &c. To which add, hoc, illud, istud, id, quid, aliquid, quidvis, quiddam, &c. Plus and quid almost always govern the genitive, and therefore by some are thought to be substantives.

Obs. 3. Nihil, and these neuter pronouns, quid, aliquid, &c. elegantly govern neuter adjectives of the first and second declension in the genitive; as, nihil sinceri, no sincerity; but seldom govern in this manner adjectives of the third declension, particularly those which end in i and e; as, Nequid boſſile timerent, not boſſili: We find however quicquid civilis, Liv. 5. 3.

Obs. 4. Plural adjectives of the neuter gender also govern the genitive, commonly the genitive plural; as, Angusta viarum, Opacæ logorum, Telluris operta, loca being understood. So Amara curarum, acuta belli, sc. negotia, Horat. An adjective indeed of any gender may have a genitive after it, with a substantive understood; as, Amicus Cæsaria, Patria Ulyssis, &c.

Opus and Usus.

IX. Opus and Usus, signifying need, require the ablative; as,

Eft opus pecunia, There is need of money; Usus viribus, Need of strength.

Obs. 1. Opus and usus are substantive nouns, and do not govern the ablative of themselves, but by some preposition, as pro or the like, understood. They sometimes also, although more rarely, govern the genitive; as, Lectionis opus est, Quinq. Operæ usus est, Liv.

Obs. 2. Opus is often construed like an indeclinable adjective; as, Dux nobis opus est, We need a general, Cic. Dices summos mihi opus esse. Id. Nobis exempla opus sunt. Id.

Obs. 3. Opus is elegantly joined with the perfect participle; as, Opus maturato, Need of haste; Opus consulto, Need of deliberation; Quid factu usus est? Ter. The participle has sometimes a substantive joined with it; as, Mibi opus fuit Hirtio convento, It behoved me to meet with Hirtius, Cic.

Obs. 4. Opus is sometimes joined with the infinitive, or the subjunctive with ut; as, Siquid forte sit, quod opus sit sciri, Cic. Nunc tibi opus est, ægram ut te adsimiles, Plaut. It is often placed absolutely, i. e. without depending on any other word; as, sic opus est, si opus sit, &c.

II. GOVERNMENT OF ADJECTIVES.

1. Adjectives governing the Genitive.

X. Verbal adjectives, or such as signify an affection of the mind, govern the genitive; as, Avidus gloriæ, Desirous of glory. Ignarus fraudis, Ignorant of fraud. Memor beneficiorum, Mindful of favors.

To this rule belong, I. Verbal adjectives in AX; as, capax, edax, ferax, tenax, pertinax, &c. and certain participial adjectives in NS and TUS; as, amans, appetens, cupiens, insolens, sciens; consultus, doctus, expertus, infuetus, infolitus, &c. II. Adjectives expressing various affections of the mind; 1. Desire; as, avarus, cupidus, studiosus, &c. 2. Knowledge, ignorance and doubting; as, callidus, certus, certior, conscient, gnarus, peritus, prudens, &c. Ignarus, incertus, inscius, imprudens, imperitus, immemor, rufus; ambiguus, dubius, suspensus, &c. 3. Care and diligence, and the contrary; as, anxius, curiosus, solicitus, providus, diligens; incuriosus, securus, negligens, &c. 4. Fear and confidence; as, formidolosus, pavidus, timidus, trepidus; impavidus, interitus, intrepidus. 5. Guilt and innocence; as, noxius, reus, suspectus, compertus; innoxius, innocens, insonus.

To these add many adjectives of various significations; as, æger animi; ardens, audax, aversus, diversus, egregius, erectus, falsus, felix, fessus, furens, ingens, integer, latus, præstans, animi; modicus voti; integer vita; feri studiorum, Hor. But we say æger pedibus, ardens in cupiditatibus, præstans doctrinæ, modicus cultu; Latus negotio, de re, or propter rem, &c. and never æger pedum, &c.

Obs. 1. Verbals in NS are used both as adjectives and participles; thus, patiens algoris, able to bear cold; and patiens algorem, actually bearing cold. So amans virtutis, and amans virtutem; doctus grammaticæ, skilled in grammar; doctus grammaticam, one who has learned it.

Obs. 2. Many of these adjectives vary their construction, as, avidus in pecuniis, Cic. Avidior ad rem, Ter. Jure consultus & peritus, or juris, Cic. Rudis literarum, in jure civili, Cic. Rudis, arte, ad mala, Ovid. Doctus Latine, Latinis, literis, Cic. Affuetus labore, in omnia, Liv. Mensæ herilis, Virg. Insuetus moribus Romanis, in the dat. Liv. Laboris, ad onera portanda, Cæs. Desuetus bello, & triumphis in the dat. or abl. rather the dat. Virg. Anxius, sollicitus, securus, de re aliqua; diligens in, ad, de, Cic. Negligens in aliquem, in or de se: Reus de vi, criminibus, Cic. Certior factus de re; rather than rei, Cic.

Obs. 3. The genitive after these adjectives is thought to be governed by causa, in re, or in negotio, or some such word understood; as, Cupidus laudis, i. e. causa or in re laudis, desirous of praise, that is, on account of, or in the matter of praise. But many of the adjectives themselves may be supposed to contain in their own signification the force of a substantive; thus, studiosus pecuniae, fond of money, is the same with babens studiis pecuniae, having a fondness for money.

XI. Partitives, and words placed partitively, comparatives, superlatives, interrogatives, and some numerals, govern the genitive plural; as,

*Aliquis philosophorum,
Senior fratribus,*

Some one of the philosophers.
The elder of the brothers.

Noctifimus Romanorum,	The most learned of the Romans.
Quis nostrum?	Which of us?
Una mytarum,	One of the muses.
Octavus sapientum,	The eighth of the wise men.

Adjectives are called Partitives, or are said to be placed partitively, when they signify a part of any number of persons or things, having after them, in English, of or among; as, alius, nullus, solus, &c. quis and qui, with their compounds: also Comparatives, Superlatives, and some Numerals; as, unus, duo, tres; primus, secundus, &c. To these add multi, pauci, plerique, medius.

Obs. 1. Partitives, &c. agree in gender with the substantive which they have after them in the genitive; but when there are two substantives of different genders, the partitive, &c. rather agrees with the former; as, Indus fluminum maximus, Cic. Rarely with the latter; as, Delphinus animalium velocissimum, Plin. The genitive here is governed by en numero, or by the same substantive understood in the singular number; as, Nulla fororum, scil. foror, or en numero fororum.

Obs. 2. Partitives, &c. are often otherwise construed with the prepositions de, e, ex, or in; as, Unus de fratribus; or by the poets, with ante or inter; as, Pulcherrimus ante omnes, for omnium, Virg. Primus inter omnes, Id.

Obs. 3. Partitives, &c. govern collective nouns in the genitive singular, and are of the same gender with the individuals of which the collective noun is composed; as, Vir fortissimus nostræ civitatis, Cic. Maximus stirpis, Liv. Ultimos orbis, Hor.

Obs. 4. Comparatives are used, when we speak of two; Superlatives when we speak of more than two; as, Major fratum, The elder of the brothers, meaning two; Maximus fratum, The eldest of the brothers, meaning more than two. In like manner, uter, alter, neuter, are applied with regard to two; quis, unus, alius, nullus with regard to three or more; as, Uter vobrum, Whether or which of you two; Quis vobrum, Which of you three: but these are sometimes taken promiscuously the one for the other.

2. Adjectives governing the Dative.

XII. Adjectives signifying profit or disprofit, likeness or unlikeness, &c. govern the dative; as,

Utilis bello,	Profitable for war.
Pernicioſus reipublice,	Hurtful to the commonwealth.
Similis patri,	Like to his father.

Or thus, any adjective may govern the dative in Latin, which has the signs TO or FOR after it in English.

To this rule belong :

1. Adjectives of profit or disprofit ; as, Benignus, bonus, commodus, felix, fructuosus, prosper, saluber.—Calamitosus, damnosus, dirus, exitiosus, funestus, incommodus, malus, noxius, perniciosus, pestifer.

2. Of pleasure or, pain ; as, Acceptus, dulcis, gratus, gratiosus, jucundus, latus, suavis.—Acerbus, amarus, infuavis, injucundus, ingratus, molestus, tristis.

Verbals in BILIS and DUS govern the dative ; as,

Amandus vel amabilis omnibus, To be loved by all men.

So mors est terribilis malis ; Optabilis omnibus pars ; Adhibenda est nobis dilectionis, Cic. Semel omnibus calcanda est via letbi, Hor. Also some participles of the perfect tense ; as, Bella matribus detulata, hated by, Hor.

Verbals in DUS are often construed with the prep. as ; as, Dens qd; venerandus & calendus a nobis, Cic. Perfect participles are usually so ; as, Mors Craffi est a multis deflata, rather than multis deflata, Cic. A te invictatus, regatus, preditus, &c. Hardly ever as.

Obs. 1. The dative is properly not governed by adjectives, nor by any other part of speech; but put after them, to express the object to which their signification refers.

The particle to in English is often to be supplied; as, Similis patri Like his father, to being understood.

Obs. 2. Substantives have likewise sometimes a dative after them; as, Ille est pater, dux, vel filius mihi, He is father, leader, or son to me: so, Præsidium reis, decus amicis, &c. Hor. Exitium pecori, Virg. Virtutibus hostis, Cic.

Obs. 3. We say, Similes, dissimiles, pares, disparates, aequales, communes, inter se: Par & communis cum aliquo. Civitas secum ipsa discors; discordes ad alia. Liv.

Obs. 4. Adjectives signifying usefulness or fitness, and the contrary, have after them the dative or the accusative with a preposition; as,

Utilis, inutilis, optus, ineptus, accommodatus, idoneus, babilis, inbabilis, opportūus, conveniens, &c. alicui rei, or ad aliquid. Many other adjectives governing the dat. are likewise construed with prepositions; as, Attentus quaesitis, Hor. Attentus ad rem, Ter.

Obs. 5. Of adjectives which denote friendship or hatred, or any other affection of the mind towards any one. I. Some are usually construed with the dative only; as, Affabilis, arrogans, asper, carus, difficilis, fidelis, invisus, iratus, offensus, suspectus, ALICUI. II. Some with the preposition IN and the accusative; as, Acerbus, animatus, beneficus, gratiosus, injuriosus, liberalis, mendax, misericors, officiosus, pius, impius, prolixus, severus, sordidus, torvus, vobemens, IN ALIQUEM. III. Some either with the dative, or with the accus. and the preposition IN, ERGA, OR ADVERSUS going before; as, Contumax, criminosus, durus, exitiabilis, gravis, hospitialis, implacabilis, (and perhaps also inexorabilis & intolerabilis.) iniquus, savus, ALICUI or in ALIQUEM. Benevolus, benignus, molebus, ALICUI, OR ERGA ALIQUEM. Mitis, comis, IN, OR ERGA ALIQUEM, and ALICUL Pervicax ADVERSUS ALIQUEM. Crudelis IN ALIQUEM, seldom ALICUL. Amicus, amulus, infensus, infestus, ALICUI, seldom IN ALIQUEM. Gratus ALICUI, OR IN, ERGA, ADVERSUS ALIQUEM. We say alienus alicui or alicujus; but oftener ab aliquo, and sometimes aliquo without the preposition.

AUDIENS is construed with two datives; as, Regi dicto audiens erat, he was obedient to the king; not regis; Dicto audiens fuit jussis magistratum, Nep. Nobis dicto audientes sunt, not dictis, Cic.

Obs. 6. Adjectives signifying motion or tendency to a thing, have usually after them the accusative with the preposition ad or in, seldom the dative; as,

Pronus, propensus, proclivis, celer, tardus, piger, &c. ad iram, or in iram.

Obs. 7. Propior and proximus, in imitation of their primitive proper, often govern the accusative; as, Propior montem, scil. ad Sall. Proximus finem, Liv.

Obs. 8. IDE M sometimes has the dative, chiefly in the poets; as, Invitum qui servat, idem facit occidenti, Hor. Jupiter omnibus idem, Virg. Eadem illis censemus, Cic. But in prose we commonly find, idem qui, et, ac, atque; and also ut, cum; as, Peripatetici quondam idem erant qui Academici, Cic. Est animus erga te, idem ac fuit, Ter. Dianam & Lunam eadem esse putant, Cic. Idem faciunt, ut, &c. In eodem loco mecum, Cic. But it would be improper to say of the same person or thing under different names, idem cum; as, Luna eadem est cum Diana.

We likewise say, alius ac, atque, or et; and so sometimes similis & par-

3. Adjectives governing the Ablative.

XIII. These adjectives, dignus, indignus, contentus, pre- ditus, captus, and fatus; also natus, satus, ortus, editus, and Contentus parvo, Content with little. Fatus viribus, Trusting to his Praditus virtute, Endued with virtue. Ortus regibus, Descended of kings.

So generatus, creatus, eratus, prognatus, oriundus, procreatus, regibus.

Obs. 1. The ablative after these adjectives is governed by some preposition understood: as, Contentus parvo, scil. cum; Fatus viribus, scil. in, &c. Sometimes the preposition is expressed; as, Ortus ex concubina, Sallust. Editus de nympba, Ovid.

Obs. 2. Dignus, indignus, and contentus, have sometimes the genitive after them; as, dignus avorum, Virg. So Macte esto, or macti esto virtutis or virtute, Increase in virtue, or Go on and prosper; Fuberem macte virtute esse, Liv. In the last example macte seems to be used adverbially.

4. Adjectives governing the Genitive or Ablative.

XIV. Adjectives of plenty or want govern the genitive or ablative; as,

Plenus ira or irâ, Full of anger. Inops rationis or ratione, Void of reason.

So Non inopes temporis, sed prodigi sumus, Sen. Lentulus non verbis inops, Cic. Dei plena sunt omnia, Cic. Maxima quæque de- mus servis est plena superbis, Ter. Res est solliciti plena timoris

2. With the ablative only: Beatus, differtus, frugifer, mutilus, tentus, distentus, tumidus, turgidus.

3. With the genitive more frequently: Compos, consors, egenus, exhaeres, expers, fertilis, indigus, parcus, pauper, prodigus, sterilis.

4. With the ablative more frequently: Abundans, cassus, extorris, fœtus, frequens, gravis, gravidus, jejunus, liber, locuples, nudus, oneratus, onustus, orbus, pollens, solutus, truncus, viduus, and captus.

5. With both promiscuously: Copiosus, dives, fœcundus, feras, immunis, inanis, inops, largus, modicus, immodicus, nimius, opulentus, plenus, potens, referitus, satur, vacuus, uber.

6. With a preposition; as, Copiosus, firmus, paratus, imparatus, inops, instructus, à re aliqua; for quod ad rem aliquam attinet, in, or with respect to any thing. Potens ad rem, &c. in re.

GOVERNMENT OF VERBS.

§ I. VERBS GOVERNING ONLY ONE CASE.

1. Verbs which govern the Genitive.

XV. Sum, when it signifies possession, property, or duty, governs the genitive; as,

Est regis, It belongs to the king, It is the part or property of a king.

So Insipientis est dicere, non putaram, It is the part or property of a fool, &c. Militum est suo duci parere, It is the part or duty of soldiers, &c. Laudare se vani; vituperare stulti est. Sen. Hominis est errare; Arrogantis est negligere, quid de se quisque sentiat. Cic. Pecus est Meliboci, Virg. Haec sunt hominis; Tar. Pauperis est numerare pecus, Ovid. Temeritas est florentis aetatis, prudentia senectutis, Cic.

¶ Meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum, are excepted; as,

Tuus est, It is your duty; Scio tuum esse, I know that it is your duty.

Obs. 1. These possessive pronouns are used in the neuter gender instead of their substantives, mei, tui, sui, nostri, vestri. Other possessives are also construed in this manner; as, Est regium, est humanum, the same with est regis, est hominis.

Obs. 2. Here some substantive must be understood; as, officium, munus, res, negotium, opus, &c. which are sometimes expressed; as, Munus est principium; Tuum est hoc munus, Cic. Neutrum officium liberi esse hominis pato, Ter. In some cases the preceding substantive may be repeated; as, Hic liber est (liber) fratria. In like manner, some substantive must be supplied in such expressions as these; Ea sunt modo gloriofa, neque patrandi belli, scil. causa or facta, Sall. Nihil tam aequandae libertatis est, for ad aequandam libertatem pertinet, Liv.

Obs. 3. We say, *Hoc est tuus munus, or tuus munoris: So was of v*er* sit, or moris, or in more, Cic.*

XVI. Misero, miseresco, and satago, govern the genitive; as,

Miserere civium tuorum,	Pity your countrymen.
Satagit rerum suarum,	He is sufficiently employed about his own affairs.

Obs. 1. Several other verbs among the poets govern the genitive by a Greek construction, particularly such as signify some affection of the mind; as, Ango, decipior, despicio, discrucior, excrucio, fallo & fallor, fastidio, invideo, laetor, miror, pendo, studio, vereor; as, Ne angas te animi, Plaut. Laborum decipitur, Hor. Discrucior animi, Ter. Pendet mihi animus, pendo animi, vel animo: but we always say, Pendemus animis, not animorum, are in suspense, Cic. Justitiae prius mirer, Virg. In like manner, Abstineo, desino, desisto, quiesco, regno: likewise, adipiscor, condico, credo, frustror, furo, laudo, libero, levo, participo, prohibeo: as, Abstineto irarum; Define querelarum; Regnavit populorum, Hor. Definere pugnae, Virg. Quarum rerum condixit, Liv.

But all these verbs are for the most part differently construed; thus, Angor, despicio, discrucior, fallor, animo. Hoc animum meum excruciat. Fastidio, miror, vereor, aliquem, vel aliquid. Laetor aliqua re. Some of them are joined with the infinitive; or with que, ut, us, and the subjunctive.

In like manner we usually say, Desino aliquid, & ab aliquo, to give over; Desisto incepto, de negotio, ab illa mente; Quiesco a labore; Regnare in equitibus, oppidis, scil. in, Cic. Per urbes, Virg. Adipisci id; Frustrari in re; Furere de aliquo, Cic.

Obs. 2. The genitive after verbs, in the same manner as after adjectives, is governed by some substantive understood. This substantive is different according to the different meaning of the verbs; thus, Misero fratria, scil. causam; Angor animi, scil. dolore, or anxietate.

2. VERBS governing the Dative.

XVII. Any verb may govern the dative in Latin, which has the sign TO or FOR after it in English; as,

Finis vénit imperio,	An end is come to the empire, Liv.
Animus redit hostibus,	Courage returns to the enemy, Id.
Tibi seris, tibi metis,	You sow for yourself, you reap for yourself, Plaut.

So, Non nobis solum nati sumus, Cic. Multa male eveniunt bonis, Id. Sol lucet etiam sceleratis, Sen. Hæret lateri lethalis arundo, Virg.

But as the dative after verbs in Latin is not always rendered in English by to or for; nor are these particles always the sign of the dative in Latin, it will be necessary to be more particular.

I. Sum, and its compounds, govern the dative, (except possum;) as,

Præfuit exercituī,	He commanded the army.
Adfuit precibus,	He was present at prayers.

¶ EST taken for Habeo, to have, governs the dative of a person: as,

Est mihi liber,	A book is to me, that is, I have a book.
Sunt mihi libri,	Books are to me, i. e. I have books.
Dico libros esse mihi,	I say that I have books.

This is more frequently used than habeo librum; habeo libros. In like manner desum instead of careo; as, Liber deest mihi, I want a book; Libri desunt mihi; Scio libros deesse mihi, &c.

II. Verbs compounded with SATIS, BENE, and MALE, govern the dative; as, Satisfacio, satisfio, benefacio, benodico, benèvolo, mafefacio, maledico tibi, &c.

III. Many Verbs compounded with these nine prepositions, AD, ANTE, CON, IN, INTER, OB, PRÆ, SUB, and SUPER, govern the dative; as,

We also say, Contendunt, pugnant, dissentant, & a inter se; and contendere, pugnare contra & adversus aliquem.

Obs. 4. Many verbs vary both their signification and construction; as, Timeo, metuo, formido, borreo tibi, & pro te, I am afraid for you, or for your safety; but timeo, borreo te, v. a te, I fear or dread you as an enemy: So Consulo, propicio, coveo tibi, I consult or provide for your safety; but consulo te, I ask your advice; propicio hoc, I foresee this: Studere aliquid, to desire; alicui, to favour; alicui rei, rem, & in re, to apply to a thing. And thus many other verbs, which will be afterwards explained.

Sometimes however in the poets they are construed with the dative; as, It clamor calo, far ad cœlum, Virg.

3. Verbs governing the Accusative.

XVIII. A Verb signifying actively governs the accusative; as, Ama Deum, Love God. Reverere parentes, Reverence your parents.

Obs. 1. Neuter verbs also govern the accusative, when the noun after them has a signification similar to their own; as, Ire iter or viam; Pugnare pugnam or. pradium; Currere cursum; Canere cantilenam; Vivere vitam; Ludere ludum; Sequi sectam; Sonniare somnium, &c. or when they are taken in a metaphorical sense; as, Corydon ardebat Alexin, scil. propter, i. e. vehementer amabat, Virg. Curtius æquor, scil. per, Id. So, Comptos arsit adulteri crines, Hor. Saltare Cyclopa; olet hircum; Sulcos et vincta crepat mera, Hor. Vox hominem sonat; Sudare..mella, Virg. Si Xerxes Hellesponto juncto, et Athone perosso, maria ambulavisset, terramque navigasset, sc. per, Cic. Or when they have a kind of active sense; as, Clamare aliquem nomine, Virg. Callere jura; Mædere mortem; Horret iratum mare, Hor.

Sometimes instead of the accusative neuter verbs have an ablative; as, Ire itinere; dolere dolore, vicem ejus; gaudere gaudio; mori v. obire morte; vivere vitâ; Ludere aleam, v. à; manare, pluere, rorare, stillare, Sudare, aliquid vel aliquo. Eribescere jura, Virg. origine, Tacit. equo vehi, Curt.

Obs. 2. Several verbs are used both in an active and neuter sense; as, ducenda, to be avers from; Id. Abolere monymenta viri, to abol-

Obs. 4. The accusative is often understood. Tum prora avertit, sc. se. Virg. Flumina præcipitant, sc. se, Id. Obiit, sc. mortem, Ter. Cum faciam vitulâ, sc. sacra, Virg. Or its place supplied by an infinitive or part of a sentence ; as, Reddes dulce loqui, reddes ride-re decorum ; for dulcem sermoneam, decorum risum, Hor.

XIX. Recordor, memini, reminiscor, and obliviscor, govern the accusative or genitive ; as,

Recordor lectionis or lectionem, I remember the lesson.
Obliviscor injuria or injuriam, I forget an injury.

Obs. 1. These verbs are often construed with the infinitive or some part of a sentence ; as, Memini videre virginem, Ter. Oblitus est, quid paulo ante posuisset, Cic.

Obs. 2. Memini, when it signifies to make mention, is joined with the genitive, or the ablative with the preposition de ; as, Memini alicujus, v. de aliquo. So recordor, when it signifies to recollect ; as, Velim faire ecquid de te recordere, Cic.

4. Verbs governing the Ablative.

XX. Verbs of plenty and scarceness for the most part govern the ablative ; as,

Abundat divitiis, He abounds in riches.
Caret omni culpa, He has no fault.

Verbs of plenty are, Abundo, affluo, exubero, redundo, suppedeo, sto, scatto, &c.; of want, Careo, egeo, indigeo, vaco, deficior, destituo, &c.

Obs. 1. Egeo and indigeo frequently govern the genitive; as, Eget artis, Hor. Non tam artis indigent, quam laboris, Cic.

Obs. 2. The ablative after these verbs is governed by some preposition understood; and sometimes we find it expressed; as, Vacat a culpa, Liv.

XXI. Utor, abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, govern the ablative; as,

Utitur fraude, He uses deceit. Abutitur libris, He abuses books.

To these add, gaudeo, creor, nascor, fido, victio, consto, laboro, for male me habeo, to be ill; pascor, epulor, nitor, &c.

Obs. 1. Potior often governs the genitive; as, Potiri urbis, Sal. And we always say, Potiri rerum, to possess the chief command; never rebus, imperio being understood.

Obs. 2. Potior, fungor, vescor, epulor, and pascor, sometimes have an accusative; as, Potiri urbem, Cic. Munera fungi, Tacit. Pascuntur silvas, Virg. And in ancient writers utor, abutor, and fruor; as, Uti confilium, Plaut. Operam abutitur, Ter. Depasco and depascor always take an accusative; as, Depascitur artus, Virg.

§ 2. VERBS GOVERNING TWO CASES.

1. Verbs governing two Datives.

XXII. Sum taken for affero (to bring) governs two datives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

Eft mihi voluptati, It is, or brings a pleasure to me.

Two datives are also put after habeo, do, verto, relinquo, tribuo, fore, duco, and some others; as,

Ducitur honor tibi, It is reckoned an honor to you. Id vertitur mihi vitio, I am blamed for that. So, Misit mihi muneri; Dedit mihi dono; Habet sibi laudi; Venire, occurrere auxilio alicui, Liv.

Obs. 1. Instead of the dative, we often use the nominative, or the accusative; as, Est exitium pecori, for exitio; Dare aliquid alicui donum, or dono; Dare nuptum, or nuptui. When dare and other active verbs have two datives after them, they likewise govern an accusative either expressed or understood; as, Dare crimini ei sc. id.

Obs. 2. The dative of the person is often to be supplied; as, Est exemplo, indicio, præsidio, usui, &c. scil. mihi, alicui, hominibus, or some such word. So, panere, opponere, pignori, sc. alicui, to pledge;

Cānere receptui, sc. suis militibus, to sound a retreat; Habere, curse, quæstui, odio, voluptati, religioni, studio, ludibriu, despiciatui, &c. sc. sibi.

Obs. 3. To this rule belong forms of naming; as, Ego mibi nomen Alexandro, my name is Alexander; or with the nominative, Ego mibi nomen Alexander; or more rarely with the genitive, Ego mibi nomen Alexandri.

2. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Genitive.

XXIII. Verbs of accusing, condemning, acquitting, and admonishing, govern the accusative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as,

Arguit me furti,	He accuses me of theft.
Meipsum inertiam condamno,	I condemn myself of laziness.
Illum homicidii absolvunt,	They acquit him of manslaughter.
Monet me offici,	He admonishes me of my duty.

Verbs of accusing are, Accuso, ago, appello, acesso, inquirō, arguo, defero, infamulo, postulo, alligo, astringo; of condemning, Damno, condemno, infamo, noto; of acquitting, Absolvo, libero, purgo; of admonishing, Moneo, admoneo, commonefacio.

Obs. 1. Verbs of accusing and admonishing, instead of the genitive, frequently have after them an ablative, with the preposition de; as, Monere aliquem offici, or de officio; Accusare aliquem furti, or de furto. De vi condemnati sunt, Cic.

Obs. 2. Crimen and caput are put either in the genitive or ablative; but in the ablative usually without a preposition; as, Damnare, postulare, absolvere cum criminis, v. capitīs; & crimine, vel capite; also, Absolvo me peccato, Liv. And we always say, Plectere, punire aliquem capite, and not capitīs, to punish one capitally, or with death.

Obs. 3. Many verbs of accusing, &c. are not construed with the acc. of a person and the gen. of a thing, but the contrary; thus we say, *Culpo, reprobando, taxo, traduco, vitupero, calumnior, criminor, excuso, &c. avaritiam alicujus, and not aliquem avaritiam. We sometimes also find accuso, incuso, &c. construed in this manner; as, Accusare inertiam adolescentium, for adolescentes inertiae, Cic. Culpam arguo, Liv. We say, Agere cum aliquo furti, rather than as quem, to accuse one of theft, Cic.*

Obs. 4. Verbs of accusing and admonishing sometimes govern two accusatives, when joined with hoc, illud, istud, id, unum, multa, &c. as, Moneo, accuso te illud. We seldom however say, Errorem te moneo, but erroris, or de errore.

XXIV. Verbs of valuing, with the accusative, govern such genitives as these, magni, parvi, nibili; as, Æstimo te magni; I value you myb.

Verbs of valuing are, Æstimo, existimo, duco, facio, habeo, pendo, puto, taxo. They govern several other genitives; as, tanti, quanti, pluris, majoris, minoris, minimi, plurimi, maximi, nauci, pili, affis, nibili, teruncii, hujus.

Obs. 1. Æstimo sometimes governs the ablative; as, Æstimo te magno, permagno, parvo, scil. pretio: and also nibili. We likewise say, Pro nibilo babeo, puto, duco.

Obs. 2. Æqui and boni are put in the genitive after facio and confici; as, Hoc consulo boni, equi bonique facio, I take this in good part.

Obs. 3. The genitive after all these verbs is governed by some substantive understood; as, Arguere aliquem furti, scil. de crimen furti; Æstimo rem magni, scil. pretii, or pro re magni pretii; Consule boni, i. e. statuo or censeo esse factum or munus boni viri, or animi; Monere aliquem officii, i. e. officii cauâ, or de re or negotio officii.

3. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Dative.

XXV. Verbs of comparing, giving, declaring, and taking away, govern the accusative and dative; as,

Comparo Virgilium Homero, I compare Virgil to Homer.

Suum cuique tribuio, Give every one his own.

Narras fabulam surdo, You tell a story to a deaf man.

Eripuit me morti, He rescued me from death.

Or thus, any active verb may govern the accusative and the dative, (when together with the object of the action, we express the person or thing with relation to which it is exerted;) as,

Legam lectionem tibi, I will read the lesson to you. Emit librum mihi, He bought a book for me. Sic vos non vobis fertis aratra boves, Virg. Paupertas saepe suadet mula hominibus, advises men to do bad things, Plaut. Imperare pecuniam, frumentum, navis, arma aliquibus, to order, to furnish, Cæs.

Obs. 1. Verbs of comparing and taking away, together with some others, are often construed with a preposition; as, Comparare unam rem cum alia, & ad aliam, or comparare res inter se: Eripuit me morti, morte, a or ex morte: Mittere epistolam alicui, or ad aliquem: Intendere telum alicui, or in aliquem: Incidere æri, in æs, or in ære: and so in many others. *

Obs. 2. Several verbs governing the dative and accusative, are construed differently; as,

Circumdare mania oppido, or oppidum manibus, to surround a city with walls.

Intercludere commeatum alicui, or aliquem commeatu, to intercept one's provisions.

Donare, probibere rem alicui, or aliquem re, to give one a present, to hinder one from a thing.

Magare hostiam Deo, or Deum hostiā, to sacrifice.

Impertire salutem alicui, or aliquem salute, to salute one.

Interdixit Galliam Romanis, or Romanos Galliā, he forbade the Romans from Gaul.

Induere, exuere vestem sibi, or se veste, to put on, to put off one's clothes.

Levarē dolorem alicui; dolorem alicujus; aliquem dolore, to ease one's distress.

Minari aliquid alicui, or sometimes alicui aliquo, Cic. to threaten one with any thing; Cæsari gladio, Sall.

Gratulor tibi hanc rem, hac re, in, pro, &c' de hac re, I congratulate you on this.

Restituere alicui sanitatem, or aliquem sanitati, to restore to health.

Aspergere labem alicui, or aliquem labe, to put an affront on one; aram sanguine. Litare Deum sacrī, & sacra Deo.

Excusare se alicui & apud aliquem, de re; valetudinem ei.

Exprobare vitium ei v. in eo, to upbraid.

Occupare pecuniam alicui, & apud aliquem, i.e. pecuniam fœnori locare, to place at interest, Cic.

Opponere se morti, & ad mortem. Renunciare id ei, & ad eum.

*Obs. 3. Verbs signifying motion or tendency to a thing, instead of the dative, have an accusative after them, with the preposition ad; as,*

Porto, fero, lego, -as, præcipito, tollo, traho, duco, verto, incito, suscito; also Hortor, and invito, voco, prævoco, animo, stimulo, conformo, lacefso; tbus, Ad laudem milites hortatur; Ad prætorem hominem traxit, Cic. But after several of these verbs, we also find the dative; as, Inferre Deos Latio, for in Latium, Virg. Invitare aliquem hospitio, or in hospitium, Cic.

*Obs. 4. The accusative is sometimes understood; as, Nubere alicui, scil. se; Cedere alicui, scil. locum; Detrahere alicui, scil. laudem; Ignoscere alicui, scil. culpam. And in English the particle to is often omitted; as, Dedit mihi libram, He gave me a book, for to me.*

4. Verbs governing two Accusatives.

XXVI. Verbs of asking and teaching govern two accusatives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

Poscimus te pacem,

We beg peace of thee.

Docuit me Grammaticam,

He taught me grammar.

I. Verbs of asking which govern two accusatives are, Rogo, oto, exoro, obsecro, precor, posco, reposco, flagito, &c. Of teaching, Doceo, edoceo, dedoceo, erudio.

Obs. 1. Celo likewise governs two accusatives; as, Celavit me bane rem, He concealed this matter from me; or otherwise, celavit bane rem mibi, or celavit me de bane re.

Obs. 2. Verbs of asking and teaching are often construed with a preposition : as, Rogare rem ab aliquo; Docere aliquem de re, to inform ; but we do not say, docere aliquem de grammatica, but grammaticam, to teach. And we always say, with a preposition, Peto, exigo a v. ab te; Percontor, scitor, sciscitor, ex v. a te, or te without the preposition; Interrogo, consulto, te de re; Ut facias te obsecro; Exorat pacem divum, for divos, Virg. Instruo, instituo, formo, informo, aliquem, artibus, in the abl. without a prep. Imbuo cum artibus, in v. ab artibus. Also instruo ad rem, v. in re, ignorantiam alicuius. Erudire aliquem artes, de v. in re, ad rem. Formare ad studium, mentem studiis, studia ejus.

Obs. 2. The accusative of the thing is not properly governed by the verb, but by quod ad or secundum understood.

5. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Ablative.

XXVII. Verbs of loading, binding, clothing, depriving, and some others, govern the accusative and the ablative ; as,

Onerat naves auro, He loads the ship with gold.

Verbs of loading are, Onero, cumulo, premo, opprimo, obruo : Of unloading, levo, exoneruo, &c. Of binding, affingo, ligo, alligo, devincio, impedio, irretio, illaqueo, &c. Of loosing, salvo, ensalvo, libera, levo, expedio, &c. Of depriving, privio, nudo, erbo, spolio, frundo, emundo : Of clothing, vestio, amocio, induo, cingo, tego, velo, cerono, & calco : Of unclothing, excuso, discingo, &c.

Obs. 1. The preposition, by which the ablative is governed after these verbs, is sometimes expressed ; as, Solvere aliquem ex catenis, Cia. Sometimes the ablative is to be supplied ; as, Compleat naves sc. viris, mans the ships, Virg.

Obs. 2. Several of these verbs likewise govern the genitive ; as, Adolescentem suae temeritatis implet, Liv. And also vary their construction ; as, Induit, exuit sc. vestibus, or vestes fibi.

The CONSTRUCTION OF PASSIVE VERBS.

XXVIII. When the active governs two cases, the passive retains the latter case ; as,

Accusor furti, I am accused of theft.

Virgilius comparatur Homero, Virgil is compared to Homer.

Doceor grammaticam, I am taught grammar.

Navis oneratur auro, The ship is loaded with gold.

So Scio homines accusatum iri furti : — Eos creptum iri morti, morte, a vel ex morte ; — pueros doctum iri grammaticam ; — rem celatum iri mihi vel me ; me celatum iri de re, &c.

Obs. 1. Passive verbs are commonly construed with the ablative and the preposition a; as,

Tu laudaris a me, which is equivalent to, Ego laudo te. Virtus diligitur a nobis; Nos diligimus virtutem. Gaudeo meum factum probari a te, or te probare meum factum: And so almost all active verbs. Neuter and deponent verbs also admit this preposition; as, Mare a sole colluet, Cic. Phalaris non a paucis interiit, Id. So Cadere ab hoste; Cessare a præliis; Mori ab enfe; Pati, furari, ali- quid ab aliquo, &c. Also Venire ab hostibus, to be sold; Vapulare ab aliquo, Exulare ab urbe. Thus likewise many active verbs; as, Sumere, petere, tollere, pellere, expectare, emere, &c. ab aliquo.

The prep. is sometimes understood after passive verbs; as, Descor conjugi, Ovid. Desertus suis, sc. a. Tacit. Tabulâ distinguitur undâ, qui navigat, sc. ab undâ, is kept from the water by a plank, Var.

The preposition PER is also used in the same sense with A; as, Per me defensa est respublica, or a me; Per me restitutus; Per me v. a me factum est, Cic. But PER commonly marks the instrument, and A the principal efficient cause; as, Res agitur per creditores a rege, Cic.

Obs. 2. Passive verbs sometimes govern the dative, especially among the poets; as,

Neque cernitur ulli, for ab ullo, Virg. Vix audior ulli, Ovid. Scriberis Vario, for a Vario, Hor. Honestæ bonis viris quæruntur, for a viris, Cic. VIDEOR, to seem, always governs the dative; as, Videris mihi, You seem to me: But we commonly say, Videris a me, You are seen by me; although not always; as, Nulla tuarum audita mihi, neque visa fororum, for a me, Virg.

Obs. 3. Induor, amicior, cingor, accingor, also exuor and discingor, are often construed with the accusative, particularly among the poets, though we do not find them governing two accusatives in the active voice; as, Induitur vestem, or veste.

Obs. 4. Neuter verbs are for the most part only used impersonally in the passive voice; unless when they are joined with a noun of a similar signification to their own; as, Pugna pugnata est, Cic. Bellum militabitur, Horat. Passive impersonal verbs are most commonly applied either to a multitude, or to an individual taken indefinitely; as, Statur, fletur, curritus, vivitur, venitur, &c. a nobis, ab illis, &c. We are standing, weeping, &c. Bene potest vivi a me, vel ab aliquo; I or any person may live well. Provisum est nobis optime a Deo; Reclamatum est ab omnibus, att cried out against it, Cic.

They also govern the same cases, as when used personally; as, Ut majoribus natu assurgatur, ut supplicum misereatur, Cic. Except the accusative: For in these phrases, Itur Athenas, pugnatum est biduum, dormitur totam noctem, the accusative is not governed by the verb, but by the prepositions ad and per understood. We find, however, Tota mihi dormitur hyems; Noctes vigilantur amarae; Oceanus raris ab orbe nostro navibus adiutur, Tacit.

The CONSTRUCTION of IMPERSONAL VERBS.

XXIX. An Impersonal verb governs the dative; as,
Expedit reipublica, It is profitable for the state.

Verbs which in the active voice govern only the dative, are used impersonally in the passive, and likewise govern the dative; as,

Favetur mihi, I am favoured, and not Ego faveor. So Nocetur mihi, imperatur mihi, &c. We find however, Hæc ego procurare imperor; Ego cur invideor, for imperatur, invidetur mihi, Hor.

Obs. 1. These verbs, Potest, cœpit, incipit, definit, debet, and sollet, are used impersonally, when joined with impersonal verbs; as,

Non potest credi tibi, You cannot be believed; Mihi non potest noceri, I cannot be hurt; Negat jucunde posse vivi sine virtute, Cic. Per virtutem potest iri ad astra. Aliorum laudi & gloriæ invideri sollet, The praise and glory of others use to be envied, Id.

Obs. 2. Various verbs are used both personally and impersonally; as, Venit in mentem mihi hæc res, vel de hac re, vel hujus rei, scil. memoria; This thing came into my mind. Est curæ mihi hæc res, vel de hac re. Doleo, vel dolet mihi, id factum esse.

Obs. 3. The neuter pronoun it is always joined with impersonal verbs in English; as, It rains, it shines, &c. And in Latin an infinitive is commonly subjoined to Impersonal verbs, or the subjunctive with ut, forming a part of a sentence which may be supposed to supply the place of a nominative; as, Nobis non licet peccare, the same with peccatum; Omnibus bonis expedit respublicam esse salvam, i. e. Salus reipublicæ expedit omnibus bonis, Cic. Accidit, evenit, contigit, ut ibi essemus. These nominatives, hoc, illud, id, idem, quod, &c. are sometimes joined to Impersonal verbs; as, Idem mihi licet, Cic. Eadem licent, Catull.

Obs. 4. The dative is often understood; as, Faciat quod libet, scil. sibi, Ter. Stat causa renovare omnes, scil. mihi, I am resolved, Virg.

Exc. 1. REFERT and INTEREST require the genitive; as,

Refert-patris, It concerns my father. Interest-omnium, It is the interest of all.

¶ But mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, are put in the accusative plural neuter; as,

Non mea refert, It does not concern me.

Obs. 1. Some think mea, tua, sua, &c. to be in the ablat. sing. fem. We say either cujus interest, and quorum interest; or cuja interest, from cujus, a, usm.

Obs. 2. Refert and interest are often joined with these nominatives, Id, hoc, illud, quid, quod, nihil, &c. also with common nouns; and with these genitives, Tanti, quanti, magni, permagni, parvi, pluris; as, Hoc parvi refert; Illud mea magni interest, Cic.

Usque adeo magni refert studium, Luer. Incessus in gravida, refert Plin.

They are frequently construed with these verbs, Tantum, quantum, multum, plus, plurimum, infinitum, parum, maxime, vehementer, minime, &c., as, Faciam, quod maxime reipublicæ interesse judicabo, Cic. Sometimes instead of the genit. they take the accusative with the prep. ad; as, Quid id ad me, aut ad meam rem refert, Perse; quid rerum gerant? Of what importance is it? &c. Plaut. Magni ad honorem nostrum interest, Cic. rarely the dative; as, Dic. quid referat intra naturæ fines viveati, &c. Hor. Sometimes they are placed absolutely; as, Magnopere interest opprimi Dolobellam, it is of great importance, Cic. Permultum interest, qualis primus aditus sit, Id. Adeone est fundata leviter fides, ut ubi sim, quam qui sim, magis referat? Liv. Plurimum enim intererit, quibus artibus, aut quibus hunc tu moribus instituas, Juv.

Obs. 3. The genitive after refert and interest is governed by some substantive understood, with which the possessives mea, tua, seua, &c. likewise agree; as, Interest Ciceronis, i. e. est inter negotia Ciceronis; Refert patris, i. e. refert se hæc res ad negotia patris: So interest mea est inter negotia mea.

Exc. II. These five MISERET, POENITET, PUTDET, TÆDET, and PIGET, govern the accusative of a person, with the genitive of a thing; as,
Miseret me tui, I pity you. Tædet me vita, I am weary of life.
Penitet me peccati, I repent of my sin.

Obs. 1. The genitive here is properly governed either by negotium understood, or by some other substantive of a signification similar to that of the verb with which it is joined; as, Miseret me tui, that is, negotium or miseratio tui miseret me.

Obs. 2. An infinitive or some part of a sentence may supply the place of the genitive; as, Pœnitet me peccasse, or quod peccaverim. The accusative is frequently understood; as, Scelerum si bene pœnitet, scil. nos. Horat.

Obs. 3. Miseret, penitet, &c. are sometimes used personally, especially when joined with these nominatives, hoc, id, quod, &c. as, Ipse sui miseret, Lucr.; Nonne hæc te pudent? Ter. Nihil, quod pœnitere possit, facias, Cic.

We sometimes find miseret joined with two accusatives, as, Menedemi vicem miseret me, scil. secundum, or quod ad. Ter.

Obs. 4. The preterites of miseret, pudet, tædet, and piget, when used in the passive form, govern the same cases with the active; as, Miseratum est me tuatum fortunarum, Ter. We likewise find miserescit and miseretur used impersonally; as, Miserescit me tui, Ter.; Miseretur te fratrum; *Neque me tui, neque tuorum liberorum miseri*ri potest, Cic.

Exc. III. DECET, DELECTAT, JUVAT, and OPORET, govern the accusative of a person, with the infinitive; as,

Delectat me studere,
Non decet te rixari,

It delights me to study.
It does not become you to scold.

Obs. 1. These verbs are sometimes used personally; as, Parvum parva decent, Hor. Est aliquid quod non opporteat, etiamsi licet, Cic. Haec facta ab illo oportebant, Ter.

Obs. 2. Decet is sometimes construed with the dative; as, Ita nobis decet, Ter.

Obs. 3. Oportet is elegantly joined with the subjunctive mode, ut being understood; as,

Sibi quisque consulat oportet, Cic. Or with the perfect participle esse or fuissi being understood; as, Communicatum oportuit; mansum oportuit; Adolescenti morem gestum oportuit, The young man should have been humoured, Ter.

Obs. 4. Fallit, fugit, preterit, latet, when used impersonally, also govern the accusative with the infinitive; as, In lege nullā esse ejusmodi caput, non te fallit; De Dionysio fugit me ad te antea scribere, Cic.

NOTE. Attinet, pertinet, & spectat, are construed with ad; Ad rem publicam pertinet, me conservari, Cic. And so personally, Ille ad me attinet, belongs, Ter. Res ad arma spectat, looks, points, Cic.

The CONSTRUCTION of the INFINITIVE.

XXX. One verb governs another in the infinitive; as,

Cupio discere, I desire to learn.

Obs. 1. The infinitive is often governed by adjectives; as, Horatius est dignus legi, Quintil. And sometimes depends on a substantive; as, Tempus equum sumantia solvere colla, Virg.

Obs. 2. The word governing the infinitive is sometimes understood; as, Mene incepto desistere victimam, scil. decet, or par est, Virg. Videre est. Dicere non est, scil. copia or facultas, Horat. And sometimes the infinitive itself is to be supplied; as, Socratem fidibus docuit, scil. canere, Cic. So Discere, scire fidibus.

Obs. 3. The infinitive was not improperly called by the ancients Nomen verbi, The name or noun of the verb; because it is both joined with an adjective like a substantive, as, Velle suum cuique est, Every one has a will of his own; and likewise supplies the place of a noun, not only in the nominative, but also in all the oblique cases; as, 1. In the nominative, Latrocinari, fraudare, turpe est, Cic. Didicisse fideliter artes emollit mores, Ovid. 2. In the genitive, Peritus cantare, for cantandi, or cantus, Virg. 3. In the dative, Paratus servire, for servituti, Sall. 4. In the accusative, Da mibi fallere, for artem fallendi, Horat. Quod faciam superest, præter amare, nihil, Ovid. 5. In the vocative, O vivere nostrum, ut non sentientibus effluis! For vita nostra. 6. In the ablative, Dignus amari, for amore, or qui ametur, Virg.

Obs. 4. Instead of the infinitive a different construction is often used after verbs of doubting, willing, ordering, fearing, hoping; in short, after any verb which has a relation to futurity; as, Dubitabat ita facere, or more frequently, an, num, or utrum ita facturus sit; Dubitavit an faceret necne; Non dubito quin fecerit. Vis me facere, or ut faciam. Metuit tangi, or ne tangatur. Spero te venterum esse, or fore ut venias. Nunquam putavi fore ut ad te supplex venirem, Cic. Exsuffimabant futurum fuisse ut oppidum amitteretur, Cæs.

Obs. 5. To, which in English is the sign of the infinitive, is omitted after bis, dare, need, make, see, bear, feel, and some others; as, I bid him do it: and in Latin may often be rendered otherwise than by the infinitive; as, I am sent to complain, Mittor quæsum, or ut querar, &c. Ready to hear, Promptus ad audiendum; Time to read, Tempus legendi; Fit to swim, Aptus natando; Easy to say, Facile dicere; I am to write, Scripturus sum; A house to let, or more properly, to be let, Domus locanda: He was left to guard the city, Relictus est ut tueretur urbem.

The CONSTRUCTION OF PARTICIPLES, GERUNDS, and SUPINES.

XXXI. Participles, Gerunds, and Supines, govern the case of their own verbs; as, Amans virtutem, Loving virtue. Carens fraude, Wanting guile.

Obs. 1. Passive participles often govern the dative, particularly when they are used as adjectives; as,

Suspectus mibi, Suspected by me; Suspectiores regibus, Sall. Invitus mibi; hated by me, or hateful to me: Indics invisor, Suet. Ocultus, et maribus non invisa solum, sed etiam inaudita sacra, unstan. Cic.

EXOSUS, PEROSUS, and often also PERTÆSUS, govern the accusative; as, Tædas exosa jugales, Ovid. Plebs consulum nomen haud secus quam regum perosa erat, Liv. Pertæsus ignaviam suam; semet ipse, displeased with, Suet. vitam, weary of, Juſtin. levitatis, Cic.

Verbals in BUNDUS govern the case of their own verbs; as, Gratulabundus patriæ, Juſtin. Vitabundus caſtra hostium, Liv. So sometimes also nouns; as, Justitia est obtemperatio scriptiæ legibus, Cic. Insidiae consuli, Sall. Domum redditionis spe sublata, Cæs. Spectatio ludos, Plaut.

Obs. 2. These verbs, do, reddo, volo, curo, facio, babeo, comperio, with the perfect participle, form a periphrasis similar to what we use in English; as, Compertum habeo, for comperi, I have found, Sall. Efectum dabo, for efficiam; Inventum tibi curabo, et adductum tuum Pamphilum, i. e. inveniam et adducam, Ter. Sometimes the gerund is used with ad; as, Tradere ei gentes diripiendas, or ad diripiendum, Cic. Rogo, accipio, do aliquid utendum, or ad utendum; Misit mihi librum legendum, or ad legendum, &c.

Obs. 3. These verbs, ero, habeo, mando, loco, conduco, do, tribuo, mittuo, &c. are elegantly construed with the participle in dat instead of the infinitive; as, Funus facieadum curavi, for scri, or ut scrieret: Columnas adificandas locavit, Cic.

The Construction of GERUNDS.

XXXII. Gerunds are construed like substantive nouns; as,

Studendum est mihi, I must study. Aptus studendo, Fit for studying. Tempus studendi, Time of study.

But more particularly;

I. The Gerund in DUM with the verb est governs the dative; as,

Legendum est mihi, I must read. Moriendum est omnibus, All must die. So Spio legendum esse mihi; moriendum esse omnibus, &c.

Obs. 1. This gerund always imports obligation or necessity; and may be resolved into oportet, necesse est, or the like, and the infinitive or the subjunctive, with the conjunction ut; as, Omnibus est moriendum, or Omnibus necesse est mori, or ut moriantur; or Necesse est ut omnes moriantur. Consulendum est tibi a me, I must consult for your good; for Oportet ut consulam tibi, Cic.

Obs. 2. The dative is often understood; as, Quandum est, ut sit mens sana in corpore sano, sc. tibi, Ter. Hic, vincendum, aut moriendum, milites, est, sc. vobis, Liv. Deliberandum est diu, quod statuendum est semel, sc. tibi vel alicui, P. Syr.

II. The gerund in DI is governed by substantives or adjectives; as, Tempus legendi, Time of reading. Cupidus discendi, Desirous of learning.

Obs. This gerund is sometimes construed with the genitive plural; as, Facultas agrorum condonandi, for agros, Cic. Copia spectandi comediarum, for comedias, Ter. But chiefly with pronouns; as, In castra venerunt sui purgandi causa, Cef. Vestrī adhortandi causa, Liv. Ejus videndi cupidus, sc. foeminae, Ter. The gerund here is supposed to govern the genitive like a substantive noun.

III. The gerund in DO of the dative case is governed by adjectives signifying usefulness or fitness; as,

Charta utilis scribendo, Paper useful for writing.

Obs. 1. Sometimes the adjective is understood; as, Non est solvendo, scil. par, or babilis, He is not able to pay. Is finis censendo factus est, Liv.

Obs. 2. This gerund is sometimes governed also by verbs; as, Adesse scribendo, Cic. Aptat habendo ensign, for wearing; Virg.

IV. The gerund in DUM of the accusative case, is governed by the prepositions ad or inter; as,

Promptus ad audiendum; Ready to hear.

Attentus inter docendum, Attentive in time of teaching.

Obs. This gerund is also governed by some other prepositions; as, Ante domandum, Virg. Ob absolvendum, Cic. Circa movendum, Quintil. Or it depends on some verb going before, and then with the verb esse governs the dative case; as, Scio moriendum esse omnibus, I know that all must die. Esse is often understood.

V. The gerund in DO of the ablative case is governed by the prepositions, a, ab, de, e, ex, or in; as,

Pana a peccando alitterret, Punishment frightens from sinning.

Or without a preposition, as the ablative of manner or cause; as,

Memoria excolendo augetur, The memory is improved by exercising it.

Defessus sum ambulando, I am wearied with walking.

Obs. The gerund in its nature very much resembles the infinitive. Hence the one is frequently put for the other; as, Est tempus legendi, or legere; only the gerund is never joined with an adjective, and is sometimes taken in a passive sense; as, Cum Tisidium vocaretur ad imperandum, i. e. ut ipsis imperaretur, to receive orders, Sall. Nunc ades ad imperandum, vel ad parentum potius, Sic enim antiqui loquebantur, Cic. i. e. ut tibi imperetur. Urit videndo, i. e. dum videtur, Virg.

*Gerundi turned into participles in dus.*

XXXVI. Gerunds governing the accusative are elegantly turned into participles in dus, which, like adjectives, agree with their substantives in gender, number, and case; as,

By the Gerund.

Petendum est mihi pacem,
Tempus petendi pacem,
Ad petendum pacem,
A petendo pacem,

By the participle or Gerundive.

Pax est petenda mihi.
Tempus petendæ pacis.
Ad petendam pacem.
A petenda paco.

Obs. 1. In changing gerunds into participles in dus, the participle and the substantive are always to be put in the same case in which the gerund was; as,

Genitive; Inita sunt confilia urbis defendendæ, civium trucidandorum, q̄uoniam Romani extingendi, Cic.

Dat Perpetiendo labore idoneus, Colum. Capeſſendæ reipublicæ habilis, Tac. Area firma templis ac participibus sustinendis, Liv. Quæri ferendo est, sc. aptus v. habilis, Ovid. Natus miseriis ferendis, also joined to comparatives; as, Forma viri aliquantum amplior humana, Liv.

QUAM is joined to the positive or superlative in different senses; as, Quam difficile est! How difficult it is! Quam crudelis, or Ut crudelis est! How cruel be is! Flens quam familiariter, very familiarly, Ter. So quam severè, very severely, Cic. quam latè, very widely, Ces. Tam multa, quam, &c. as many things as, &c. Quam maximas potest copias armat, as great as possible, Sall. Quam maximas gratias agit, quam primum, quam sèpissime, Cic. Quam quisque pessimè fecit, tam maximè tutus est, Sall.

FACILE, for hanc dubiè, undoubtedly, clearly, is joined to superlatives or words of a similar meaning; as, Facile doctissimus, facile princeps, &c. præcipuus. LONGE, to comparatives or superlatives, rarely to the positives; as, Longè eloquentissimus Plato, Cic. Pedibus longè melior Lycus, Virg.

2. CUM, when, is construed with the indicative or subjunctive, oftener with the latter; DUM, whilst, or how long, with the indicative; as, Dum hæc aguntur; Megroto, dum anima est, spes esse dicitur, Cic. Donec eris felix, multos numerabis amicos, Ovid. DUM and Donec, for usquædam, until, sometimes with the indicative and sometimes with the subjunctive; as, Operior, dum ista cognosco, Cic. Haud desinam, donec perfecero, Ter. So QUOD, for quædam, quantum, quatenus, as long, as much, as far as; thus, Quoad Catilina fuit in urbe; Quoad tibi æquum videbitur; quoad possem & licet; quoad progreedi potuerit amentia, Cic. But quoad, until, often with the subjunctive; as, Theffalonice esse statueram, quoad aliquid ad me scriberes, Cic. but not always; Non faciam finem regandi, quoad nunciatum essem te secisse, Cic. The pronoun eius, with facere or fieri is elegantly added to quoad; as, Quoad ejus facere poteris; Quoad ejus fieri possit, Cic. Eius is thought to be here governed by aliquid or some such word understood. Quoad corpus, quoad animam, for secundum, or quod attinet ad corpus vel animam, as to the body or soul, is esteemed by the best grammarians not to be good Latin.

3. POSTQUAM or POSTEAQUAM, after, is usually joined with the Indic. ANTEQUAM, PRIUSQUAM, before; SIMUL, SIMULAC, SIMULATQUE, SIMUL UT, as soon as; UBI, when, sometimes with the Ind. and sometimes with the Subj. as, Antequam dico as dicam, Cic. Simulac personis, Virg. Simul ut videro Curionem, Cic. Hæc ubi dicta dedit, Liv. Ubi semel quis pejeraverit, ei credi postea non oportet, Cic. So næ, truly; as, Næ ego homo sum infelix, Ter. Næ tu, si id fecisses, melius famæ consuluisses, Cic. But næ, not, with the Imperative, or more elegantly with the subjunctive; as, Ne jura, Plaut. Ne post conferas culpam in me, Ter. Ne tot annorum felicitatem in unius horæ dederis discrimen, Liv.

4. QUASI, CRE, TANQUAM, PERINDE, when they denote resemblance, are joined with the Indic. Fuit, olim, quasi ego sum, senes, Plaut. Adversus rupto eeu quondam turbine venti configunt, Virg.

Haec omnia perinde sunt, ut aguntur, Cic. But when used ironically, they have the subjunctive; as, Quasi de verbo, non de re laboratur, Cic.

5. UTINAM, o si, ut for utinam, I wish, take the subjunctive; as, Utinam ea res ei voluptati sit, Cic. O mihi præteritos referat si Jupiter annos, Virg. Ut illum dii dæque perdant, Ter.

6. UT, when or after, takes the indicative; as, Ut discessit, venit, &c. ¶ Also for quam, or quomodo, how! as, Ut valet! Ut falsus animi est! Ut sæpe summa ingenia in occulto latent! Plaut. ¶ Or when it simply denotes resemblance; as, Ut tute es, ita omnes censes esse, Plaut. ¶ In this sense it sometimes has the subjunctive; as, Ut sementem feceris, ita metes, Cic.

7. QUIN, for cum NON, takes the indicative; as, Quin continetis vocem indicem stultitiae vestrae, Cic. ¶ For Imo, nay or but, the indicative or imperative; as, Quin est paratum argentum, quin tu hoc audi, Ter. ¶ For UT NON, QUI, QUAE, QUOD NON, or quo MINUS, the Subjunctive; as, Nulla tam facilis res, quin difficilis fieri, quum invitus facias, Ter. Nemo est, quin malit; Facere non possum, quin ad te mittam, I cannot help sending; Nihil abest, quin sum miserrimus, Cic.

The GOVERNMENT OF ADVERBS.

XL. Some Adverbs of time, place, and quantity, govern the genitive; as,

Pridie ejus dœli,	The day before that day.
Ubique gentium,	Every where.
Satis est verborum,	There is enough of words.

1. Adverbs of time governing the genit. are, Interea, postea, inde, tune; as, Interea loci, in the mean time; Postea loci, afterwards; inde loci, then; tunc temporis, at that time. 2. Of place, Ubi and quo, with their compounds, ubique, ubicunque, ubivis, ubiubi, &c. Also, Eo, huc, hucce, unde, usquam, usquam, longe, ibidem; as, Ubi, quo, quovis, &c. also, usquam, usquam, unde terrarum, vel gentium; longe gentium; ibidem loci; eo audaciæ, recordiæ, miseriarum, &c. to that pitch of boldness, madness, misery, &c. 3. Of quantity, Abunde, aſſatim, largiter, nimis, satis, parum, minimè; as, Abundè gloriæ, aſſatim divitiarum, largiter auri, satis loquentiæ, sapientiæ parum est illi vel habet. He has enough of glory, riches, &c. Minimè gentium, by no means.

Some add ergo and inſtar; as, Ergo virtutis, for the sake of virtue, Cic. Inſtar montis, like a mountain, Virg.: But these are properly nouns.

Obs. 1. These adverbs are thought to govern the genitive, because they imply in themselves the force of a substantive; as, Potentia gloriæque abundè adeptus, the same with abundantiam glorie; or res, locus, or negotia and a preposition, may be understood ; as, Interea loci, i. e. inter as negotia loci; Ubi terrorum, for in quo loco terrorum.

Obs. 2. We usually say pridie, postridie ejus dies, seldom dies ; but pridie, postridie, Kalendas, Nonas, Idus, ludos Apollinares, natalem ejus, absolutionem ejus, &c. rarely Kalendarum, &c.

Obs. 3. En and eis are construed either with the nominative or accusative ; as,

En hostis, or hostem; Ecce miserum hominem, Cic. Sometimes a dative is added ; as, Ecce tibi Strato, Ter. Ecce duas (scil. aras) tibi, Daphni, Virg. In like manner is construed hem put for ecc ; as, Hem tibi Davum, Ter. But in all these examples some verb must be understood.

XLI. Some derivative adverbs govern the case of their primitives ; as,

Omnium optimè loquitur ,	He speaks the best of all.
Convenienter naturæ ,	Agreeably to nature.
Venit obviatio ei ,	He came to meet him.
Proxime castris or castra ,	Next the camp.

3. PREPOSITIONS governing the Accus. and Abl.

XLIV. The prepositions in, sub, super, and subter, govern the accusative, when motion to a place is signified; but when motion or rest in a place is signified, in and sub govern the ablative; super and subter either the accusative or ablative.

IN, when it signifies into, governs the accusative; when it signifies in or among, it governs the ablative; as,

In urbem ire, into; amor in patriam, in te benignus, towards; in lucem, until day; in eam sententiam, to that purpose, on that head; in rem tuam est, for your advantage; in utramque partem disputare, on both sides, for and against; sutura in nomen, on, Cic. potestas in filium, over; in aliquem dicere, against; mirum in modum, after; in pedes stare, in aurem dormire, on; in os laudare, to, before; in v. inter patres lectus, into the number of; in vulgus probari, spargere, &c. among; erescit in dies, in singulos dies, omnes in dies, every day; in diem posterum, proximum, decimum, against; in diem vivere, to live from hand to mouth, not think of to-morrow; Est in diem, will happen sometime after, Ter. Inducit in duos annenses datæ, in hanc diem, annum, &c. for; Ternis assibus in pedem, v. in singulos pedes, transfegit, He bargained for three shillings a foot, or for every foot; So in jugerum, militem, capita, naves, &c. In mediana singula, H. S. quinos genos dedisti, Cic.

In portu navigo, in tempore, in; esse in potestate, v. in potestatem, honore, v. honorem, mente v. mentem; in manu v. manibus esse; habere, tenere, in one's power, on hand; in amicis, among; in oculis, before. Occisus est in provinciam, for in provincia, Sall. In pueritia, adolescentia, senectute, absentia, for puer or pueri, when a boy or boys, &c. Hoc in tempore, Nep. In loco fratris diligere, for ut fratrem, Ter.

Sub terras ibit imago, sub aspectum cedit, under; sub ipsum fumus, near, just before, Hor. sub lucem, ortum lucis, noctem, vesperam, brumam, i. e. incipiente luce, &c. at the dawn of day, &c. sub ideo tempus, about; sub eas literas recitatæ sunt tuæ, sub festos dies, after, Cic.

Sub muro, rege, pedibus, &c. under; sub urbe, near, Ter. sub ea conditione, v. -em, on or with.

Super Numidiam, above, beyond; super ripas, upon; super hæc; super morbum etiam famæ affixit, besides, Liv. super arbore, fronde; super viridi, upon; super hac re scribere, his accensa super, concerning; alii super alios trucidantur, Liv. Super cœnam, super vinum et epulas, for inter, during, Curt. Nec super ipse suâ molitus laude laborem, for, Virg.

Subter terram v. terra, under.

Obs. 1. When prepositions do not govern a case, they are reckoned adverbs.

Such are, Ante, circa, clam, coram, contra, infra, intra, juxta, palam, pone, post, propter, secus, subter, super, supra, ultra. But in most of these the case seems to be implied in the sense; as, Longo post tempore venit, sc. post id tempus. Adversus, juxta, propter, secus, secundum, & clam, are by some thought to be always adverbs, having a preposition understood when they govern a case. So other adverbs also are construed with the acc. or abl. as, Intus cellam, for intra, Liv. Intus templo divum, sc. in, Virg. Simul his, sc. cum, Hor.

Obs. 2. A and e are only put before consonants; ab and ex, usually before vowels, and sometimes also before consonants; as,

A patre, e regione: ab initio, ab rege; ex urbe, ex parte: abs before g and t; as, abs te, abs quivis homine, Ter. Some phrases are used only with e; as, e longinquo, e regione, e vestigio, e re met est, &c. Some only with ex; as, Ex compacto, ex tempore, magna ex parte, &c.

Obs. 3. Prepositions are often understood; as, Devenere locos, scil. ad; It portis, sc. ex, Virg. Nunc id prodeo, scil. ob u. propter, Ter. Maria aspera juro, scil. per, Virg. Ut se loco movere non possent, scil. e val de, Cæs. Vina proprens dolio, scil. ex, Hor. Quid illo facias? Quid me fiet, sc. de, Ter. And so in English, Show me the book; Get me some paper, that is, to me, for me. We sometimes find the word to which the preposition refers, suppressed; as, Circum Concordia, sc. ædem, Sall. Round St. Paul's, namely, church; Campum Stellatæm divisit extra sortem ad viginti millibus civium, i. e. civium millibus ad viginti millia, Suet. But this is most frequently the case after prepositions in composition; thus, Emissere servum, scil. manu, Plaut. Evomere virus, scil. ore, Cic. Educere copias, scil. castris, Cæs.

XLV. A preposition in composition often governs the same case, as when it stands by itself; as,

Adéamus scholam,

Let us go to the school.

Exeamus scholâ,

Let us go out of the school.

Obs. 1. The preposition with which the verb is compounded, is often repeated; as, Adire ad scholam; Exire e schola; Adgredi aliquid, or ad aliquid; ingredi orationem vel in orationem; inducere animum, et in animum; evadere undis et ex undis; decidere de suo jure; decidere viâ vel de via; expellere, ejicere, exterminare, extrudere, exturbare urbe, et ex urbe. Some do not repeat the preposition; as, Affari, alloqui, allatrare aliquem, not ad aliquem. So, alluere urbem; accollere flumen; circumvenire aliquem; præterire injuriam; abdicare se magistratu, (also abdicare magistratum); transducere exercitum fluvium, &c. Others are only construed with the preposition; as, Accurrere ad aliquem, adhortari ad aliquid, incidere in morbum, avocare a studiis, avertere ab incepto, &c.

Some admit other prepositions; as, Abire, desmigrare, loeo; et, a, de, ex, loco; abstrahere aliquem a, de, val e conspectu; De-

Sistere sententia, a vel de sententia; Excidere manibus, de vel e manibus, &c.

Obs. 2. Some verbs compounded with e or ex govern either the ablative or accusative; as, Egredi urbe or urbem, scil. extra; egredi extra vallum, Nep. Evadere insidiis or insidiis. Patrios excedere muros, Lucan. Scederat excedere terrâ, Virg. Elabi ex manibus; pugnam, vincula, Tac.

Obs. 3. This rule does not take place, unless when the preposition may be disjoined from the verb, and put before the noun by itself; as, Alloquor patrem, or loquor ad patrem.

3. The CONSTRUCTION OF INTERJECTIONS.

XLVI. The interjections O, heu, and proh, are construed with the nominative, accusative, or vocative; as,

O vir bonus or bene! O good man! Heu me miserum! Ah wretched me!

Sc. O vir fortis atque amicus! Ter. Heu vanitas humana! Plin. Heu miserande puer! Virg. O præclarum custodem ovium fut aiunt Iupum! Cic.

XLVII. Hui and ve govern the dative; as,

Hui mihi! Ah me! Ve vobis! Wo to you!

Obs. 1. Hui and ve are joined only with the vocative; as, Heu Sua, Ter. Ve mihi! Martial. Proh or pro, ab, tab, bem, have generally either the accusative or vocative; as, Proh hogninum fidem! Ter. Itab Sancte Jupiter! Cic. Heu asturias! Ter.

Obs. 2. Interjections cannot properly have either concord or government. They are only mere sounds excited by passion, and have no such connection with any other part of a sentence. Whatever case therefore is joined with them, must depend on some other word understood, except the vocative, which is always placed absolutely: Hui me miserum! proh for Heu! quam me miserum sentio! Heu me! pro Hei! malem est mibi! Proh dolor! for Proh! quare et dolor! and so in other examples.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

The circumstances, which in Latin are expressed in different cases, are, 1. The Price of a thing. 2. The Cause, Nature, and Attribute. 3. Place. 4. Measure and Distance. 5. Time.

I. PRICE.

XLVIII. The price of a thing is put in the ablative; as,

Emi librum duobus assibus, I bought a book for two shillings.
Constitit talento, It cost a talent.

So Aſſe carum eſt; vile viginti minis; auro venale, &c. Nocet empta dolore voluptas, Hor. Spem pretio non emam, Ter. Plurimi auro veneunt honores, Ovid.

¶ These genitives tanti, quanti, pluris, minoris, are excepted; as,

Quanti conſtitit? How much cost it? Aſſe et pluris, A shilling and more.

Obs. 1. When the substantive is added, they are put in the ablative; as, parvo pretio, impenso pretio vendere, Cic.

Obs. 2. Magno, permagno, parvo, paululo, minimo, plurimo, are often used without the substantive; as, Permagnō conſtitit, sc. pre-tio, Cic. We also say, Emi carē, cariūs, cariflīmē; bene, melīūs, optimē; malē, pejūs, viliūs, viliſſimē; Valde carē aſtimas: Emi domum prope dimidio carīūs, quam aſtimabat, Cic.

Obs. 3. The ablative of price is properly governed by the preposition pro understood, which is likewise sometimes expressed; as Dum pro argenteis deceūm aureus unus valcret, Liv.

2. MANNER and CAUSE.

XLIX. The cause, manner, and instrument are put in the ablative; as,

Palleo metu, I am pale for fear.
Fecit ſuo more, He did it after his own way.
Scribo calama, I write with a pen.

*So Ardet dolore; pallescere culpā; aſtuare dubitatione; gestire voluptate &c. secundis rebus; Conſectus morbo; affectus beneficiis, graviflīmo ſupplicio; inſignis pietate; deterior licentiā: Pietate ſilius, conſiliis pater, amore frater; bence Rex Dei gratiā. Paritut pax bello, Nep. Procedere lento gradu; Acceptus regio apparatus; Nullo ſono convertitur annus, Juv. Jam veniet tacito curva ſeneca-ta pede, Quid. Percutere ſecuri, defendere ſaxis, configere ſagittis, &c.*

Obs. 1. The ablative is here governed by ſome preposition un-derſtood. Before the manner and cause, the preposition is ſometimes expressed; as, De more matrum locuta eſt, Virg. Magno cum metu; Hac de cauſa: Præ matre, formidine, &c. But hardly ever before the instrument; as, Vulnerare aliquem gladio, not cum gladio; unleſs among the poets, who ſometimes add a or ab; as, Trajectus ab enſe, Quid.

Obs. 2. When any thing is said to be in company with another, it is called the ablative of CONCOMITANCY, and has the preposition, ~~cum~~ usually added; as, Obsedit curiam cum gladiis: Ingressus est cum gladio, Cic.

Obs. 3. Under this rule are comprehended several other circumstances, as the matter of which any thing is made, and what is called by grammarians the ADJUNCT, that is, a noun in the ablative joined to a verb or adjective, to express the character or quality of the person or thing spoken of; as, Capitolium saxo quadrato constructum, Lio. Floruit acumine ingenii, Cic. Pollet opibus, valet armis, viget memoria, fama nobilis, &c. Æger pedibus. When we express the matter of which any thing is made, the preposition is usually added; as, Templum de marmore, sæd marmoris; Poculum ex auro factum, Cic.

3. PLACE.

The circumstances of place may be reduced to four particulars. 1. The place where, or in which. 2. The place whither, or to which. 3. The place whence, or from which. 4. The place by or through which.

AT or IN a place is put in the genitive; unless it be a noun of the third declension, or of the plural number, and then it is expressed in the ablative.

TO a place is put in the accusative; FROM or BY a place, in the ablative.

But these cases will be more exactly ascertained by reducing the circumstances of place to particular questions.

1. The place WHERE.

L. When the question is made by Ubi? Where? the name of a town is put in the genitive; as,

Vixit Romæ,	He lived at Rome.
Mortuus est Londinii,	He died at London.

¶ But if the name of a town be of the third declension, or plural number, it is expressed in the ablative; as,

Habitat Carthagine,	He dwells at Carthage.
Studuit Parisiis,	He studied at Paris.

Obs. 1. When a thing is said to be done, not in the place itself, but in its neighbourhood, we always use the preposition ad or apud; as, Ad or apud Trojam, At or near Troy.

Obs. 2. The name of a town, when put in the ablative, is here governed by the preposition in understood; but if it be in the genitive, we must supply in urbe, or in oppido. Hence, when the name of a town is joined with an adjective or common noun, the preposition is generally expressed: thus, we do not say, Natus est Romæ urbis celebris; but either Romæ in celebri urbe, or in Romæ celebri urbe, or in Roma celebri urbe, or sometimes Romæ celebri urbe. In like manner we usually say, Habitat in urbe Carthagine, with the preposition. We likewise find Habitat Carthagini, which is sometimes the termination of the ablative, when the question is made by ubi?

2. The place WHITHER.

L1. When the question is made by Quo? Whither? the name of a town is put in the accusative; as,

Venit Romam,	He came to Rome.
Profectus est Athenas,	He went to Athens.

Obs. 1. We find the dative also used among the poets, but more seldom; as, Carthagini nuncios mittam, Horat.

Obs. 2. Names of towns are sometimes put in the accusative, after verbs of telling and giving, where motion to a place is implied; as, Romam erat nunciatum, The report was carried to Rome, Liv. Messanam literas dedit, Cic.

3. The Place WHENCE.

LII. When the question is made by Unde? Whence? or Qua? By or through what place? the name of a town is put in the ablative; as,

Discessit Corinbo,	He departed from Corinth.
Laodiceâ iter faciebat,	He went through Laodicea.

When motion by or through a place is signified, the preposition per is commonly used; as, Pcr Thebas iter fecit, Np.

Domus and Rus.

LIII. Domus and rus are construed the same way as names of towns; as,

Manet domi,	He stays at home.
Domum revertitur,	He returns home.
Domo arcessitus sum,	I am called from home.
Vivit rure, or more frequently ruri,	He lives in the country.
Redit rure,	He is returned from the country.
Abiit rus,	He is gone to the country.

Obs. 1. Humi, militie, and belli, are likewise construed in the genitive, as names of towns; thus,

Domi et militie, or belli, At home and abroad. Facit humi, He lies on the ground.

Obs. 2. When Domus is joined with an adjective, we commonly use a preposition; as, In domo paterna, not domi paternæ; So Ad domum paternam: Ex domo paternâ. Unless when it is joined with these possessives, Meus, tuus, suus, nostrus, regius, vester, and alienus; as, Domi meæ vixit, Cic. Regiam domum comportant, Sall.

Obs. 3. When Domus has another substantive in the genitive after it, the preposition is sometimes used, and sometimes not; as, Deprehensus est domi, domo, or in domo Cæsaris.

LIV. To names of countries, provinces, and all other places, except towns, the preposition is commonly added; as,

When the question is made by

Ubi? Natus in Italia, in Latio, in urbe, &c.

Quo? Abiit in Italianam, in Latium, in, or, ad urbem, &c.

Unde? Rediit ex Italia, e Latio, ex urbe, &c.

Quo? Transit per Italianam, per Latium, per urbem, &c.

Obs. 1. A preposition is often added to names of towns; as, In Roma for Romæ; ad Romam, ex Roma, &c.

Peto always governs the accusative as an active verb, without a preposition; as, Petivit Egyptum, He went to Egypt.

Obs. 2. Names of countries, provinces, &c. are sometimes construed without the preposition; as, Pompeius Cypri visus est, Ces. Cretæ justis considerat Apollo, Virg. Venit Sardiniam, Cic. Remæ, Numidiaque facinora ejus memorat, Sall.

4. MEASURE and DISTANCE.

LV. Measure or distance is put in the accusative, and sometimes in the ablative; as,

Murus est decem pedes altus,

The wall is ten feet high.

Urbs distat triginta millia, or tri-

The city is thirty miles distant.

giunta millibus passuum,

One day's journey.

Iter, or itinere unius dici,

Obs. 1. The accusative or ablative of measure is put after adjectives and verbs of dimension; as, Longus, latus, crassus, profundus and altus: Patet, porrigitur, eminet, &c. The names of measure are pes, cubitus, ulna, passus, digitus, an inch; palmus, a span, an handbreadth, &c. The accusative or ablative of distance is used only after verbs which express motion or distance; as, Eo, curro, absum dicho, &c. The accusative is governed by ad or per understood, and the ablative by a or ab.

Obs. 2. When we express the measure of more things than one, we commonly use the distributive number; as, Muri sunt denos pedes alti, and sometimes denum pedum, for denorum, in the genitive, ad mensuram being understood. But the genitive is only used to express the measure of things in the plural number.

Obs. 3. When we express the distance of a place where any thing is done, we commonly use the ablative; or the accusative with the preposition ad; as, Sex millibus passuum ab urbe consedit, or, ad sex millia passuum, Ces. Ad quantum milliarium e. miliare consedit, Cic. Ad quantum lapidem, Nep.

Obs. 4. The excess or difference of measure and distance is put in the ablative; as,

Hoc lignum excedit illud digito. Toto vertice supra est, Virg. Britanniae longitudo ejus latitudinem ducentis quadraginta millibus superat.

5. TIME.

LVI. When the question is made by Quando? When? time is put in the ablative; as,

Venit bord tertia, He came at three o'clock.

¶ When the question is made by Quamdiu? How long? time is put in the accusative or ablative, but oftener in the accusative; as,

Manit paucos dies,	He staid a few days.
Sex mensibus absuit,	He was away six months.

* Or thus, Time when is put in the ablative, time how long is put in the accusative.

Obs. 1. When we speak of any precise time, it is put in the ablative; but when continuance of time is expressed, it is put for the most part in the accusative.

Obs. 2. All the circumstances of time are often expressed with a preposition; as, In praesentia, or in praesenti scil. tempore; in vel ad praesens; Per decem annos; Surgunt de nocte; Ad horam destinatam; Intra annum; Per idem tempus; ad Kalendas soluturos ait, Suet. The preposition ad or circa is sometimes suppressed, as in these expressions, hoc, illud, id, istuc, etatis, temporis, horæ, &c. for hac estate, hoc tempore, &c. And ante or some other word; as, Annos natus unum & viginti, sc. ante. Siculi quotannis tributa conferunt, sc. tot annis, quot vel quotquot sunt, Cic. Prope diem, sc. ad, soon; Oppidum paucis diebus, quibus eo ventum est, expugnatum, sc. post eos dies, Ces. Ante diem tertium Kalendas Maias accepi tuas literas, for die tertio ante, Cic. Qui dies futurus esset in ante diem octavum Kalendas Novembris, Id. Exante diem quintum Kal. Octob. Id.

Lacedæmoniæ septingentos jam annos amplius unis moribus et nunquam mutatis legibus vivunt, sc. quam per, Cic. We find, Primum stipendium meruit annorum decem septemque, sc. Atticus; for septemdecim annos natus, seventeen years old, Nep.

Obs. 3. The adverb ABHINC which is commonly used with respect to past time, is joined with the accusative or ablative without a preposition, as, factum est abhinc biennio or biennium, It was done two years ago. So likewise are post and ante; as, paucos post annos: but here, ea or id may be understood.

COMPOUND SENTENCES.

A compound sentence is that which has more than one nominative, or one finite verb.

A compound sentence is made up of two or more simple sentences or phrases, and is commonly called a Period.

The parts of which a compound sentence consists, are called Members or Clauses.

In every compound sentence there are either several subjects, and one attribute, or several attributes, and one subject, or both several subjects and several attributes: That is, there are either several nominatives applied to the same verb, or several verbs applied to the same nominative, or both.

Every verb marks a judgment or attribute, and every attribute must have a subject. There must therefore be in every sentence or period as many propositions as there are verbs of a finite mode.

Sentences are compounded by means of relatives and conjunctions; as,

Happy is the man who loveth religion and practiseth virtue.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF RELATIVES.

LVII. The relative Qui, Quæ, Quod, agrees with the antecedent in gender, number, and person; and is construed through all the cases, as the antecedent would be in its place; as,

Singular.

Vir qui,	The man who.
Femina quæ,	The woman who.
Negotium quod,	The thing which.
Ego qui scribo,	I who write.
Tu qui scribis,	Thou who writest.
Vir qui scribit,	The man who writes.

Plural.

Viri qui.
Femina quæ.
Negotia quæ.
Nos qui scribimus.
Vos qui scribitis.
Viri qui scribant.

Mulier quæ scribit,	The woman who writes.	Mulieres quæ scribunt.
Animal quod currit,	The animal which runs.	Animalia quæ currunt.
Vir quem vidi,	The man whom I saw.	Viri quos vidi.
Mulier quam vidi,	The woman whom I saw.	Mulieres quas vidi.
Animal quod vidi,	The animal which I saw.	Animalia quæ vidi.
Vir cui paret,	The man whom he obeys.	Viri quibus paret.
Vir cui est similiſ,	The man to whom he is like.	Viri quibus est similiſ.
Vir a quo,	The man by whom.	Viri a quibus.
Mulier ad quam,	The woman to whom.	Mulieres ad quas.
Vir cujus opus est,	The man whose work it is.	Viri quorum opus est.
Vir quem miseror, cujus misereor vel misereſco, cujus me miseret, cujus vel cuja intereſt, &c.	{ The man whom I pity. whose interest it is, &c.

If no nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative will be the nominative to the verb.

But if a nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative will be of that case, which the verb or noun following, or the preposition going before, use to govern.

Thus the construction of the relative requires an acquaintance with most of the foregoing rules of syntax, and may serve as an exercise on all of them.

Obs. 1. The relative must always have an antecedent expressed or understood, and therefore may be considered as an adjective placed betwixt two cases of the same substantive, of which the one is always expressed, generally the former; as,

Vir qui (vir) legit; vir, quem (virum) amo: Sometimes the latter; as, Quam quisque abrit artem, in bac (arte) se exerceat, Cic. Eunuchum, quem dediſti nobis, quas turbas delit, Ter. sc. Eunucus. Sometimes both cases are expressed; as, Erant omnino duo itinera, quibus itineribus domo exire posſent, Cæſ. Sometimes, though more rarely, both cases are omitted; as, Sunt, quos hoc genus minime juvat, for sunt homines, quos, &c. Hor.

Obs. 2. When the relative is placed betwixt two substantives of different genders, it may agree in gender with either of them, though most commonly with the former; as,

Vultus quem dixere cbaſ, Ovid. Eſt locus in carere, quod Tullianum appellatur, Sall. Animal, quem vocamus hominem, Cic. Cogito id quod reſt, Ter. If a part of a sentence be the antecedent, the relative is always put in the neuter gender; as, Pompeius ſe affilit, quod mihi eſt ſummo dolori, ſcil. Pompeium ſe affligens, Cic. Sometimes the relative does not agree in gender with the antecedent, but with some synonymous word supplied; as, Scelus qui, for ſcelere, Ter. Abundantia earum rerum, quæ mortales prima putant, ſcil. negotia, Sall. Vel virtus tua me vel vicinitas, quod ego in aliqua parte amicitia puto, facit ut te moneam, ſcil. negotium, Ter.

Obs. 3. When the relative comes after two words of different persons, it agrees with the first or second person rather than the third ; as, Ego sum vir, qui facio, scarcely facit. In English it sometimes agrees with either ; as, I am the man, who make, or makes. But when once the person of the relative is fixed, it ought to be continued through the rest of the sentence : thus it is proper to say " I am the man, who takes care of your interest," but if I add, " at the expense of my own," it would be improper. It ought either to be " his own," or " who take." In like manner, we say, " I thank you, who gave, who did love," &c. But it is improper to say, " I thank thee, who gave, who did love :" it should be, " who gavest, who didst love." In no part of English syntax are inaccuracies committed more frequently than in this. Beginners are particularly apt to fall into them, in turning Latin into English. The reason of it seems to be our applying thou or you, thy or your, promiscuously, to express the second person singular, whereas the Latins almost always expressed it by tu and tuus.

Obs. 4. The antecedent is often implied in a possessive adjective ; as, Omnis laudare fortunas meas, qui haberem gnatum tali ingenio præditum, Ter. Sometimes the antecedent must be drawn from the sense of the foregoing words ; as, Carne pluit, quem imbre aves rapuisse feruntur ; i. e. pluit imbre carne, quem imbre, &c. Liv. Si tempus est ultum jure hominis necandi, que multa sunt, scil. tempora, Cic.

Obs. 5. The relative is sometimes entirely omitted ; as, Urbs antiqua fuit : Tyrrii tenuere coloni, scil. quam or eam, Virg. Or if once expressed, is afterwards omitted, so that it must be supplied in a different case ; as, Bocchus cum peditibus, quos filius ejus adduxerat, neque in priore pugna adfuerant, Romanos invadunt ; for qui que in priore pugna non adfuerant, Sall. In English the relative is often omitted, where in Latin it must be expressed ; as, The letter I wrote, for the letter which I wrote ; The man I love, to wit, whom. But this omission of the relative is generally improper, particularly in serious discourse.

Obs. 6. The case of the relative sometimes seems to depend on that of the antecedent ; as, Cum aliquid agas eorum, quorum consueti, for quæ consueti agere, or quorum aliquid agere consueti, Cic. But such examples rarely occur.

Obs. 7. The adjective pronouns ille, ipse, ista, hic, iu, and idem, in their construction, resemble that of the relative qui ; as, Liber ejus, His or her book ; Vita eorum, Their life, when applied to men ; Vita earum, Their life, when applied to women. By the improper use of these pronouns in English, the meaning of sentences is often rendered obscure.

Obs. 8. The interrogative or indefinite adjectives, qualis, quantis, quatenus, &c. are also sometimes construed like relatives ; as, Facies est, qualem decet esse sororum, Ovid. But these have commonly other adjectives, either expressed or understood, which answer to them ; as, Tanta est multitudo, quantam urbs capere potest : and are often applied to different substantives ; as, Quales sunt cives, talis est civitas, Cic.

Obs. 9. The Latin relative often cannot be translated literally into English, on account of the different idioms of the two languages; as, Quod cum ita esset, When that was so; not, Which when it was so, because then there would be two nominatives to the verb was, which is improper. Sometimes the accusative of the relative in Latin must be rendered by the nominative in English; as, Quem dicunt me esse? Who do they say that I am? not whom. Quem dicunt adventare? Who do they say is coming?

Obs. 10. As the relative is always connected with a different verb from the antecedent, it is usually construed with the subjunctive mode, unless when the meaning of the verb is expressed positively; as, Audire cupio, qua legeris, I want to hear, what you have read; that is, what perhaps or probably you may have read: Audire cupio, qua legisti, I want to hear, what you have read.

To the construction of the Relative may be subjoined that of the ANSWER TO A QUESTION.

The answer is commonly put in the same case with the question; as,

Qui vocare? Geta, sc. vocor. Quid queris? Librum, sc. queror. Quotā horā vanisti? Sextā. Sometimes the construction is varied; as, Cujus est liber? Meus, not mei: Quanti emptus est? Decem assibus. Daminatusne es furti? Imo alio crimine. Often the answer is made by other parts of speech than nouns; as, Quid agitur? Statur, sc. a me, a nobis. Quis fecit? Nescio: Aitn Petrum fecisse. Quomodo vales? Bene, male. Scripsistne? Scripsi, ita, etiam, immo, &c. An vidisti? Non vidi, non, minime, &c. Charea tuam vestem detraxit tibi? Factum. Et cā est indutus? Factum, Ter. Most of the rules of Syntax may thus be exemplified in the form of questions and answers.

The CONSTRUCTION of CONJUNCTIONS.

LVIII. The conjunctions et, ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, and some others, couple like cases and modes; as,

Honora patrem et matrem, Honour father and mother.

Nec legit nec scribit, He neither reads nor writes.

Obs. 1. To this rule belong particularly the copulative and disjunctive conjunctions; as likewise, quam, nisi, præterquam, an; and also adverbs of likeness, as, ceu, tanquam, quasi, ut, &c. as,

Nullum præmium a vobis postulo, præterquam hujus diei memoriā, Cic. Gloria virtutem tanquam umbra sequitur, Id.

Obs. 2. These conjunctions properly connect the different members of a sentence together, and are hardly ever applied to single words, unless when some other word is understood. Hence if the construction of the sentence be varied, different cases and modes may be coupled together; as,

Interest mea et reipublicæ; Constitit aſſe et pluris; Sive es Romæ, ſive in Epiro; Decius cum devoveret, et in medium aciem irruuebat, Cic. Vir magni ingenii summâque induſtria; Neque per viam, neque infidiis, Sall. Tecum habita, & nobis, quam fit tibi curta ſupellex, Perf.

Obs. 3. When et, aut, vel, ſive, or ne, are joined to different members of the same ſentence, without connecting it particularly to any former ſentence, the first et is rendered in English by both or likewise; aut or vel, by either; the first ſive, by whether; and the first ne, by neither; as,

Et legit, et ſcribit; ſo tum legit, tum ſcribit; or cum legie, tum ſcribit, He both reads and writes; Sive legit, ſive ſcribit, Whether he reads or writes: Jacere quâ vera, quâ falsa; Increpare quâ conſules ipſos, quâ exercitum, to upbraid both the conſuls and the army, Liv.

LIX. Two or more substantives singular coupled by a conjunction, (as et, ac, atque, &c.) have an adjective, verb, or relative plural; as,

Petri et Joannis, qui ſunt docti, Peter and John who are learned.

Obs. 1. If the substantives be of different persons, the verb plural must agree with the first person rather than the second, and with the second rather than the third; as, Sit tu et Tullia valetis, eg. et Cicero valetus. If you and Tullia are well, I and Cicero are well, Cic. In English the person speaking usually puts himself last: thus, You and I read; Cicero and I are well: but in Latin the person who speaks is generally put first: thus, Ego et tu legimus.

Obs. 2. If the substantives are of different genders, the adjective or relative plural must agree with the masculine rather than the feminine or neuter; as, Pater et mater, qui ſunt mortui: but this is only applicable to beings which may have life. The person is sometimes implied; as, Athenarum et Cratippi, ad quos, &c. Propter ſummarum doctoris auctoritatem et urbis, quorum alter, &c. Cic. Where Athena & urbs are put for the learned men of Athens. So in substantives; as, Ad Ptolemaeum Cleopatramque reges legati misi, i. e. the king and queen, Liv.

Obs. 3. If the substantives signify things without life, the adjective or relative plural must be put in the neuter gender; as, Divitiae, decus, gloria, in oculis ſita ſunt, Sall.

The same holds, if any of the substantives signify a thing without life; because when we apply a quality or join an adjective to ſeveral substantives of different genders, we must reduce the substantives to ſome certain clas, under which they may all be comprehended; that is, to what is called their Genus. Now the Genus or clas which comprehends under it both persons and things, is that of ſubſtances or beings in general, which are neither masculine nor feminine. To express this the Latin grammarians use the word Negotia.

Obs. 4. The adjective or verb frequently agrees with the nearest substantive or nominative, and is understood to the rest; as,

Et ego et Cicero meus flagitabit, Cic. Sociis et rege recepto, Virg.
Et ego in culpa sum, et tu, Both I am in the fault, and you; or Et ego et tu es in culpa, Both I and you are in the fault. Nihil hic nisi carmina defunt; or nihil hic deest nisi carmina. Omnia, quibus turbari solita erat civitas, domi discordia, foris bellum exortum; Duo millia et quadringenti cœsi, Lév. This construction is most usual, when the different substantives resemble one another in sense; as, Mens, ratio, et consilium in fenibus est, Understanding, reason, and prudence is in old men.

Obs. 5. The plural is sometimes used after the preposition cum put for et; as,

Remo cum fratre Quirinus jura dabunt, Virg. The conjunction is frequently understood; as, Dum zetas, metus, magister prohibebant, Ter. Frons, oculi, vultus sœpè mentiuntur, Cic.

The different examples comprehended under this rule are commonly referred to the figure Syllepsis.

LX. The conjunctions ut, quo, licet, ne, utinam, and dummodo, are for the most part joined to the subjunctive mode; as,

Lego ut discam, I read that I may learn.

Utinam saperes, I wish you were wise.

Obs. 1. All interrogatives, when placed indefinitely, have after them the subjunctive mode.

Whether they be adjectives; as, Quautus, qualis, quótus, quotuplex, uter; Pronouns, quis, & cujas; Adverbs, as, Ubi, quo, unde, qua, quorsum, quamdiu, quamdudum, quampridem, quoties, cur, quare, quamobrem, num, utrum, quomodo, qui, ut, quam, quanto-père; or Conjunctions, as, ne, an, anne, anno: Thus, Quis est? Who is it? Nescio quis sit; I do not know who it is. An venturus est? Nescio, dubito, an venturus sit. Viden' ut alta stet nive candidum Sora&te, Hor. But these words are sometimes joined with the indicative; as Scio quid ago, Plaut. Haud scio an amat, Ter. Vide avaritia quid facit, Id. Vides quam turpe est, Cic.

In like manner the Relative QUI in a continued discourse; as, Nihil est quod Deus efficere non possit. Quis est, qui utilia fugiat? Cic. Or when joined with QUIPERE or UTPOTER; Neque Antonius procul aberat, utpote qui sequeretur, &c. Sall. But these are sometimes, although more rarely, joined with the Indicative. So Est qui, sunt qui, est quando v. ubi, &c. are joined with the indicative or subjunctive.

NOTE, Haud scio an recte dixerim, is the same with dico, affirmo, Cic.

Obs. 5. The excess or defect of measure is put in the ablative after comparatives; and the sign in English is by, expressed or understood; as,

Eſt decem digitis altior quam frater, He is ten inches taller than his brother, or by ten inches. Altero tanto major eſt fratre, i. e. duplo major, He is as big again as his brother, or twice as big. Sesquipedē minor, a foot and a half less; Altero tanto, aut ſequimājor, As big again, or a half bigger, Cic. Ter tanto pejor eſt; Bis tanto amici ſunt inter ſe, quam prius, Plaut. Quinqūies tanto amplius, quam quantum licitum ſit, civitatis imperavit, five times more, Cic. To this may be added many other ablatives, which are joined with the comparative, to increase its force; as, Tanto, quanto, quo, eo, hoc, multo, paulo, nimis, &c. thus, Quo plus habent, eo plus cupiunt, The more they have, the more they desire. Quanto melius, tanto felicior, The better, the happier. We frequently find multo, tanto, quanto, also joined with superlatives: Multo pulcherrimam eam haberemus, Sall. Multoque id maximum ſuit, Liv.

The ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

LXII. A Substantive and a Participle are put in the ablative, when their case depends on no other word; as,

Sole oriente, fugiunt tenebrae,

{ The sun rising, or while the sun rifeth, darkness flies away.

Operi peracto, ludemus,

{ Our work being finished, or when our work is finished, we will play.

So, Dominante libidine, temperantiae nullus eſt locus; Nihil amicitiae præstabilius eſt, excepta virtute; Oppressa libertate patriæ, nihil eſt quod speremus amplius; Nobilium vitæ viætus mutato, mores mutari civitatum puto, Cic. Parumper silentium et quies fuit, nec Etruscis, niſi cogerentur, pugnam inituris, et dictatore armis Romanam respectante, ut ab auguribus, simul aves rite admifſent, ex compoſito tolleretur ſignum, Liv.

Obs. 1. This ablative is called Absolute, because it does not depend upon any other word in the sentence.

For if the substantive with which the participle is joined, be either the nominative to some following verb, or be governed by any word going before, then this rule does not take place: the ablative absolute is never used, unless when different persons or things are spoken of; as, Milites, boſibus victis, redierunt, The soldiers, having conquered the enemy, returned. Boſibus victis, may be rendered in English several different ways, according to the meaning of the sentence with which it is joined; thus, 1. The enemy conquered, or being conquered; 2. When or after the enemy is or was conquered; 3. By conquering the enemy; 4. Upon the defeat of the enemy, &c.

Obs. 2. The perfect participles of deponent verbs are not used in the ablative absolute; as, Cicero locutus bēc confedit, never bis locutis. The participles of common verbs may either agree in case with the substantive before them; like, the participles of deponent verbs, or may be put in the ablative absolute, like the participles of passive verbs; as, Romani adepti libertatem floruerunt; or Romani libertate adeptā, floruerunt. But as the participles of common verbs are seldom taken in a passive sense, we therefore find them rarely used in the ablative absolute.

Obs. 3. The participle existente or existentibus is frequently understood; as, Cæsare duce, scil. existente. His consulibus, scil. existentibus. Invitā Minervā, sc. existente, against the grain; Crassa Minervā, without learning, Hor. Magistrā ac duce naturā; vivis fratribus; te hortatore; Cæsare impulsore, &c. Sometimes the substantive must be supplied; as, Nondum comperto, quam regionem hostes petiſſent, i. e. cum nōdum compertum eſſet, Liv. Excepto quod non simul eſſes, cætera latus, Hor. In such examples negotio must be understood, or the rest of the sentence considered as the substantive, which perhaps is more proper. Thus we find a verb supply the place of a substantive; as, Vale dīcto, having said farewell, Ovid.

Obs. 4. We sometimes find a Substantive plural joined with a participle singular; as, Nobis praesente, Plaut. Absente nobis, Ter. We also find the ablative absolute, when it refers to the same person with the nominative to the verb; as, Me duce ad hunc voti finem, me milite veni, Ovid. But examples of this construction very rarely occur.

Obs. 5. The ablative called absolute is governed by some preposition understood; as, a, ab, cum, sub, or in. We find the preposition sometimes expressed; as, Cum diis juvantibus, Liv. The nominative likewise seems sometimes to be used absolutely; as, Perniciosa libidine paulisper usus, infirmitas naturæ accusatur, Sall. Jug. 1.

Obs. 6. The ablative absolute may be rendered several different ways: thus, Superbo-regnante, is the same with Cum, dum, or quando Superbus regnabat. Operē peractō, is the same with Post opus peractū, or Cum opus eſt. peractū. The present participle, when used in the ablative absolute, commonly ends in e.

Obs. 7. When a substantive is joined with a participle in English independently on the rest of the sentence, it is expressed in the nominative; as, Illo descendente, He descending. But this manner of speech is seldom used except in poetry.

N. B. Those things were called, Res mancipi, (contracted for mancipii, i. e. quæ emptor manu caperet,) the property of which might be transferred from one Roman citizen to another, as, houses, lands, slaves, &c.

Praestat, imperf. i. e. it is better: Praesto esse alicui, adv. to be present, to assist; Libri præstant venales, the books are exposed to sale.

II. FIGURES OF SYNTAX.

A Figure is a manner of speaking different from the ordinary and plain way, used for the sake of beauty or force.

The figures of Syntax or Construction may be reduced to these three, Ellipsis, Pleonasm, and Hyperbaton.

The two first respect the constituent parts of a sentence; the last respects only the arrangement of the words.

I. ELLIPSIS.

ELLIPSIS is when one or more words are wanting to complete the sense; as, Aiunt, ferunt, dicunt, perhibent, scil. homines: Dic mihi, Damæta, cujum pecus; that is, Dic (tu) mihi, Damæta, (cum hominem) cujum pecus (est hoc pecus.) Aberant bidui, scil. iter vel itinere. Decies sestertium, scil. centena millia. Quid multa? scil.

dicam. Antiquum obtines, scil. morem vel institutum, Plaut. Hodie in Iudum occæpi ire literarium, ternas jam scio, scil. literas, i. e. AMO, Id. Triduo abs te nullas acceperam, scil. literas, i. e. epistolam, Cic. Brevi dicam, scil. sermone: So Complecti, respondere, &c. brevi. Dii meliora, sc. faciant: Rhodum volo, inde Athenas, sc. ire, Id. Bellicum, vel classicum canere, sc. signum, Liv. Civicā donatus, sc. coronā; So obsidionalem, muralem adeptus, &c. Id. Epistola librarii manu est sc. scripta, Cic. So in English, "The twelve," i. e. apostles; "The elect," i. e. persons.

When a conjunction is to be supplied, it is called ASYNDETOS; as, Deus optimus maximus, scil. et; Sartum tectum conservare, i. e. fartum et tectum; So Abiit, excessit, evasit, erupit, Cic. Ferte, giti summas, date vela, impellite remos, Virg. Velis nolis, scil. seu.

To this figure may be reduced most of those irregularities in Syntax, as they are called, which are variously classed by grammarians, under the names of ENNALLAGE, i. e. the changing of words and their accidents, or the putting of one word for another; ANTIPOSISS, i. e. the putting of one case for another; HELLENISM or GÆCISM, i. e. imitating the construction of the Greeks; SYNESS, i. e. referring the construction, not to the gender or number of the word, but to the sense, &c. thus, Samnitium duo millia cœsi, is Duo millia (hominum) Samnitium (fuerunt homines) cœsi, Liv. So Monstrum quæ, sc. mulier, Hor. Scelus qui, sc. homo, Ter. Omnia Mercurio similis, sc. secundum, Virg. Missi magnis de rebus uterque, legati; i. e. Missi legati (et) uterque (legatus missus) de magnis rebus, Horat. Servitia repudiabat, cuius, sc. servitii, Sall. Cat. 51. Familia nostra, quorum, &c. sc. hominum, Sall. Concursus populi, mirantium, Liv. Illum ut vivat, optant, for ut ille vivat, Ter. Populum late regem, for regnantem, Virg. Expediti militum, for milites; Classis stabat Rhegii, for ad Rhegium, Liv. Latium Capuaque agro multati, sc. homines, Id. Utraque formosæ, sc. mulieres, Ovid. Aperite aliquis ostium, Ter. Sensit delapsus, for delapsum, sc. se esse, Virg.

When a writer frequently uses the Ellipsis, his style is said to be elliptical or concise.

2. PLEONASM.

PLEONASM is when a word more is added than is absolutely necessary to express the sense; as, Vide oculis, I see with my eyes; Sic ore locuta est: adest præfens: Nusquam gentium; vivere vitam: servire servitutem; Quid mihi Celsus agit? Fas me ut sciām, &c. Suo fibi gladio hunc jugulo, Ter. Suo fibi succo vivunt, Plaut.

When a conjunction is used apparently redundant, it is called POLYSYNDETON; as, Una Eurusque Notusque ruunt, Virg.

When that which is in reality one, is so expressed as if there were two, it is called HENDIADYS; as, Pateris libamus et auro, for aureis pateris, Virg.

When several words are used to express one thing, it is called PERIPHRASIS; as, Urbe Trojæ, for Troja, Virg. Res voluptatum, for voluptates, Plaut. Usus purpurarum, for purpura; Genus pis- cium, for pisces, Hor.

3. HYPERBATON.

HYPERBATON is the transgression of that order or arrangement of words which is commonly used in any language. It is chiefly to be met with among the poets. The various sorts into which it is divided, are, Anastrōphe, Hystēron protēron, Hypallāge, Synchēsis, Tmesis, and Parenthēsis.

1. ANASTRÖPHE is the inversion of words, or the placing of that word last which should be first; as, Italianum contra; His accensa super; Spemque metumque inter dubii; for contra Italianum, super his, inter spem, &c. Virg. Ferram sol facit are, for arefacit, Lucret.

2. HYSTERON PROTERON is when that is put in the former part of the sentence, which, according to the sense, should be in the latter; as, Valet atque vivit, for vivit atque valet, Ter.

3. HYPALLAGE is the exchanging of cases; as, Dare classibus austros, for dare classes austris, Virg.

4. SYNCHESIS is a confused and intricate arrangement of words; as, Saxa vocant Itali mediis quæ in fluctibus aras; for Quæ saxa in mediis fluctibus Itali vocant aras, Virg.

5. TMESIS is the division of a compound word, and the interposing of other words betwixt its parts; as, Septem subjecta trionigena, for Septentrionis, Virg. Quæ meo cunque animo libitum est facere, for quæcunque, Ter.

6. PARENTHESIS is the inserting of a member into the body of a sentence, which is neither necessary to the sense, nor at all affects the construction; as, Tityre, dum redeo, (brevis est via) pafæ capellæ, Virg.

III. ANALYSIS AND TRANSLATION.

The difficulty of translating either from English into Latin, or from Latin into English, arises in a great measure from the different arrangement of words which takes place in the two languages.

In Latin the various terminations of nouns, and the inflection of adjectives and verbs, point out the relation of one word to another, in whatever order they are placed. But in English the agreement and government of words can only be determined from the particular part of the sentence in which they stand. Thus, in Latin, we can either say, Alexander vicit Darium, or Darium vicit Alexander, or Alexander Darium vicit, or Darium Alexander vicit; and in each of these the sense is equally obvious: but in English we can only say, Alexander conquered Darius. This variety of arrangement in Latin gives it a great advantage over the English, not only in point of energy and vivacity of expression, but also in point of harmony. We sometimes indeed, for the sake of variety and force, imitate in English the inversion of words which takes place in Latin; as, Him the Eternal hurl'd, Milton. Whom ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. But this is chiefly to be used in poetry.

With regard to the proper order of words to be observed in translating from English into Latin, the only certain rule which can be given, is to imitate the CLASSICS.

The order of words in sentences is said to be either simple or artificial; or, as it is otherwise expressed, either natural or oratorial.

The Simple or Natural order is, when the words of a sentence are placed one after another, according to the natural order of syntax.

Artificial or Oratorial order is when words are so arranged, as to render them most striking, or most agreeable to the ear.

All Latin writers use an arrangement of words, which appears to us more or less artificial, because different from our own, although to them it was as natural as ours is to us. In order therefore to render any Latin author into English, we must first reduce the words in Latin to the order of English, which is called the Analysis or Resolution of sentences. It is only practice that can teach one to do this with readiness. However to a beginner the observation of the following rule may be of advantage.

Take first the words which serve to introduce the sentence, or shew its dependence on what went before; next, the nominative, together with the words which it agrees with or governs; then, the verb and adverbs joined with it; and lastly, the cases which the verb governs, together with the circumstances subjoined, to the end of the sentence: supplying through the whole the words which are understood.

If the sentence is compound, it must be resolved into the several sentences of which it is made up; as,

Vale igitur, mi Cicero, tibique persuade esse te quidem mihi carissimum; sed multo fore cariorem, si talibus monumentis præceptisque latabere, Cic. Off. lib. 3.

Farewell then, my Cicero, and assure yourself that you are indeed very dear unto me ; but shall be much dearer, if you shall take delight in such writings and instructions.

This compound sentence may be resolved into these five simple sentences : 1. Igitur, mi (fili) Cicero, (tu) vale, 2. et (tu) persuade tibi (ipsum) te esse quidem (filium) carissimum mibi : 3. sed (tu persuade tibi ipsi te) fore (filium) cariorem (michi in) multo (negotio) 4. si (tu) letabere talibus monumentis, 5. et (si tu letabere talibus) praecepisti.

1. Fare (you) well then, my (son) Cicero, 2. and assure (you) yourself that you are indeed (a son) very dear to me ; 3. but (assure you yourself that you) shall be (a son) much dearer (to me) 4. if you shall take delight in such writings, 5. and (if you shall take delight in such) instructions.

When a learner first begins to translate from the Latin, he should keep as strictly to the literal meaning of the words as the different idioms of the two languages will permit. But after he has made farther progress, something more will be requisite. He should then be accustomed, as much as possible, to transfuse the beauties of an author, from the one language into the other. For this purpose it will be necessary that he be acquainted, not only with the idioms of the two languages, but also with the different kinds of style adapted to different sorts of composition, and to different subjects ; together with the various turns of thought and expression which writers employ, or what are called the figures of words and of thought ; or the Figures of Rhetoric.

The QUANTITY of SYLLABLES.

The quantity of a syllable is the space of time taken up in pronouncing it.

That part of grammar which treats of the quantity and accent of Syllables, and of the measures of Verse, is called PROSODY.

Syllables, with respect to their quantity, are either long or short.

A long syllable in pronouncing requires double the time of a short ; as, tēndōrē.

Some syllables are common : that is, sometimes long, and sometimes short ; as the second syllable in vulcīnī.

A vowel is said to be long or short by nature, which is always so by custom, or by the use of the poets.

In polysyllables or long words, the last syllable except one is called the Penultima, or, by contraction, the Penult, and the last syllable except two, the Antepenultima.

When the quantity of a syllable is not fixed by some particular rule, it is said to be long or short by authority, that is, according to the usage of the poets. Thus le in lēgo is said to be short by authority, because it is always made short by the Latin poets.

In most Latin words of one or two syllables, according to our manner of pronouncing, we can hardly distinguish by the ear a long syllable from a short. Thus de in lēgo and lēgi seem to be sounded equally long; but when we pronounce them in composition, the difference is obvious; thus, perlēgo, perlēgi; relēgo, -ēre; relēgo, -āre, &c.

The rules of quantity are either General or Special. The former apply to all syllables, the latter only to some certain syllables.

GENERAL RULES.

1. A vowel before another vowel is short; as, Mēus, alīus: so nībil: b in verse being considered only as a breathing. In like manner in English, crēate, bēhave.

Exc. 1. I is long in siō, siēbam, &c. unless when followed by r; as, siēri, siērem; thus,

Omnīa jam sīent, siēri quā posse negabam, Ovid.

Exc. 2. E having an i before and after it, in the fifth declension, is long; as, specīi. So is the first syllable in āer, dēus, ēbēw, and the penultima in aulāi, terrāi, &c. in Pompāi, Gāi, and such like words; but we sometimes find Pompeī in two syllables, Hor. II. Od. 7.

Exc. 3. The first syllable in obe and Diana is common; so likewise is the penult of genitives in ius; as, illius, unius, &c. to be read long in prose. Alius, in the genitive is always long; alterius short.

In Greek words when a vowel comes before another, no certain rule concerning its quantity can be given.

Sometimes it is short; as, Danāe, Idēa, Sophīa, Symphonīa, Sī-spōis, Hȳades, Phāon, Deucalion, Pygmalion, Thebāis, &c.

Often it is long; as, Lycāon, Machlāon, Didymāon; Amphion, Arīon, Ixīon, Pandion; Nāis, Lāis, Achāī; Brīscis, Cadmēis; Latōus, & Latōis, Myrtōus, Nereīus, Priamētus; Achelōius, Minōius; Archelāus, Menclāus, Amphiarāus; Aēnēas, Peneus, Epēus, Acrisio-nēus, Adamantēus, Phēbeus, Gigantēus; Darius, Basilius, Eugenius, Bacchius; Cassiopeā, Cēsarēa, Chāronēa, Cytherēa, Galatēa, Laed-icēa, Medēa, Panthēa, Penelopēa; Clio, Enyō, Elegīa, Iphigenia, Alexandria, Thalia, Antiochīa, idololatria, lītānia, politēa, &c. Lā-er-tes, Dēiphōbus, Dējanīra, Trōes, herōes, &c.

Sometimes it is common; as, Choreā, plateā, Malea, Nerīdes, canopeum, Orion, Geryon, Eos, cōus, &c. So in foreign words, Mīchael, Isrāel, Raphaēl, Abraham, &c.

The accusative of nouns in eūs is usually short; as, Orphēa, Salmo-nēa, Capharēa, &c. but sometimes long; as, Idomenēa, Ilionēa, Virg. Instead of Elegīa, Cytherēa, we find Elegēia, Cythērēia, Ovid. But the quantity of Greek words cannot be properly understood without the knowledge of Greek.

In English a vowel before another is also sometimes lengthened ; as, scēnēce, idēa.

2. A vowel before two consonants, or before a double consonant, is long, (by position, as it is called;) as, ärma, fällo, äxis, gäza, mäjor ; the compounds of jugum excepted ; as, bijügus, quadrijügus, &c.

When the foregoing word ends in a short vowel, and the following begins with two consonants or a double one, that vowel is sometimes lengthened by position ; as,

Ferte citi flamas, date velā, scandite muros, Virg.

But this rarely occurs.

¶ A vowel before a mute and a liquid is common ; as the middle syllable in volucris, tenebræ, thus,

Et primō similis volūcri, mox vera volūcris, Ovid.

Nox tenēbras profert, Phœbus fugat inde tenēbras, Id.

But in prose these words are pronounced short. So peragro, pharetra, podagra, chiragra, celebris, latebræ, &c.

To make this rule hold, three things are requisite. The vowel must be naturally short, the mute must go before the liquid, and be in the same syllable with it. Thus, a in patri is made common in verse, because a in pater is naturally short, or always so by custom : but a in matri, acris, is always long, because long by nature or custom in mater and acer. In like manner the penult in salubris, ambulacrum, is always long ; because they are derived from salus, salūtis, and ambulātum. So a in arte, abluo, &c. is long by position, because the mute and the liquid are in different syllables.

L and r only are considered as liquids in Latin words ; m and n do not take place except in Greek words.

3. A contracted syllable is long ; as,
Nil, for nihil ; mī, for mihi ; cōgo, for coāgo ; aliūs, for aliūs ; tibīcen, for tibīcen ; it, for iit ; sōdes, for si audes ; nōlo, for non vōlo ; bigæ, for bijügæ, &c.

4. A diphthong is always long ; as,
Aurum, Cæfar, Eubæa, &c. Only præ in composition before a vowel is commonly short ; as, præire, præstus ; thus,

Nec totā tamen ille prior præunte carinā. Virg.

Stipitibus duris agitur sudibusque præstis. Id.

But it is sometimes lengthened ; as, _____ cum vacuus domino præiret Arion. Statius.

In English we pronounce several of the diphthongs short, by sinking the sound of one vowel ; but then there is properly no diphthong.

SPECIAL RULES.

Concerning the FIRST and MIDDLE SYLLABLES.

Preterites and Supines of two Syllables.

5. Preterites of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Vēni, vīdī, vīci.

Except bībi, scīdi, from scīdo, fīdi, from findo, tīli, dēdi, stēti.

6. Supines of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Vīsum, cāsum, mōtum.

INCREASE OF NOUNS.

A noun is said to increase, when it has more syllables in any of the oblique cases than in the nominative; as, res, rēgīs. Here re is called the increase or rement, and so through all the other cases. The last syllable is never esteemed a rement.

Some nouns have a double increase, that is, increase by more syllables than one; as, iter, itērēris.

A noun in the plural is said to increase, when in any case it has more syllables than the genitive singular; as, genōr, genērī, genērōrum.

Nouns of the first, fourth, and fifth declensions, do not increase in the singular number, unless where one vowel comes before another; as, frūctus, frūctūi; res, rēi; which fall under Rule 1.

Third Declension.

8. Nouns of the third declension which increase, make a and o long; e, i, and u short; as, Pietātis, bonōris; mu-līris, lapīdis, murmūris.

The chief exceptions from this rule are marked under the formation of the genitive in the third declension. But here perhaps it may be proper to be more particular.

INCREASE OF VERBS.

A verb is said to increase, when any part has more syllables than the second person singular of the present of the indicative active; as, amas, amāmus, where the second syllable ma is the increase or cremen^t; for the last syllable is never called by that name.

A verb often increases by several syllables; as, amas, amābāmūi; in which case it is said to have a first, second, or third increase.

10. In the increase of verbs, a, e, and o are long; i, and u, short; as,

The first or middle syllables of words which do not come under any of the foregoing rules, are said to be long or short by authority; and their quantity can only be discovered from the usage of the poets, which is the most certain of all rules.

REMARKS on the QUANTITY of the PENULT of WORDS.

Some make fortūtus, of three syllables; but it may be shortened like grañtūtus, Stat. Ab, apūd, ſemēl, precōr, capūt.

The following words are long, sāl, sōl, nil; pār and its compounds; fār, lār; Nār, cūr, fūr; also nouns in er which have ēris in the genitive; as, Cratēr, vēr, Ibēr, likewise aēr, ether: to which add Hebrew names; as, Jōb, Daniēl, David.

M final anciently made the foregoing vowel short; as, Militūm ōtō, Ennius. But by later poets, m in the end of a word is always cut off, when the next word begins with a vowel; thus, milit' oōtō; except in compound words; as, circūmāgo, circūmēo.

C, N.

17. C and N, in the end of a word, are long; as,

Ac, sic, nōn. So Greek nouns in n; as, Titān, Sīrēs, Salamīn, 'Eneān, Anchisēn, Circēn, Lacedaemon, &c.

The following words are short, nēc and donēc; forsētān, īn, forsān, tamēn, ān, vidēn; likewise nouns in en which have īnis in the genitive; as, carmēn, crimēn; together with several Greek nouns; as, Iliōn, Pgloōn, Alexīn.

The pronoun hic and the verb fac are common.

AS, ES, OS.

18. AS, ES, and OS, in the end of a word, are long; as, Mās, quīēs, bonōs.

The following words are short, anās, īs, from sum, and penēs; ōs having offis in the genitive, compōs, and impōs; also a great many Greek nouns of all these three terminations; as, Arcās, and Arcādās, herōōs, Phrygēs, Arcadōs, Tenēdōs, Mēlos, &c. and Latin nouns in es, having the penult of the genitive increasing short; as, Aleś, hebēs, obsēs. But Cerēs, parīēs, ariēs, abiēs, and pēs with its compounds, are long.

IS, US, YS.

19. IS, US, and YS, in the end of a word, are short; as, Turrīs, legīs, legīmūs, annūs, Capīs.

Exc. 1. Plural cases in is and us are long; as, Pennīs, librīs, nobīs, omnīs for omnes, fruītūs, manūs: also the genitive singular of the fourth declension; as, portūs. But bus in the dat. and abl. plur. is short; as, floribūs, fruītibūs, rebūs.

Exc. 2. Nouns in is are long, which have the genitive in ītīs, īnīs, or entīs; as, ītīs, Samnīs, Salamīs, Simīs; To these add the adverbs gratīs and forīs; the noun glīs, and vīs, whether it be a noun or a verb; also N in the second person singular, when the plural has ītīs; as, audīs, abīs, posīs. Rīs in the future of the subjunctive is common.

Exc. 3. Monosyllables in us are long; as, grūs, sūs: also nouns which in the genitive have ūris, ūdis, ūtīs, un- ts, or ōdis; as, tellūs, incūs, virtūs, amāthūs, tripūs. To these add the genitive of Greek nouns of the third declension; as, Cliūs, Sapphūs, Mantūs; also nouns which have u in the vocative; as, Pantbūs.

Exc. 4. Tethys is sometimes long, and nouns in ys, which have likewise yn in the nominative; as, Pbortȳs, Trachȳs.

The last syllable of every verse is common: Or, as some think, necessarily long, on account of the pause or suspension of the voice, which usually follows it in pronunciation.

The QUANTITY of DERIVATIVE and COMPOUND words.

Compounds.

21. Compounds follow the quantity of the simple words which compose them ; as,

Dēduco, of dē and duco. So, prōfēro, antēfēro, consōlor, dēnōtō, dēpecūlōr, deprāvō, despērō, despūmō, desquāmē, enōdō, ērūdō, exūdō, exārō, expāvēo, incērō, inhūmō, invēstīgo, prāgrāvō, prānātō, rēgēlō, appārō, appārēo, concāvūs, prāgrāvīs, dēsōlō, suffōco, diffidit from diffindō, and diffidit from diffido, indīco and indīcō, permānet from permāneo, and permānet from permānō, effōdit in the present, and effōdit in the perfect ; so exēdīt, and exēdīt ; devēnīt and devēnīt ; devēnīmūs and devēnīmūs ; reperiēmūs and reperiēmūs ; effūgit and effūgit, &c.

The change of a vowel or diphthong in the compound does not alter the quantity ; as, incīdo from in and cādo ; incīdo, from in and cādo, suffōco, from sub and faucē, faucis. Unless the letter following make it fall under some general rule ; as, ādmitto, pēccello, dēsculor, prōhibeo.

Exc. 1. Agnītum, cognītum, dējēro, pējēro, innūba, pronūba, maledīcus, veridīcus, nihilum, semisōpītus ; from nōtus, jūro, nūbo, dīco, hīlum, and sōpīo : ambītus, a participle from ambīo, is long ; but the substantives ambītus and ambītīo are short. Connubīum has the second syllable common.

Exc. 2. The preposition PRO is short in the following words : prōfundus, prōfugio, prōfūgus, prōnēpos, prōneptis, prōfestus, prōfari, prōfiteor, prōfānus, prōfectō, prōcella, prōtervus, and prōpāgo, a lineage ; pro in prōpāgo, a vine-stock or shoot, is long. Pro in the following words is doubtful : propago, to propagate ; propīno, profundo, propello, propulso, procūro, and Proserpīna.

Exc. 3. The inseparable prepositions SE and DI are long ; as, sēpārō, divello : except dīrīmō, dīsertus. Re is short ; as, rēmitto, rēfēro : except in the impersonal verb rēfert, compounded of res and fero.

Exc. 4. E, I, and O, in the end of the former compounding word are usually shortened ; as, nēfas, nēque, patēfacio, &c. omnīpotens, agrīcola, signīfīco, &c. duōdēcīm, hōdie, sacrōsanctus, &c. But from each of these there are many exceptions. Thus i is long when it is varied by cases ; as, quīdam, quīvis, tantidem, eīdem, &c. And when the compounding words may be taken separately ; as, ludīmagister, lucrifacīo, sīquis, &c. Idem in the masc. is long, in the neuter short ; alīo ubīque, ibīdem. But in ubīvis, and ubīcunque, the i is doubtful.

ACCENT.

Accent is the tone of the voice with which a syllable is pronounced.

In every word of two or more syllables, one syllable is sounded higher than the rest, to prevent monotony, or an uniformity of sound, which is disagreeable to the ear.

When accent is considered with respect to the sense, or when a particular stress is laid upon any word, on account of the meaning, it is called Emphāsis.

There are three accents, distinguished by their different sounds ; acute, grave, and circumflex.

1. The acute or sharp accent raises the voice in pronunciation, and is thus marked ['] ; as, prōfero, prōfer.

2. The grave or base accent depresses the voice, or keeps it in its natural tone ; and is thus marked [`] ; as, doētē. This accent properly belongs to all syllables which have no other.

3. The circumflex accent first raises, and then sinks the voice in some degree on the same syllable ; and is therefore placed only upon long syllables. When written, it has this mark, made up of the two former [^] ; as, amāre.

The accents are hardly ever marked in English books, except in dictionaries, grammars, spelling-books, or the like, where the acute accent only is used.

The accents are likewise seldom marked in Latin books, unless for the sake of distinction; as in these adverbs, aliquā, caeciter, dōcē, me, &c. to distinguish them from certain cases of adjectives, which are spelt in the same way. So poētā, gloriā, in the ablative: fructū, trānsītū, in the genitive: ufrītū, ufrītū, the genitive of me and te: ergō, on account of: ocīdū, he slew; Pomplī, for Pomplī; amārū, for amorū, &c.

VERSE.

A Verse is a certain number of long and short syllables disposed according to rule.

It is so called, because when the number of syllables requisite is completed, we always turn back to the beginning of a new line.

The parts into which we divide a verse, to see if it have its just number of syllables, are called Feet.

A verse is divided into different feet, rather to ascertain its measure, than to regulate its pronunciation.

FEET.

Poetic feet are either of two, three, or four syllables. When a single syllable is taken by itself, it is called a Cesura, which is commonly a long syllable.

1. Feet of two syllables.

Spondee ,	consists of two long; as, ōmnēs .
Pyrrhicbus ,	two short; as, dēs .
Iambus ,	a short and a long; as, āmāns .
Trocheus ,	a long and a short; as, stērūs .

2. Feet of three syllables.

Dactylus ,	a long and two short; as, scrībērē .
Anapaetus ,	two short and a long; as, pičtār .
Amphimacer , a long, a short, and a long; as, chōrītās .
Tribrachys , three short; as, dōmīnūs .

The following are not so much used.

Molossus ,	dēlēctānt .	Dispandens ,	ōrātōrēs .
Amphibrachys ,	hōnōrē .	Dijambus ,	āmōnītās .
Baccius ,	dōlōrē .	Cboriambus ,	pōntīfīcēs .
Antibaccius ,	pēllūntūr .	Ditrocheus ,	cāntīlēnā .
		Antipafus ,	ālexāndēr .
		Ionicus minor ,	prōpērābānt .
Proctenofaraticos ,	hōmīnībēt .	Ionicus major ,	cālcātībās .

Pœon primus, tēmpōribūs.	Epūritus primus, völūptatēs.
Pœon secundus, pōtētiā.	Epūritus secundus, pœnitentēs.
Pœon tertius, ānimātūs.	Epīritus tertius, dīscōrdīās.
Pœon quartus, cēlēritās.	Epīritus quartus, fōrtūnātūs.

SCANNING.

The measuring of verse, or the resolving of it into the several feet of which it is composed, is called Scanning.

When a verse has just the number of feet requisite, it is called Versus Acatalecticus, or Acatalecticus, an Acatalectic verse: If a syllable be wanting, it is called Catalecticus; If there be a syllable too much, Hypercatalecticus, or Hypermetēter.

The ascertaining whether the verse be complete, defective, or redundant, is called Deposito or Clausula.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF VERSE.

I. HEXAMETER.

The Hexamēter or heroic verse consists of six feet. Of these the fifth is a dactyle, and the sixth a spondee; all the rest may be either dactyles or spondees; as,

Lūdērē | quæ vēl- | lēm cālā | mō pēr | mīsl̄t ö- | grēft̄. Virg.
Infān- | dūm, Rē- | gīnā, jū- | bēs rēnō- | vārē dō- | lōrēm. Id.

A regular Hexameter line cannot have more than seventeen syllables, or fewer than thirteen.

Sometimes a spondee is found in the fifth place, whence the verse is called Spondaic; as,

Cārā Dē- | ūm sōbō- | lēs mā- | gnūm Jōvīs | incrē- | mēntūm. Virg.

This verse is used, when any thing grave, slow, large, sad, or the like is expressed. It commonly has a dactyle in the fourth place, and a word of four syllables in the end.

Sometimes there remains a superfluous syllable at the end. But this syllable must either terminate in a vowel, or in the consonant m, with a vowel before it; so as to be joined with the following verse, which in the present case must always begin with a vowel; as,

Omnīā | Mērcūrī- | ö sīmī- | līs vō- | cēmquē cō- | lōrēmque
Et flavos crines.

Those Hexameter verses sound best, which have dactyles and spondees alternately; as,

Ludere quæ vellem calamo permisit agresti. Virg.

Pinguis et ingratae premerefur caseuq; urbē. Id.

Or which have more dactyles than spondees; as,

Tityre tu patulæ recubans sub tegmine fagi.

It is esteemed a great beauty in an Hexameter verse, when by the use of dactyles and spondees, the sound is adapted to the sense; as,

Quadrupedante putrem sonitu quatit ungula campum. Virg.
Illi inter se magna vi brachia tollunt. Id.

Monstrum horrendum, informe, ingens, cui lumen ademptum.
Accipiunt inimicum imbre, rimisque fatiscunt. Id.

But what deserves particular attention in scanning Hexameter verse is the CÆSURA.

Cæsura is, when after a foot is completed, there remains a syllable at the end of a word to begin a new foot; as,

At rē-ginā grā-vi jām-dudum, &c.

The Cæsura is variously named, according to the different parts of the hexameter verse in which it is found. When it comes after the first foot, or falls on the third half-foot, it is called by a Greek name, Triomimēris: When on the fifth half-foot, or the syllable after the second foot, it is called Pentbemimēris: When it happens on the first syllable of the fourth foot, or the seventh half-foot, it is called Hepbibemimēris; and when on the ninth half-foot, or the first syllable of the fifth foot, it is called Ennēmimēris.

All these different species of the Cæsura sometimes occur in the same verse; as,

Illi lä-tūs n̄vē-ūm mōl-lī ful-tūs bŷa-cintbō. Virg.

But the most common and beautiful Cæsura is the penthemim; on which some lay a particular accent or stress of the voice in reading an hexameter verse thus composed, whence they call it the Cæsural pause; as,

Tityre dum rede-O, brevis est via, posce capellas. Virg.

When the Cæsura falls on a syllable naturally short, it renders it long; as the last syllable of fultus in the foregoing example.

The chief melody of an hexameter verse in a great measure depends on the proper disposition of the Cæsura. Without this a line consisting of the number of feet requisite will be little else than mere prose; as, Rōme manū terrūt impiger Hannibāl armis. Ennius.

The ancient Romans in pronouncing verse paid a particular attention to its melody. They not only observed the quantity and accent of the several syllables, but also the different stops and pauses which the particular turn of the verse required. In modern times we do not fully perceive the melody of Latin verse, because we have now lost the just pronunciation of that language, the people of every country pronouncing it in a manner similar to their own. In reading Latin verse, therefore, we are directed by the same rules which take place with respect to English verse.

The tone of the voice ought to be chiefly regulated by the sense. All the words should be pronounced fully; and the cadence of the verse ought only to be observed, so far as it corresponds with the natural expression of the words. At the end of each line there should be no fall of the voice, unless the sense requires it; but a small pause, half of that which we usually make at a comma.

2. PENTAMETER.

The Pentameter verse consists of five feet. Of these the two first are either dactyles or spondees; the third always a spondee; and the fourth and fifth, an anapæstus; as,

Nātū- | rā sēquī- | tūr sō- | mīnā quīs- | quē sūx. Propert.
Cārmīnī- | būs vī- | vēs tēm- | pūs īn om- | nē mēis. Ovid.

But this verse is more properly divided into two hemisticks or halves; the former of which consists of two feet, either dactyles or spondees, and a Cæsura; the latter, always of two dactyles and another Cæsura: thus,

Nātū- | rā sēquī- | tūr | sēmīnā | quīsquē sū- | s. |
Cārmīnī- | būs vī- | vēs | tēmpūs īn | omuč mē- | s.

The Pentameter usually ends with a dissyllable, but sometimes also with a polysyllable.

3. ASCLEPIADEAN.

The Asclepiadēan verse consists of four feet; namely, a spondee, twice a choriambus, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Mæcē- | nās ātāvīs | ēdītē rō- | gībūs. Hor.

But this verse may be more properly measured thus: In the first place, a spondee; in the second, a dactyle; then a cæsura; and after that two dactyles; thus,

Mæcē- | nās ata- | vis | edite | regibus.

4. GLYCONIAN.

The Glyconian verse has three feet, a spondee, choriambus, and pyrrhichius; as,

Nāvis | quā tībī crē- | dītūm. Hor.

Or it may be divided into a spondee and two dactyles; thus,

Nāvis | quā- | tībī | creditum.

5. SAPPHIC and ADONIAN.

The Sapphic verse has five feet, viz. a trochee, spondee, dactyle, and two trochees; thus,

Intē- | gēr vī- | tē, scēlē- | rīsque | pūrūs. Hor.

An Adonian verse consists only of a dactyle and spondee; as,

Jūpītēr | ūrget. Hor.

6. PHEROCRATIAN.

The Pherecratian verse consists of three feet, a spondee, dactyle, and spondee; thus,

Nīgrīs | zquōrā | vēntīs. Hor.

7. PHALEUCIAN.

The Phalecian verse consists of five feet, namely, a spondee, a dactyl, and three trochees; as,

Sūmmām | nēc mētū- | ās dī- | ēm, nēc | óptē. Mart.

8. The GREATER ALCAIC.

The greater Alcaic, called likewise Dactylic, consists of four feet; a Spondee or iambus, iambus and cæsura, then two dactyles; as,

Vr̄sē | r̄pū- | sē | nēcīl | sōrdīdā. Hor.

9. ARCHILOCHIAN.

The Archilochian iambic verse consists of four feet. In the first and third place, it has either a spondee or iambus; in the second and fourth, always an iambus; and in the end, a Cæsura; as,

Nēc sū- | mīt, sūt | pōnīt | sēcū- | r̄s. Hor.

10. The LESSER ALCAIC.

The lesser Dactylic Alcaic consists of four feet, namely, two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Arbītr̄- | ò pōpū- | lārīs | aūrā. Hor.

Of the above kinds of verse, the first two take their names from the number of feet of which they consist. All the rest derive their names from those by whom they were either first invented, or frequently used.

There are several other kinds of verse, which are named from the feet by which they are most commonly measured; such as the dactylic, trochaic, anapætic, and iambic. The last of these is most frequently used.

11. IAMBIC.

Of Iambic verse there are two kinds. The one consists of four feet, and is called by a Greek name Dimeter; the other consists of six feet, and is called Trimeter. The reason of these names is, that among the Greeks two feet were considered only as one measure in iambic verse; whereas the Latins measured it by single feet, and therefore called the dimeter quaternarius, and the trimeter senarius.

Originally this kind of verse was purely iambic, i. e. admitted of no other feet but the iambus; thus,

Dimeter, Inār- | sít æ- | stüō | sūs. Hor.

Trimeter, Sūs | čt ī- | psā Rō- | mā vī- | rībūs | rūt. Id.

But afterwards, both for the sake of ease and variety, different feet were admitted into the uneven or odd places; that is, in the first, third, and fifth places, instead of an iambus, they used a spondee, a dactyle, or an anapæstus, and sometimes a tribrachys. We also find a tribrachys in the even places, i. e. in the second place, and in the fourth; for the last foot must always be an iambus; thus,

Dimeter, Cānīdī- | ā trā- | čtāvīt | dāpēs. Hor.

Vidē- | rē prōpē- | rāntēs | dōmūm. Id.

Trimeter, Quōquō | scēlē- | sti rūi- | tīs aūt | cūr dēx- | tērīs. Id.
Pāvidūm- | quē lēpō- | r' aūt ād | vēnām | lāqučō | grūēm. Id.

Alitē- | būs āt- | quē cānē- | būs hōmē- | cīd' Hē- | čtōrēm.

In comic writers we sometimes find an iambic verse consisting of eight feet, therefore called Tetrameter, or Otonarius.

FIGURES in SCANNING.

The several changes made upon words to adapt them to the verse, are called Figures in Scanning. The chief of these are the Synalæpha, Eählißis, Synæris, Diaræsis; Systole, and Diastole.

1. SYNALOEPHA is the cutting off of a vowel or diphthong, when the next word begins with a vowel; as, to be scanned thus,

Conticere omnes, intentique ora tenebant. Virg.

Cōnticū- | ēr' ôm- | nēs īn- | tēntī- | qu' ôrā tē- | nēbānt.

The Synalæpha is sometimes neglected; and seldom takes place in the interjections, ó, heu, ah, prob, ve, vah, hei; as,

O pater, ô hominum, Divūmque æterna potestas. Virg.

Long vowels and diphthongs, when not cut off, are sometimes shortened; as,

Infulse Ionio in magno, quas dira Celæno. Virg.
 Credimus? an, qui amant, ipsi sibi somnia fingunt. Id.
 Victor apud rapidum Simoënta sub Ilio alto.
 Ter sunt conati imponere Pelio Ossam.
 Glauco et Panopeæ, et Ino Melicertæ.

2. EETHLIPSIS is, when m is cut off, with the vowel before m, in the end of a word, because the following word begins with a vowel; as,

O curas homiaum! O quantum est in rebus inane? Perh.
 thus,

O cū- | rās hōm̄- | n', o quān- | t' ēst īn | rēbūs īn- | īnē.

Sometimes the Synalœpha and Eethlipsis are found at the end of the verse; as,

Sternitur infelix alieno vulnere, cœlumque
 Adspicit, et dulces moriens reminiscitur Argos. Virg.
 Jamque iter emenſi, turres ac tecta Latinorum
 Ardua cernebant juvenes, murosque subibant. Id.

These verses are called Hypermetri, because a syllable remains to be carried to the beginning of the next line; thus, qu' Adspicit; r' Ardua.

3. SYNÆRESIS is the contraction of two syllables into one, which is likewise called Craſis; as, Phætho, for Phæthōn. So ēi in Thesei, Orphei, deinde, Pompei; ii in buic, ui; öi in proinde; ëä in aureä; thus,

Notus amor Phædræ, nota est injuria Thesei. Ovid.
 Proinde tona eloquio, solitum tibi. Virg.
 Filius huic contrâ, torquet qui fidera mundi. Id.
 Aureä percussum virgä, versumque venenis. Id.

So in antebac, eadem, alvearia, deſt, deerit, vehemens, an- teit, ecdem, alveo, graveolentis, omnia, semianimis, semibomo, fuviorum, totius, promontorium, &c. as,

Unâ cädemque viâ sanguisque animusque ferunter. Virg.
 Seu lento fuerint alvearia vimine texta. Id.
 Vilis amicorum est annona, bonis ubi quid deest. Hor.
 Divitis ubi agri, Troiæque opulentia deerit. Virg.
 Vehemens et hæridus puroque simillimus amni. Hor.

Te semper anteit dira necessitas. Alcaic. Her.
 Uno eodemque igni, sic nostro Daphnis amore. Virg.
 Cum resfuit campis, & jam se condidit alveo. Id.
 Inde ubi venere ad fauces graveolentis Averni. Id.
 Bis patriæ cecidere manus: quin protinus omnia. Id.
 Cædit semianimis Rutulorum calcibus arva. Id.
 Semihominis Caci facies quam dira tenebat. Id.
 Fluviorum rex Eridanus, camposque per omnes. Id.
 Magnanimosque duces, totiusque ex ordine gentis. Id.
 Inde legit Capreas, promontoriumque Minervæ. Ovid.

5. SYSTÖLÆ is when a long syllable is made short; as the penult in tulerunt; thus,

Matri longa decem tulérunt fastidia mensa. Virg.

6. DIASTOLE is when a syllable usually short is made long; as the last syllable in amor, in the following verse: Confidant, si tantus amōr, et mania condant.

To these may be subjoined the Figures of Diction, as they are called, which are chiefly used by the poets, tho' some of them likewise frequently occur in prose.

1. When a letter or syllable is added to the beginning of a word, it is called PROSTHESIS: as, gnavus, for nnavus; telūli, for tuli. When a letter or syllable is interposed in the middle of a word, it is called EPENTHESIS; as, relligio, for religio; induperator, for imperator. When a letter or syllable is added to the end, it is called PARACOGE; as, dicier, for dici.

2. If a letter or syllable be taken from the beginning of a word, it is called APHEKESIS; as, natus, for gnatus; tenderant, for *te*tenderant. If from the middle of a word, it is called SYNCOPE; as, dixti, for dixisti; deūm, for deorum. If from the end, APOCOPE; as, viden', for videsue; Antōni, for Antonii.

3. When a letter or syllable is transposed, it is called METATHESIS; as, pistris, for priſſis; Lybia, for Libya. When one letter is put for another, it is called ANTITHESIS; as, faciundum, for faciendum; illi, for illi; volutis, for vuluis.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF POEMS.

Any work composed in verse is called a Poem, (Poema or Canticum).

Poems are called by various names, from their subject, their form, the manner of treating the subject, and their style.

1. A poem on the celebration of a marriage is called an EPITHALAMIUM; on a mournful subject, an ELEGY or LAMENTATION; in praise of the supreme Being, a HYMN; in praise of any person or thing, a PANEGYRIC or ENCOMIUM; on the vices of any one, a SATIRE or INVECTIVE; a poem to be inscribed on a tomb, an EPITAPHE, &c.

2. A short poem adapted to the lyre or harp, is called an ODE, whence such compositions are called Lyric Poems: A poem in the form of a letter is called an EPISTLE; a short witty poem, playing on the fancies or conceits, which arise from any subject, is called an EPICRAM; as those of Catullus and Martial. A sharp, unexpected, lively turn of wit in the end of an epigram, is called its Point. A poem expressing the moral of any device or picture, is called an EMBLEM. A poem containing an obscure question to be explained, is called an ÆNIGMA or RIDDLE.

When a character is described so that the first letters of each verse, and sometimes the middle and final letters, express the name of the person or thing described, it is called an ACROSTIC; as the following on our Saviour;

*I*nter cuncta micans *I*gniti fidera cœl I,
*E*xpellit tenebras *E*toto Phœbus ut orb E;
*S*ic cœcas removet JESVS caliginis umbra S,
*V*ivificansque simul *V*ero præcordia mot V,
*S*olem justitiae *S*ese probat esse beati S.

3. From the manner of treating a subject, a poem is either Exegetic, Dramatic, or Mixt.

The Exegetic, where the poet always speaks himself, is of three kinds, Historical, Didactic or Instructive, (as the Satire or Epistle;) and Descriptive.

Of the Dramatic, the chief kinds are COMEDY, representing the actions of ordinary life, generally with a happy issue; and TRAGEDY, representing the actions and distresses of illustrious personages, commonly with an unhappy issue. To which may be added Pastoral Poems or BUCOLICS, representing the actions and conversations of shepherds; as most of the eclogues of Virgil,

The Mixt kind is where the poet sometimes speaks in his own person, and sometimes makes other characters to speak. Of this kind is chiefly the EPIC or HEROIC poem, which treats of some one great transaction of some great illustrious person, with its various circumstances; as, the wrath of Achilles in the Iliad of Homer; the settlement of Æneas in Italy in the Aeneid of Virgil; the fall of man in the Paradise Lost of Milton, &c.

4. The style of poetry, as of prose, is of three kinds, the simple, ernate, and sublime.

COMBINATION OF VERSES IN POEMS.

In long poems there is commonly but one kind of verse used. Thus Virgil, Lucretius, Horace in his Satyres and Epistles, Ovid in his Metamorphosis, Lucan, Silius Italicus, Valerius Flaccus, Juvenal, &c. always use Hexameter verse: Plautus, Terence, and other writers of Comedy, generally use the Iambic, and sometimes the Trochaic. It is chiefly in shorter poems, particularly those which are called Lyric poems, as the Odes of Horace and the Psalms of Buchanan, that various kinds of verse are combined.

A Poem which has only one kind of verse, is called by a Greek name, MONOCOLON, sc. poema v. carmen; or MONOCOLOS, sc. ode; that which has two kinds, DICOLON; and that which has three kinds of verse, TRICOLON.

If the same sort of verse return after the second line, it is called DICOLON DISTRÖPHON; as when a single Pentameter is alternately placed after an Hexameter, which is named Elegiac verse (carmen Elegiacum.) because it was first applied to mournful subjects; thus,

Flebilis iadignos, Elegia, solve capillos;
Ah! nimis ex vero nunc tibi somen erit. Ovid.

This kind of verse is used by Ovid in all his other works except the Metamorphoses; and also for the most part by Tibullus, Propertius, &c.

When a poem consists of two kinds of verse, and after three lines returns to the first, it is called Dicolon Trityrōphon; when after four lines, Dicolon Tetrastryrōphon; as,

Auream quisquis mediocritatem
Diligit, tutus caret obfoleti
Sordibus tecti; caret invidendā
Sobrius aulā. Horat.

When a poem consists of three kinds of verse, and after three lines always returns to the first, it is called Tri- colon Tristrophon; but if it returns after four lines, it is called Tricolon Tetristrophon; as when after two greater dactylic alcaic verses are subjoined an archilochian iambic and a lesser dactylic alcaic, which is named the Carmen Horatianum, or Horatian verse, because frequently used by Horace; thus,

Virtus recludens immeritis mori
Cælum, negatâ tentat iter viâ;
Cætusque vulgares, et udam
Spernit humum fugiente pennâ.

Any one of these parts of a poem, in which the different kinds of verse are comprehended, when taken by itself, is called a Strophe, Stanza, or Staff.

ENGLISH VERSE.

The quantity of syllables in English Verse is not precisely ascertained. With regard to this we are chiefly directed by the ear. Our monosyllables are generally either long or short, as occasion requires. And in words of two or more syllables, the accented syllable is always long.

Of English verse there are two kinds, one named Rhyme, and the other Blank verse.

In rhyme the lines are usually connected two and two, sometimes three and three in the final syllables. Two lines following one another thus connected, are called a Couplet, three lines, a Triplet.

In blank verse similarity of sound in the final syllables is carefully avoided.

In measuring most kinds of English verse, we find long and short syllables succeeding one another alternately; and therefore the accents should rest on every second syllable.

The feet by which English verse is commonly measured, are either Iambic, i. e. consisting of a short and a long syllable; as, aloft, create; or Trochaic, i. e. consisting of a long and a short syllable; as, holy, lofty. In verses of the former kind the accents are to be placed on the even syllables; in the latter, on the odd syllables. But the measure of a verse in English is most frequently determined by its number of syllables only, without dividing them into particular feet.

I. IAMBIC MEASURE comprises verses,

1. Of four syllables, or of two feet; as,

With ravish'd ears,
The monarch hears. Dryden.

2. Of six syllables, or of three feet; as,

Aloft in awful state,
The godlike hero sat. Dryden.

3. Of eight syllables, or of four feet; as,

While dangers hourly round us rise,
No caution guards us from surprise. Fran. Horace.

4. Of ten syllables, or of five feet, which is the common measure of heroic and tragic poetry; as,

Poetic fields encompass me around,
And still I seem to tread on Classic ground;
For here the muse so oft her harp has strung,
That not a mountain rears its head unsung. Addison.

Obs. 1. In measures of this last sort, we sometimes find the last line of a couplet or triplet stretched out to twelve syllables, or six feet, which is termed an Alexandrine verse; thus,

A needless Alexandrine ends the song,
Which, like a wounded snake, drags its slow length along. Pope.
Waller was smooth; but Dryden taught to join
The varying verse, the full resounding line,
The long majestic march, and energy divine. } Pope.

We also find the last verse of a triplet stretched out to fourteen syllables, or seven feet, but then it has commonly an Alexandrine verse before it; thus,

For thee the land in fragrant flow'rs is drest;
For thee the ocean smiles, and smooths her wavy breast,
And heaven itself with more serene and purer light is blest. } Dryd.

Sometimes also when there is no Alexandrine before it; thus,

At length by fate to power divine restor'd,
His thunder taught the world to know its lord,
The god grew terrible again, and was again ador'd. } Rowe.

Obs. 2. The more strictly iambic these verses are, the more harmonious. In several of them, however, particularly in those of ten syllables, we often meet with a trochee, and likewise a spondee, instead of an iambus. Verses of heroic measure sometimes also admit a dactyle, or an anapestus, in place of the iambus; in which case a verse of five feet may comprehend eleven, twelve, thirteen, and even fourteen syllables; thus,

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14
And many an humorous, many an amorous lay
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12
Was sung by many a Bard on many a day.

This manner of writing every syllable fully is now generally used by the best poets, and seems much more proper than the ancient custom of cutting off vowels by an apostrophe. Our language abounds too much in consonants of itself: the elision of vowels therefore should be avoided as much as possible, and ought only to be admitted where it is absolutely necessary; as, o'er, for over; e'er, for ever, &c. The same observation may be applied to every kind of measure.

II. TROCHAIC MEASURE comprises verses,

1. Of three syllables; as,

Dreadful gleams,
Dismal screams, &c. Pope.

2. Of five syllables; as,

In the days of old,
Stories plainly told,
Lovers felt annoy.

3. Of seven syllables; as,

Fairest piece of well form'd earth,
Urge not thus your haughty birth. Waller.

These are the measures which are most commonly used in English poetry, especially those of seven, eight, and ten syllables.

We have another measure very quick and lively, and therefore much used in songs, which may be called Anapestic measure, i. e. a verse consisting of feet of three syllables, two short, and one long, in which the accent rests upon every third syllable. Verses of anapestic measure consist of two, three, or four feet; that is, of six, nine, or twelve syllables; thus,

Let the loud trumpets sound,
Till the roofs all around,
The shrill echoes rebound. Pope.

From the plains, from the woodlands, and groves,
How the nightingales warble their loves! Shenstone.

May I govern my passions with absolute sway,
And grow wiser and better, as life wears away.

In this measure, a syllable is often retrenched from the first foot; as,

The swórd or the dárт
Shall pierce my sad hárт. Addison.

Ye shépherds so chéerful and gáy,
Whose flócks never cárlessly róam, &c.

I vwó'd to the múses my time and my cáre,
Since néither could wín me the smíles of the fáir. Shéfsons.

These measures are variously combined together in Stanzas, particularly in short poems; for generally in longer works the same measure is always observed.

Stanzas are composed of more or fewer verses, and these variously diversified, according to the nature of the subject, and the taste of the poet. But when they are stretched out to a great length, and consist of verses of many different measures, they are seldom agreeable.

Such poems as consist of stanzas, which are not confined to a certain number of verses, nor the verses to a certain number of syllables, nor the rhymes to a certain distance, are called Irregular, or Pindaric odes. Of this kind are several of the poems of Cowley. But in the odes of later authors, the numbers are exact, and the strophes regular.

Stanzas of four lines are the most frequent, in which the first verse answers to the third, and the third to the fourth. There is a stanza of this kind, consisting of verses of eight and of six syllables alternately, which is very often used, particularly in sacred poetry. Here for the most part the second and fourth lines only rhyme together; as,

When all thy méríes, O my God,
My rising soul surveys;
Transported with the view, I'm lost
In wónder, love, and praise. Addison.

Sometimes also the first and third lines answer to one another ; as,

Keep silence, all created things,
And wait your Maker's nod :
The muse stands trembling while she sings
The honours of her God. Watts.

This stanza is used in place of what anciently was comprehended in two verses, each consisting of fourteen syllables, having a pause after the eighth syllable.

Several of these measures are often varied by double endings, that is, by putting an additional short syllable at the end of the verse ; as,

1. In heroic measure, or verses of ten syllables, both in blank verse and rhyme.

In Blank Verse.

'Tis heaven itself that points out an hereafter. Addison.

In Rhyme, where it is called Double Rhyme.

The piece, you think, is incorrect ? Why take it,
I'm all submission ; what you'd have it, make it. Pope.

2. In verses of eight syllables.

They neither added nor confounded,
They neither wanted nor abounded.

3. In verses of six syllables.

'Twas when the seas were roaring,
With hollow blasts of wind,
A damsel lay deplored
All on a rock reclined. Gay.

4. In verses of seven syllables.

As Palemon, unsuspecting,
 Prais'd the fly musician's art ;
 Love, his light disguise rejecting,
 Lodg'd an arrow in his heart. Shenstone.

5. In verses of three syllables.

Glooms inviting,
 Birds delighting. Addison.

6. In the Anapaestic measure.

Ah ! friend, 'tis but idle to make such a bother,
 Fate, fate has ordain'd us to plague one another. Shenstone.

Now with furies surrounded,
 Despairing, confounded. Pope.

Double Rhyme is used chiefly in poems of wit and humour, or in burlesque compositions.

Verses with double endings, in blank verse, most frequently occur in tragic poetry, where they often have a fine effect ; thus,

I here devote thee for my prince and country ;
 Let them be safe, and let me nobly perish. Tennyson.

The dropping dews fell cold upon my head,
 Darkness inclos'd, and the winds whistled round me. Otway.

APPENDIX,

Of Capitals, Abbreviations, Numerical Characters, and the Division of the Roman Month.

Capitals, or large letters, are used at the beginning of sentences, of verses, and of proper names. Some use them at the beginning of every substantive noun. Adjectives, verbs, and other parts of speech, unless they be emphatical, commonly begin with a small letter.

Capitals, with a point after them, are often put for whole words; thus, A. marks Aulus, C. Caius, D. Decimus, L. Lucius, M. Marcus, P. Publius, Q. Quintius, T. Titus. So F. stands for Filius, and N. for Nepos; as, M. F. Marci Filius, M. N. Marci Nepos. In like manner, P. C. marks Patres Conscripti; S. C. Senatus Consultum; P. R. Populus Romanus; S. P. Q. R. Senatus Populusque Romanus; U. C. Urbs Condita; S. P. D. Salutem plurimam dicit; D. D. D. Dat, dicat, dedicat; D. D. C. Q. Dat, dicat, consecratque; H. S. written corruptly for L. L. S. Sestertius, equal in value to two pounds of brass and a half; the two pounds being marked by L. L. Libra, Libra, and the half by S. Semis. So in modern books, A. D. marks Anno Domini; A. M. Artium Magister, Master of arts; M. D. Medicina Doctor; LL. D. Legum Doctor; N. B. Nota Bene, &c.

Sometimes a small letter or two is added to the capital; as, Etc. Et cetera; Ap. Appius; Cn. Cneius; Op. Opiter; Sp. Spurius; Ti. Tiberius; Sex. Sextius; Cos. Consul; Coss. Consules; Imp. Imperator; Impp. Imperatores.

In like manner, in English, Esq. Esquire; Dr. Debtors or Doctor; Acct. Account; MS. Manuscript; MSS. Manuscripts; Do. Ditto; Rt. Hon. Right Honourable, &c.

Small letters are likewise often put as abbreviations of a word; as, i. e. id est; h. e. hoc est; e. g. exempli gratia; v. g. verbi gratia.

Capitals were used by the ancient Romans, to mark numbers. The letters employed for this purpose were C. I. L. V. X. which are therefore called Numerical Letters. I. denotes one, V. five, X. ten, L. fifty, and C. a hundred. By the various combination of these five letters, all the different numbers are expressed.

The repetition of a numerical letter repeats its value. Thus, II. signifies two; III. three; XX. twenty; XXX. thirty; CC. two hundred, &c. But V. and L. are never repeated.

When a letter of a less value is placed before a letter of a greater, the less takes away what it stands for from the greater; but being placed after, adds what it stands for to the greater; thus,

IV.	Four.	V.	Five.	VI.	Six.
IX.	Nine.	X.	Ten.	XI.	Eleven.
XL.	Forty.	L.	Fifty.	LX.	Sixty.
XC.	Ninety.	C.	A hundred.	CX.	A hundred and ten.

A thousand is marked thus, cīo, which in later times was contracted into m. Five Hundred is marked thus, iō, or, by contraction, n.

The annexing of o to iō. makes its value ten times greater; thus iōo. marks five thousand; and iōoō. fifty thousand.

The prefixing of c, together with the annexing of o to the number cīo, makes its value ten times greater; thus, cciōo, denotes ten thousand; and cccciōo. a hundred thousand. The ancient Romans, according to Pliny, proceeded no farther in this method of notation. If they had occasion to express a larger number, they did it by repetition; thus, cccciōo, cccciōo. signified two hundred thousand, &c.

We sometimes find thousands expressed by a straight line drawn over the top of the numerical letters. Thus, III. denotes three thousand; X. ten thousand.

But the modern manner of marking numbers is much more simple, by these ten characters, or Figures, which, from the ten fingers of the hands, were called Digits;

1 one, 2 two, 3 three, 4 four, 5 five, 6 six, 7 seven, 8 eight, 9 nine, 0 nought, nothing. The first nine are called Significant Figures. The last is called a Cypher.

Significant figures placed after one another, increase their value ten times at every remove from the right hand to the left thus,

8 Eight 85 Eighty-five. 856 Eight hundred and fifty-six. 8566 Eight thousand five hundred and sixty-six.

When cyphers are placed at the right hand of a significant figure, each cypher increases the value of the figure ten times: thus,

1 One. 10 Ten. 100 A hundred. 1000 A thousand.
2 Two. 20 Twenty. 200 Two hundred. 2000 Two thousand.

Cyphers are often intermixed with significant figures, thus, 20202, Twenty thousand two hundred and two.

The superiority of the present method of marking numbers over that of the Romans, will appear by expressing the present year both in letters and figures, and comparing them together: CLO, MCCIXXX, or M, DCCLXXIX, 1780.

As the Roman manner of marking the days of their months was quite different from ours, it may perhaps be of use here to give a short account of it.

Division of the Roman Months.

The Romans divided their months into three parts, by Kalends, Nones, and Ides. The first day of every month was called the Kalends; the fifth day was called the Nones; and thirteenth day was called the Ides; except in the months of March, May, July, and October, in which the nones fell upon the seventh day, and the ides on the fifteenth.

In reckoning the days of their months, they counted backwards. Thus, the first day of January was marked Kalendis Januariis or Januarii, or by contraction, Kal. Jan. The last day of December, Pridie Kalendas Januarias or Januarii, scil. ante. The day before that, or the thirtieth day of December, Tertio Kal. Jan. scil. die ante; or, Ante diem tertium Kal. Jan. The twenty-ninth day of December, Quarto Kal. Jan. And so on, till they came back to the thirteenth day of December, or to the ides, which were marked Idibus Decembris, or Decembris: The day before the ides, Pridie Idus Dec. scil. ante: the day before that, Tertio Id. Dec. and so back to the nones, or the fifth day of the month, which was marked, Nonis Decembris or Decembris; The day before the nones, Pridie Non Dec. &c. and thus through all the months of the year.

In Leap year, that is, when February has twenty-nine days, which happens every fourth year, both the 24th and the 25th days of that month were marked, Sexto Kalendas Martii or Martias; and hence this year is called Bissextilis.

JUNIUS, APRILIS, SEPTEMBER, NOVEMBRE tricenos;
Unum plus reliqui; FEBRUS tenet octo viginti;
At si bissextilus fuerit; superadditur unus.
Tu primam mensis lucem dic esse kalendas,
Sex MAIUS, nonas, OCTOBER, JULIUS, et MARS,
Quatuor at reliqui; dahit idus quilibet octo.
Omnes post idus luges dic esse kalendas,
Nomen sortiri debent a mense sequenti.

Thus, the 14th day of April, June, September, and October, was marked XVIII. Kal. of the following month; the 15th, XVII. Kal. &c. The 14th day of January, August, and December, XIX. Kal. &c. So the 16th day of March, May, July, and October, was marked XVII. Kal. &c. And the 14th day of February, XVI. Kal. Martii or Martias. The names of all the months are used as Substantives or Adjectives, except Aprilis, which is used only as a Substantive.
